MANNING AND BETHEA ARE INAUGURATED

GOVERNOR AND LIEUTENANT TAKES OATHS WHILE GREAT THROG CHEERS.

CROWD PASSES INTO HALL

Assemblies Outside and Stands There, Eager to Get Inside and See Proceedings.

Columbia.—Hundreds of South Carolinians witnessed the inauguration of Gov. Richard I. Manning and Lieut. Gov. Andrew J. Bethea Tuesday.

The inauguration of Manning reminded some of those who attended it of the historic day on which Wade Hampton was inducted into office as governor in 1876.

By 11 o'clock the galleries of the hall of the house were filled with people. At 11:20 o'clock Gov. Manning's family party occupied seats reserved for them on the floor of the house.

Citizens of Sumter, Gov. Manning's home, could be easily recognized in the crowd by the ribbon badges they wore.

At 11:55 o'clock Speaker Hoyt called the house to order to transact a little routine business.

At noon the senate made its way from its chamber to the hall of the house, the members walking in single file through the press in the rotunda.

At 12:08 o'clock the sergeant-at-arms cleared the aisle for the governor, the lieutenant governor and their escorts.

The governor-elect and lieutenant governor-elect and their escorts entered the hall in the following order: Richard I. Manning with George W. Dick, Christie Benet with W. C. Cathcart, Gov. Charles A. Smith with George K. Laney, Andrew J. Bethea with R. D. Epps.

Justice R. C. Watts, Justice D. E. Hydrick, Justice George W. Gage, Justice T. B. Fraser, the Rev. Arthur R. Berkeley Judge J. S. Wilson, State officials and professors of the University of South Carolina.

Cheers and hand clapping greeted the party when it entered the hall of the house. There was more applause, as the officials took their appointed places on the rostrum.

The Rev. Arthur R. Berkeley of Philadelphia, rector of the Church of the Holy Communion, and son-in-law of Gov. Manning, offered the invocation.

There was some disorder after the invocation. The crowd in the lobby and rotunda strove to get into the hall of the house.

Oath is Administered. Gov. Manning arose and Chief Justice Eugene B. Gary administered the oath of office to him.

SALIENT POINTS FROM GOV. RICHARD I. MANNING'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS BEFORE THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

I have faith in our people; I believe that they want the laws enforced, and their conscience is awakened on this subject.

Let me add another word, not as a threat, but as a warning; if in any community the lawful authorities fail to enforce the laws, it will then be my duty to see that the laws are obeyed.

We are progressive Democrats and we must have the courage to do justly to each and every class of our citizens, even if it requires legislation hitherto untried by us.

In my judgment, the people of this State, regardless of party, owe a debt of gratitude to the last State convention of the Democratic party for adopting rules and regulations governing the primary elections.

But the fact stares us in the face that we are in a period of general business depression and we must jealously consider every item of expenditure, to save the people from unnecessary burden.

The people realize and demand that the shame of illiteracy must be blotted out from us forever.

I appeal to all citizens to join me in the determination to place and to keep South Carolina in the forefront among her sister States in progress, in moral tone, and in an enlightened and educated citizenship.

repeated by Gov. Manning, the crowd broke into applause. When the cheering ended, Gov. Manning delivered his inaugural address, reading it from manuscript.

The audience cheered his declaration that he intended to enforce the law and applauded his tribute to President Wilson. There was another demonstration of approval by the listeners when Manning recommended the enactment into law of the rules that governed the last Democratic primary.

At this point Gov. Manning's address was interrupted by confusion at the doors of the hall of the house, where the press was greatest. Women caught in the crush screamed shrilly and men mounted on chairs and desks endeavored to get the eager throng in the rotunda and lobby not to push into the crowded hall.

The governor-elect wore a gray business suit and derby hat. The governor's escort assembled in the supreme court room on the first floor of the state house. The party walked from the court room through double lines of cheering university students. The lines reached from the door of the court room to the rotunda on the second floor.

The crowd that attended the inauguration was extremely orderly. There were no signs of rowdiness, but the pressure of those who tried to get into the hall and galleries caused a great deal of discomfort, especially to women.

Among the numerous Columbia relatives of Gov. Manning are Mrs. A. R. Heywood, Mrs. Benjamin Halle, Mrs. Edward Clarkson, Elary Canteay and Edward B. Canteay, children of the venerable Edward B. Canteay of Camden. Maj. Canteay and the governor's father were first cousins, their mothers having been sisters. Another Columbia relative of the governor is John Manning Canteay, a cousin.

Catty Trick

When a family moves to a new house it not infrequently happens that the cat disapproves of the change and returns to its old abode at the first opportunity. Now cats are very careful about their feet, and many county folk will tell you that if a cat's feet are thrust into butter on the first night of its arrival in the new quarters, it will take so long to lick clean the sensitive surfaces that it will become accustomed to its new surroundings and reconciled to the change before its feet are free from all traces of the butter.

His "Bill"

He had spent half the winter in Washington endeavoring to get a private bill through congress, and returned to its old abode at the first opportunity. Now cats are very careful about their feet, and many county folk will tell you that if a cat's feet are thrust into butter on the first night of its arrival in the new quarters, it will take so long to lick clean the sensitive surfaces that it will become accustomed to its new surroundings and reconciled to the change before its feet are free from all traces of the butter.

Placing Both of Them.

"It was simply a question of veracity between us," said the oldest inhabitant. "He said I was a liar, and I said he was one." "Humph!" rejoined the village postmaster. "That's the first time I ever hear of either of you telling the truth."

Cut Out Sale of Liquor.

Economy is Urged.

Basle.—The Prussian minister of commerce has urged the German people to cook potatoes in the skins so as to save the loss due to peeling them when raw.

When Boiling Milk.

When boiling milk, if a few spoonfuls of water is put into the saucepan, first letting it boil rapidly for a few minutes before the milk is added, the milk will not burn, however hot the fire may be.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR A. J. BETHEA

His Inaugural Address Delivered Immediately Following the Address of Governor Manning.

Columbia.—Andrew Jackson Bethea was inaugurated lieutenant-governor of South Carolina. He delivered his inaugural address immediately following the address of Gov. Manning, and is as follows:

Standing here in this historic chamber to assume for the first time the duties of the office of lieutenant-governor, I am filled with mingled feelings of joy and responsibility. Proud as I am of the generous confidences of the people of South Carolina which elevates me to this place of honor, I cannot escape, if I would, the obligations of the sacred trust. This day to me, therefore, is a day of dedication and not of triumph. It marks the beginning of political careers for some; it should signify for all the inauguration of new standards, new purposes and new ideals in the public service.

It is not for me to recommend to this honorable body what course to pursue or what laws to pass. That is the duty of a co-ordinate branch of the government, and I shall neither now nor hereafter consciously encroach upon the rights of others or attempt to arrogate to myself powers which do not by right belong to the office I hold.

With singular singleness of purpose I shall strive to assist and direct the machinery of this body so as to further the work which you undertake to accomplish for the welfare of the sovereign people.

But you will permit me to venture to suggest a keynote for the session of the Senate of 1915. A brief, program of progressive and constructive measures, concentration of effort to make them effective and a speedy adjournment would, in my judgment, make this a memorable session.

Our people are confronted at this time with economic and industrial conditions hitherto unknown. The terrible European war and the fulfillment of the prophecy of Isaiah, "Ye shall buy without money," have brought distress and suffering to our State and country. Relief cannot be had in legislation. But in the very performance of the task at hand we can render a highly patriotic service.

Reflecting the will of the people we can set a worthy example in conserving time and money, in thrift, in industry, in courage and in optimism in what we attempt to do. Forgetting the adversities of the past and present, except as they serve a school us for future emergencies or for the solution of perplexing problems, and remembering only our duty to the State, let us press forward to perform that duty as God gives us the power and wisdom to see it.

Let us address our selves with devotion, energy and zeal to the work before us so that we may merit the well-done of the people and enjoy the satisfaction of an approving conscience.

The people of South Carolina are tired of turmoil and strife, of political bickering and discontent, of disorganization and disruption. They want peace and harmony and good will throughout the State. Let us demand the restoration of decency, dignity and truth to their rightful places of prestige and power.

A statesmanship distinguished for brilliancy such as is represented in her Calhouns, Haynes and Prestons may not be possible, perhaps is not needed in South Carolina to-day. But the commonwealth needs and the people crave a type of service which in wisdom, in conviction, in honest and patriotic purpose finds its highest expression and true exemplification and glory in Woodrow Wilson, the Southern born, South Carolina trained, democratic President of these United States.

"Senatorial courtesy" is considered by some a beautiful and time-honored custom of the South Carolina Senate. When not abused it is a privilege entirely right and proper. But when too freely granted or used for a selfish purpose, it is a practice fraught with great danger to the State. Let us not forget that we are here by the favor of the people whose servants we are, and that local and personal interests must be made to subserve the commonweal.

Will the Senate of the State of South Carolina measure up to this high standard? Will it answer the challenge to the task of redemption and restoration as voiced by the people at the ballot box? Will it stamp its achievements with wisdom and virtue? There can be but one answer for those who understand and appreciate the worth and high purpose of its members, and that answer is: It will try and it will succeed.

The peerless Robert E. Lee, the memory of whose birth is cherished in every home and inspires every heart in the South this day, once said that the English is the sublimest word in the English language. The spirit of the chieftain comes back today and down the years we hear with fresh meaning his words: "I have led the young men of the South in battle; I shall devote my remaining energy to training young men to do their duty in life."

Let us emulate such devotion to duty, to fit it is needed in the forum as well as on the field, in peace as well as in war.

Gentlemen of the South Carolina Senate, I greet you, happy in the thought that it is your privilege and mine to serve the State at a time prophetic of so much good for the civic and moral betterment of the people. To this end, by the help of Almighty God, I pledge my highest endeavor and dedicate every human power at my command.

When Boiling Milk. When boiling milk, if a few spoonfuls of water is put into the saucepan, first letting it boil rapidly for a few minutes before the milk is added, the milk will not burn, however hot the fire may be.

To Wash White Silk. Add a tablespoonful of ammonia to every two quarts of warm water. Don't use soap. Dip garment up and down, and when it looks clean place in clean water, rinse and iron before dry.

ALIENIST PROPES STATE HOSPITAL

A. P. HERRING, M. D., OF MARYLAND WILL STUDY CONDITIONS THOROUGHLY.

WILL ELIMINATE POLITICS

Chief Executive Secures Co-Operation of Officials and Board of Regents for Investigation.

Columbia.—After considering the question for more than two months Gov. Richard I. Manning announced his plan for a thorough and unbiased investigation of the state hospital for the insane. The plan which has been decided upon by the new chief executive has been laid before all concerned and has met with hearty approval.

The plan in brief calls for a complete study of conditions existing at the asylum by a personal representative of the governor. An exhaustive legislative investigation will not be asked by the governor as has been published. Gov. Manning wants to get the facts. He said that he intended to go about the matter in a business-like manner.

The governor announced that he had named A. P. Herring, M. D., secretary of the insanity commission of Maryland, as his personal representative to make the investigation of the asylum. Dr. Herring arrived in Columbia a few days ago and after a conference with the governor went immediately to work and will report at the earliest possible moment.

The selection of Dr. Herring by Gov. Manning was made after a careful investigation of his record. The desire was to secure a man capable in every way to make the desired investigation. Dr. Herring is a man of national reputation in his profession.

Just after his election last fall Gov. Manning took up the matter of the asylum. He studied the question thoroughly and came to the conclusion that politics should be eliminated. He decided that a report on conditions should be made by an expert from without the state of South Carolina. Gov. Manning said that the asylum had been a "football in politics" in South Carolina and that he desired to formulate plans to help the state's "most sacred wards." To secure a report on conditions in the asylum that would be accepted by all as fair and impartial, he looked about for the best man available for the work.

T. J. Strait, M. D., superintendent of the asylum, was called into conference by Gov. Manning. Dr. Strait said that he was highly pleased with the proposed investigation by the personal representative of the governor and that Dr. Herring would be given access to every department of the asylum. Later the governor held a conference with Julius H. Taylor, M. D., and James A. Summersett, members of the board of regents. The plan of investigation was well received by these two members and others.

Machinery for Coaling Plant. Charleston.—Between 50 and 100 carloads of machinery for the Southern Railway Company's coal handling plant on the Cooper river will arrive in Charleston within the next week or ten days, according to a statement made by an official of the company here. It is thought that the machinery has already been loaded on the cars in Cleveland, Ohio, where it was designed and constructed especially for the local plant. Rapid progress has lately been made on the pier and trestle work which will connect the pier with the mainland. It was stated that very little space, if any, remained to be spanned by the trestle.

Blanket Proclamation. Columbia.—Gov. Richard I. Manning signed a proclamation revoking the commissions of all "constables, special constables, law agents, deputies and detectives," named by former governors. The proclamation was issued on the ground that "it is primarily the duty of officers of the various counties in this state to enforce the law."

Will Vote Water Bonds. Union.—The citizens of Union will vote "yes" or "no" upon the question of issuing $25,000 in bonds for the improvement and extension of the waterworks system of the city. The vote will be had on February 16. If the issue carries there will be the extension of the water mains and the enlargement of the water supply. Last summer the water supply ran very low several times and caused great inconvenience to the citizens to say nothing of the risk as to fire. Union has good water but no tenuous of it.

Flying Squadron to Columbia. Columbia.—In co-operation with the movement for state-wide prohibition for South Carolina, the Flying Squadron of America, an organization campaigning for national prohibition, will conduct a series of seven meetings in Columbia, February 20, 21 and 22. The Flying Squadron, a strong organization of temperance speakers, is making a unique campaign throughout the United States, fighting for national prohibition by 1920. It will visit every state capital and some 200 other cities during the season.

Smith May Figure Again. Columbia.—Gov. Charles A. Smith recently denied the published statement that he was to retire from politics at the expiration of his five-day term as governor. He intimated that "the lightning might strike again," but that the future alone would tell. Gov. Smith continued to receive letters of congratulations from friends in this and other states. One letter came from the far West. Many notaries public were appointed during his five day term and several petitions for pardon were received.

SEEMED A PROPER QUESTION

When You Consider It, How Was Old Dad Bled to Know as to Strangers' Character?

"Eh-ya!" philosophically observed old Dad Bled, the veteran Okla. cattle baron. "You kin't never tell about some people. Last time I was out in Kay See, I went on top of the landscape over, as it were, and about the first thing I seen was a feller over near the east edge, wrinkling his face, tearing his hair and other wise acting in a sort of general way."

"Going to jump, Podner?" says "Yes," he yelled. "Jump and end it all! Ah-rr-rr!"

"I judged so," says I, "but it's a fair question, which way do you expect to go?"

"Well, sir, he acted like he was provoked about something, and snarled around like a scolded dog for a spell, and then went down the way we'd come up. How'n all did I know what kind of a life he'd been leading?" Kansas City Star.

SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Try Grandma's Recipe of Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wright's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.
