ARRESTS MADE IN CAMDEN

THIRTEEN ALLEGED BLIND TIGERS FACE CHARGES.

Camden, June 26.—A big surprise was sprung upon the blind tigers operating in and around Camden Thursday when city officers arrested 13 white men and negroes, charged with selling whiskey. For a long while this class of lawbreakers has been operating boldly. Special Officer G. Ernest Bateman, former police officer here, now holding a commission from the governor, secured the evidence against the men after a month's work. Chief Whitaker requested the governor to send him a man, and Mr. Bateman's success in rounding up the gang shows that a wise selection was made. The white men under arrest are Lewis Lomansky and Tom Peach, both old offenders. Some of the negroes are old offenders, many of them having served sentences and paid fine in former cases. The negroes in jail are Tom Williams, Coot Arthur, Gibb Scriven, Eli Pauly, Joe McGirt, Tom Lawson, Jim Belton, Deigar Hunter, Jake Monroe, Harry Brisbane, Charlie Johnson. Joe McGirt is a brother of James McGirt, the notorious blind tiger convicted here two years ago, who was paroled.

U. D. C. HONOR THE GREAT GEN. R. H. ANDERSON

Ingatitude is about the meanest and most contemptible of all human sins. Yet even the best of us are sometimes, it is hoped unwittingly, guilty of such. Certainly the people of South Carolina have been so, in allowing the glorious record of the distinguished soldier, Gen. Richard H. Anderson to pass into forgetfulness. He offered his life and gave his talents and energies for the safety of our State and the Confederacy and how few now know what he did for us. His splendid services won the confidence of the immortal Lee, who frequently commended him for what he achieved with his Brigade, first, then with his Division, and last with the Army Corps he commanded.

The Veterans and Daughters have started a most worthy movement to redeem this ingratitude of our people, by the publication of his life. The "Dick" Anderson Camp U. D. C. V. and Chapter U. D. C. of Sumter, have started it; the recent Rock Hill Reunion endorsed it; now Mrs. J. L. McWhirter, the president of the South Carolina Division U. D. C., issues the following glowing endorsement and as the Daughters have taken hold success must speedily crown the effort, as they always succeed in all patriotic work they undertake.

Dear Daughters: I most heartily endorse the plans formed for securing the means to publish a book of the "Life of Gen. Richard H. Anderson," one of South Carolina's own brave sons, who has been so long neglected. I hope every Confederate Chapter and individual member in the S. C. Division U. D. C. will aid in this most splendid work to rescue from oblivion the name of one of South Carolina's greatest heroes.

All of our people should help. Help by either subscribing for copies of the book, making contributions or loaning sums (to be repaid) to finance the work.

TEXAS RANGER

FORD WILL DO AS PRESIDENT ASKS

Detroit, June 26.—There has been much criticism of Henry Ford over a story sent out of Detroit that he would discharge all men who enlisted in the militia and would not help their families.

"I made no such statement and no such order has gone out," said Mr. Ford. "Only about one of every thousand of our men belong to the militia—to be exact, 87 out of 33,000—and when they come back it certainly will be without prejudice.

"The papers print a false statement sent out for sensational purposes, and on that false statement pass judgment on me. In the end the people get the right of everything and so they will in this."

"What about the possible war?" he was asked.

"Anything that President Wilson will call on me to do, I will do," he said. "I speak of him merely as President, as President of all the people. I would do the same of Mr. Hughes were President."

"What would you do if you had a strike," Mr. Ford was asked.

"I'd try to treat the men so there would be no trouble, but if I couldn't agree with them I'd never call on the militia to shoot them up."

YOUR HEALTH IS IMPORTANT.

It is a well known fact that most all diseases have one symptom in common. And all who have consulted or called in a Doctor to treat them know that one of the first questions asked, "Are you constipated?" This word is the keynote. This condition lies at the bottom of all minor ailments with which the average individual meets. Look over the files of any druggist and the basis of the great per cent of them all are laxative. The Doctor knows if you can get the intestines cleansed and regularity of the bowels half the battle is won. Nine persons out of ten can trace the beginning of their illness to a period of constipation, and indigestion. When constipation exists, it naturally follows "as does the night the day" that then will be faulty digestion. This will lead to nervous indigestion, then follow in rapid order, dizziness, headache, heart flutter, loss of appetite, and that terrible condition, nervous indigestion, that makes life miserable and homes unhappy.

You who suffer know what all this means to yourself and family. This condition can be relieved. There is a way. The chance to be free is before you and this chance is one that will cost you absolutely nothing if it fails, a true and tried remedy. The treatment used by Professor of the University of New York, a teacher of physicians, a remedy that is not "a cure-all" but a remedy that is made for one purpose only, the relief of indigestion, and its attendant ills, nervous indigestion. All the ingredients used in its preparation are obtained from Parke Davis laboratory, the standard drug house of America. They are the highest priced and purest drugs obtainable. Ask your Doctor or your druggist, he will tell you they are the best. So confident are we of the worth and merit of this preparation and its prompt results for the specific condition, nervous indigestion and constipation, that we will refund the purchase price if it fails to meet our guarantee.

If you suffer from constipation and nervous indigestion come and be relieved. Call for "CINOT" the restorer of indigestion. For Sale only by BOWDEN-SIMPSON DRUG CO. $1 for 64 DOSES. Adv.

BUSINESS MEN IN CAVALRY TRAINING CAMP

ENRICHES NOT

That was a wise saying which embodied the thought that "who steals my purse, steals trash; but he who filches from me my good name steals that which not enriches him, and leaves me poor indeed. The world has long since learned the wisdom and truth of the poet's sententious utterance.

A good many years ago the writer went into a country district with a certain rural merchant was visited and our friend began talking life insurance to him. He had a policy, which presently was exhibited. Immediately our friend pointed out that the policy was not at all what the merchant thought it was, and the owner of the policy became dissatisfied. The excellences and virtues of our friend's policies were extolled and the rural merchant signed an application. The other was allowed to lapse, and could not be renewed. The medical examiner of our friend's company rejected the applicant, and he was left without any insurance whatever.

We do not mean to say life insurers often filch the good name of an opponent company. We do not believe they do. We employ the story illustratively.

The lesson we would present is that one does not have to destroy another in order to build one's self up. A worthy cause will stand upon its own merits. An unworthy cause is made only more valueless because it needs to grow upon another's deserved success.

A fundamental principle of Pythianism is that a brother's good name is his sacred possession; and it should be a privilege to every member to guard it from harm.

FIFTH DISTRICT CONVENTION

South Carolina Pythian:

We had a splendid District meeting at Pinewood recently. Borthor F. B. Moffatt presided with ease and dignity; a fine young man was charged in the rank of Esquire in an impressive and instructive manner; and the presence of the Grand Chancellor, Grand Prelate, and Grand Keeper of Records and Seal added much to the pleasure and profit of the evening. The banquet prepared and served by the knights and ladies of this splendid community left nothing to be desired. The banquet addresses were all of an unusually high order. I am quite sure the gathering will result in much good.

COMPASSION.

A well-known story depicts a traveler going from one city to another, who fell among thieves, and was cruelly wounded, being left lying half dead. Two supercilious religionists passed by, but offered no succor. A despised member of another race passed, stopped, rendered help, bound up the wounds, and carried the sufferer to an inn, or hospital. The Teacher said this man had compassion on the other.

That is a great word, Compassion. It means literally, "suffering with" another.

A tender heart always suffers when another is known to suffer. It is the mark of strength to be compassionate. It is a manly virtue.

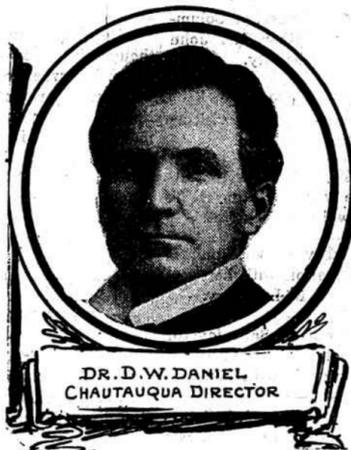

Civilization has banished thieves and robbers from the highways, but it can never extirpate disease nor banish suffering. Accident and passion will hurt many men; and strong fellows may be compassionate upon them.

Mental and spiritual suffering are probably more intense than physical. It is in this realm that Pythians find their largest field for compassionate service.

One can't blame a liar for doubting nearly every tale he hears.

"Nurse a grievance and watch it grow."
