NEW MEN IN FACULTY.

Clemson College, Sept. 12.—With beginning of session of 1919-20 several changes and additions are announced for the agricultural forces of the college. The changes and appointments affect the animal husbandry, horticultural and agronomy divisions.

Prof. L. V. Starkey of West Virginia, has been appointed professor of animal husbandry and animal husbandman for the experiment station to fill the position which has been vacant since Prof. R. L. Shields left in the spring of 1918. After graduating at the University of Illinois and the University of Wisconsin, Professor Starkey was extension husbandman at the University of West Virginia until elected to his present position.

Prof. W. J. Young, associate professor, has been transferred from the college work experiment station work, and in his place in the college work C. J. Foster has been appointed associate professor of horticulture. Professor Foster is a native of Texas, a graduate of the Texas A. & M. College, and has had varied experience in nursery work and in various phases of horticulture.

Leave of absence for one year was granted at a recent board meeting to Prof. C. C. Newman, horticulturist, for the purpose of engaging in work the lower part of the State in the reclamation of old rice lands.

In the agronomy division, Robt. E. Bosque of Texas has been appointed assistant professor of agronomy and farm machinery and will have charge of the teaching work in farm machinery. He graduated at the Texas A. & M. College and has taught farm engineering at that institution.

Another appointment in the agronomy division is that of Ward C. Jensen to be assistant professor of agronomy and soils. He is a graduate of the University of California and has done graduate work and teaching at Cornell University. He will have charge of the soils work of the agronomy division.

COOPER PARDONS MAN FROM THIS COUNTY WHOM HE PROSECUTED

Columbia, Sept. 12.—Governor Cooper this afternoon issued a parole during good behavior to William Rayford, a negro, convicted in Abbeville County in 1913 of murder and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Governor Cooper himself prosecuted the negro when he was solicitor of the Eighth Judicial Circuit. Clemency was urged by the pardon board on certificate from two physicians who treated the man wounded by Rayford, stating that he would not have died except he was suffering from heart disease.

CHEAPER GASOLINE PROMISED TO SOUTH

Washington, Sept. 5.—"This will mean the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company and cheaper gasoline for the South, though of course I expected the big oil interest to fight me bitterly."

In this way Senator W. J. Harris of Georgia today spoke of two amendments relative to the operations of the Standard Oil people which he has just gotten through the senate.

Regarding this Senator Harris said, "A few years ago when I was a member of the federal trade commission, complaints were made all over the country about discriminations in the price of gasoline. In the Indiana territory which is controlled by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana they were selling gasoline at five cents a gallon less than in other States nearby. The reason for this was that there were independents in that territory who were competing with them and the Standard wanted to destroy them."

NATIONAL CAPITAL ACCLAIMS PERSHING AS RETURNED HERO

Washington, Sept. 12.—General Pershing arrived in the national capital at 3:30 p. m. today to notify the government, formally and in person, that his task as commander-in-chief of the American expeditionary forces in Europe had been successfully concluded. He was welcomed by Vice President Marshall, speaking for President Wilson; Secretary Baker, General March, chief of staff, and a delegation of men distinguished in public or private life here.

When General Pershing stepped from his special train he was greeted by Secretary Baker and General March, who escorted him to the president's waiting room where Vice President Marshall welcomed the officer who led all American forces in Europe during the great war. Mr. Marshall said he spoke in the name of the country in hailing General Pershing as a patriot returned with victory on his banner.

General Pershing answered in a voice that halted with emotion as he spoke.

"I thank you for this welcome, which fills me with great emotion," he said. "The constant confidence in me which the president has shown has been a strength and has given me courage to do in a better way all that my country would have me do."

MORE COTTON CARS ORDERED TO STATE

Washington, Sept. 12.—For the last several days Representative Byrnes of South Carolina has been conferring with the United States railroad administration here in an effort to secure additional cars in South Carolina and the cotton belt generally for the purpose of shipping cotton and cotton seed. Mr. Byrnes pointed out to the administration that cotton seed at this time of the year in green and that it is imperative it should be moved rapidly to prevent spoiling and that if the small country merchants who buy from the wagons are not to ship their cotton they will have to cease buying and the market will thus become stagnant.

Today Mr. Byrnes was advised by the railroad administration that an order has been issued directing 150 cars daily to be distributed in South Carolina and adjoining cotton States. The administration further assured him that it will do everything in its power to meet the demands for cars for this purpose.

Baptist Campaign.

Greenville, Sept. 12.—A large mass meeting of hundreds of Baptists of the Greenville Association, held here recently in the interest of the Baptist 75 Million Campaign, was addressed by Governor R. A. Cooper and other prominent leaders of the denomination. Keen interest in the campaign was manifested, and state officials of the campaign expressed the belief following the meeting that this association will largely over-subscribe its quota in the drive, which will be held Nov. 30 to Dec. 7. South Carolina's share in the south's quota is five and a half millions.

Some chicken remedies of course may remedy, but the poultryman who gives his poultry good care, clean water, and proper feed will have little need for them.

The state college of agriculture at Clemson College wants to help you whenever it can. Let the college know your needs.
