MARKET DAY SUCCESS

Some Request That It Be Held Twice A Week.—Moves Inside.

Next Tuesday will be market day again, and from all indications the institution is to be a success. Miss Ruth Crowther, home demonstration agent, who was active in the institution of the market, says that calls were numerous for products that were either not supplied or had been sold out early. She says that much more can be sold than has been brought in on any previous day. So satisfactory has the project proved that many have asked that market day be held twice a week.

The market is scheduled to open at 8 o'clock. Miss Crowther says people who arrive at that time will be much more likely to dispose of their supplies without trouble. The women of the city always arrive at the market early and it is rare that they will make a second trip if they do not find what they want the first time.

Next Tuesday the market will be held in the store room next to the Eureka Hotel, just below E. F. Arnold's garage. This will make for greater dispatch in making purchases, as well as simplify the matter of possible rain when the market is held in the open square.

Miss Crowther wishes it emphasized that only the best of everything is wanted to be put on sale. She says that the highest class products must be furnished at all times if the market is to continue to be a success. To insure fairness to all parties concerned, Miss Crowther has arranged to have a committee of women at the market Tuesday to grade everything brought in. This will insure uniformly good products and a stabilized price for things of the same grade.

The demonstration agent also says that it is desirable that all purchasers should bring containers to take home whatever they buy. The market has no facilities for furnishing bags and baskets.

DECREASE IS ANNOUNCED IN BIG PUBLIC DEBT

Less By 206,000,000 In July Than in June, Treasury Officials Announce

Washington, Aug. 2.—A decrease of $206,000,000 in the public debt during July was announced today by the treasury. The total gross debt July 31 stood at $23,771,000,000, compared with $23,977,000,000 June 30. Officials said the decrease was explained by retirement of treasury certificates of indebtedness and the operations of the sinking fund during July, while no new issues of government securities were offered during the month.

COLUMBIA LANDING PLACE FOR AIR MAIL ROUTE

Chamber of Commerce Receives Information that Route Leads Through Capital City

Columbia, Aug. 2.—According to information received at the Columbia chamber of commerce from Capt. D. S. Seaton, assistant to the chief of information of the air service, Washington, Columbia has been selected for a government landing field on a proposed aerial route from the national capital through the South to San Diego, Cal.

Government officials will make a survey of the situation at an early date and send in a report of it to air officials in Washington.

There are two fields in the proximity of Columbia, one being the new and little used field at the rifle range at Camp Jackson, and the so-called Emerson field, a little less than five miles from Columbia on the Garner's Ferry road, which was used by the government during the war as an aviation field.

The camp field was said some time ago by army flyers to be "rough and soft," though it may now be improved. "Emerson field" has been declared ideal by high officers of the air service. It is about 800 or 900 yards in length by 275 in width, is of excellent consistency, smooth and well turfed with Bermuda grass. It is marked in whitewashed stone with a large circle.

The chief drawback to the latter named situation is that it is not the property of the government but privately owned and leased for the next year to a private aircraft corporation. At the end of the year the field is desired by the owner, Frank Hampton, for agricultural purpose, but Mr. Hampton says for consideration he will agree to the government's using the land as a flying field.

The war department's informant as to the distance of the field from Columbia namely eight miles was slightly at fault, the five mile post being just beyond the field. The Garner's Ferry road is paved to within a few hundred yards of the site at present and the work of paving the road to Eastover is well under way already and this section should soon be all hard surface.

PLYMOUTH ROCK IS REDEDICATED

harbor. Ashore a troop of cavalry formed a presidential guard of honor and many organizations including a unit of British marines from the Cambrian marched in the parade which passed in review before Mr. Harding and his party.

The President's hope that Plymouth Rock might become a shrine for all free nations was echoed in brief addresses by William H. DeBeaufort, charge of the Dutch legation at Washington, and Capt. Sydney H. Bayley, naval attach of the British embassy there. Vice President Coolidge who was not scheduled to deliver an address, satisfied the demands of the throngs by speaking briefly. Secretary of War Weeks also had a place in the speakers' stand. The exercises, indeed, were turned into an "old home week" celebration when, at the word of the chairman that they were to be closed, the crowd called loudly for Vice President Coolidge, Senator Lodge, Major Gen. Clarence R. Edwards and Secretary Weeks. President Harding first brought to the front personally the senior Senator from Massachusetts.

Leaving tonight aboard the Mayflower, the President and his party expect to reach Portland, Maine, tomorrow morning, and there take automobiles for Lancaster, N. H., where they will spend the remainder of the week resting at Secretary Weeks' place and sight-seeing among the White mountains.

HATFIELD CAREER ENDS WITH BULLET

wan battle, which resulted in the deaths of seven private detectives and three citizens was in Welch to attend court at the time. Her marriage to Hatfield was solemnized two weeks after the death of Matewan's chief executive.

C. E. Lively was the "surprise" witness for the prosecution in the trial conducted in connection with the death of Albert C. Felts, director of the band of private detectives who had been sent to Matewan for the purpose of evicting miners' families from the houses of a coal company. This trial was the culmination of a street battle in the West Virginia mining town one year ago last May 19. When the battle started that afternoon the detectives had completed their work and were on their way from the hotel at which they had been stopping to the railroad station near by. Immediately after the acquittal by a jury that had listened for many weeks to testimony in the case, Hatfield and the co-defendants returned to Matewan.

Shortly thereafter Hatfield was removed from the office of chief of police, and immediately elected as constable of the Magnolia district, an office he retained to the time of his death.

Although only twenty-six years of age, Hatfield's name was known to almost every West Virginian, and to many persons outside the State, on account of frequent pistol episodes to which he had been a party. He was one of the witnesses recently called by the Senate committee appointed to investigate the industrial conditions in the Mingo coal fields.
