GETTING TO ABBEVILLE

The opening of a topsoiled road to Abbeville brings another of the most interesting towns of South Carolina into intimate association with many more commonplace communities. Although Abbeville has about one-seventh the population of some of its progressive neighbors it is much richer than they are in historic associations. In a little while another improved road connecting Greenwood with Abbeville will be completed, after which an Abbeville-Greenwood Country club, modeled on the Laurens-Clinton Club, presumably will be established.—The State.

WINTER WAR ON PESTS.

Clemson, College, Nov. 18—Our insect pests for any growing season come from those that successfully passed the preceding winter. For these pests to maintain themselves on the farm, in the orchard, certain conditions are necessary, says Prof. A. F. Conradi, Entomologist, and those conditions should not exist.

The old cotton stalks and corn stalks, as well as unkept ditch banks, terraces, fence, rows, etc., furnish shelter for the boll weevil and other marauding insects of farm crops.

By tolerating an unkept orchard and undernourished trees we invite San Jose scale, plum curculio, apple worm, shut hole borer, and other pests to stay with us in our orchards over winter and enjoy our hospitality. Allowing the refuse of garden crops to remain in the garden undisturbed is to provide comfortable winter homes for insect enemies of the garden.

This is an opportunity to do away with the old-fashioned privy, the most repulsive and most dangerous producer of flies anywhere. And we have time now to arrange for a better system of taking care of manure instead of leaving it in open stalls and under the open sun to rear flies by billions next spring.

Now is a good time to care for main barrels, cisterns, tin cans, water soles and other places that breed the mosquitoes that make life uncomfortable on the porch and in the house next spring.

Winter is not the idle season as some may think, but it is the most important season to prepare for the next year's crop and comforts.

PLOWING UP THE STALKS

Union Times.

The necessity of plowing under cotton stalks is being urged by Clemson College. There will be no excuse for neglecting this very important work this year. The cotton has already been gathered in most fields. It has been clearly demonstrated that stalk destruction, when applied early, is one of the surest ways to combat the boll weevil. That together with poisoning and picking squares, is about the whole show in the fight. High fertilization and early planting of an early variety, is the whole story to date. When the plowing under of stalks is done, it should be done with a disc harrow. The early plowing under while the stalks are green, kills most of the next year's crop of weevils. We have read about every bulletin and newspaper article we could get hands on and the foregoing is the gist of the whole matter.

JUDGE GREENE'S WHISKEY

Anderson Tribune.

Anderson county bootleggers will not find Judge W. P. Greene in a sympathetic frame of mind. Following the example of other circuit judges who gave no alternative sentences, Judge Greene is sentencing violators of the prohibition law from three to six months straight time on the chain gang. So far, he has failed to impose a money fine or suspend a part of sentence for trafficking in liquor.

Since the judges in this state have about settled upon some definite plan of dealing with violators of the prohibition law, making chain gang punishment a certainty for those who plead guilty or are convicted, the respect for law has climbed a notch or two higher. Although the judges of the state are not reported as having agreed at an en banc session to assert a sterner attitude in dealing with transgressors of the liquor laws, circuit and special judges are exercising their individual judgment and its trend has been steadily toward workhouse sentences for all persons dealing in much liquor, or in any way connected with the traffic.

Judge Mendel L. Smith did a vast amount of good in this county by imposing straight chain gang sentences on bootleggers. Judge Townsend set precedent here by his attitude in whiskey cases, and Judge Greene, who could easily make or break the good work done heretofore has cinched the enforcement of the prohibition law in Anderson county by virtually making it a safe bet that every violator will be dealt with firmly.

Judge Greene is to be congratulated in continuing the good work already begun.

Plan For Weevil Control

Recommendations of conference held yesterday at State House on call of Governor Harvey:

Destroy the weevils' winter quarters by plowing under cotton and corn stalks and by cleaning terraces, ditch banks and other trash on the farm.

Prepare land early and thoroughly. Plant best seed of approved varieties. Among the best varieties are Lightning Express, Cleveland Big Boll, Delta Type and (on wilt infested land) Dixie Triumph.

Use fertilizer sufficient, such as would make a bale of cotton per acre in an average season without the presence of the weevil. This will vary on individual farms. Make side applications of soda early, before the first blooms appear.

Plant as soon as ground is warm. All cotton in a given community should be planted at about the same time (from the first to the middle of April.)

Practice frequent shallow cultivation to keep up fruiting. Practice thick spacing.

Practice early square picking if cheap labor is available. This must be done very thoroughly every five days if possible in order to be effective.

Definite recommendations on poisoning are deferred for future consideration by this conference until after the proposed conference at Washington has been held to determine upon the general policy to be recommended for 1923.

Develop a fertile soil as the best asset to farming under boll weevil conditions.
