

in their crusade against me: were I satisfied that he was clear, I should be willing to acknowledge I have dealt with him rather roughly. What I have said concerning him has been said from what I have heard, and from a belief I have that no truly good man will suffer his friends to resort to unjust means to advance his popularity. When I first heard the report concerning the little rich man, who lives a way up yonder, I suspected it arose from some words which I spoke to the Tickville Intelligencer, when returning from the camp meeting that was held not long since at Mount Vernon. The Intelligencer after telling me over the votes which Settles would get, in a particular section of country, said to me, I can tell you one man there, who is going to vote for you. I asked him who that man was; he replied that it was Berry Cochran. I said, well I had rather have his vote, than to have the votes of ten such men as are some that I could name. I spoke these words, and I will now stick to them, yes I now proclaim that I had rather have the vote of one man such as I believe Berry Cochran to be, than to have the votes of ten such men as I know the Intelligencer is. I had rather have Cochran's vote not because he is richer than the Intelligencer, but because I believe that ten such friends as the Intelligencer would be more dead weight than I could carry in any race. I did intend to tell the community who the Intelligencer is, and how he usually acts in every election; but as he has relations, for whom I have the greatest respect, I will dismiss him for this time, and I hope for the future he will not meddle with me, not even so much as to vote for me on the 15th of October. I have now Follow Citizens, went through all the papers which have been preferred against me. It is your prerogative to put whatever construction upon them you please. You can acquit me or you can pronounce me guilty; it is entirely with you. I am now about to close; however before I do so permit me to say a word or two to you respecting what I conceive to be the duty of voters; we are, all of us, too apt to attach too little importance to our votes; we too often give them to persons, simply because they are our neighbors, or because they happen to live in the same beat, or battalion vi. ourselves: such should never be the case; before giving our votes in any election, we should enquire not which of our neighbors are candidates, but which candidate is the best qualified to discharge the duties of the office for which he seeks. We should by all means rather strive to promote the good of our country, than to flatter the vanity of our neighbors. We are the Lords of a great country, of a country, which is worthy of a noble destiny. We have a country whose soil is rich, whose climate is congenial, and whose institutions are such as were never known to man before, we are they, who are to solve the problem whether the people are capable of self government, whether our country shall go onwards and onwards, from improvement to improvement, or whether its course shall be retrogressive. As regards myself I believe in the intelligence of the people. I believe that it was not in vain our Warrents fought; that it was not in vain our institutions, founded by good and wise men, will more than realize their most sanguine expectations, although not three quarters of a century has not yet elapsed since we became a distinct people; yet already is our country numbered among the first nations of the earth, and I very believe that the time is not far distant, when she will not only be among the first, but will be the very first nation on this globe. I believe the light of her institutions is destined to illumine the world, and sprinkle joy and consolation o'er the benighted minds of men, who are now bowed beneath the despot's yoke; however Fellow Citizens much depends on you: if you will always seek to give your votes to the most worthy, if you will with strong force lay hold on, and stay that reckless spirit which some manifest, in striving by unjust means, to pull down others, who they think, may outstrip them on the road to popular preference. I say if you will do these things, I believe that our country is yet in its dawn; I believe that its glories will yet be brighter, and brighter, its influences still more cheering. If however you give no estimate on your votes—if if you give your preference to individuals, merely because they possess more low cunning, or because they are more fruitful in circulating ill famed reports—I say if you do this, no one can say, how long the time is distant, before the land of Washington will become to be what the so called Republic of Mexico is. None can tell how long it will be, before we are again contending factions will arise, and widespread ruin threaten all. What I have said concerning the duties of voters I meant to be general. Now voters of the north regiment especially I say to you, do you in the election, which is about to take place, vote for that candidate, which you may think, is the best qualified to discharge the duties of a Colonel. If you think either of my competitors are better qualified than myself to discharge the duties of the office, I wish you to vote for him. Discharge your duty faithfully and I will be satisfied; yes though I should lose the drooping plume, the shining epaulettes, and clanging sword; yet shall I not be heard to murmur; no I will not even breathe a sigh, but I will count my loss my country's gain. I am Fellow Citizens are pressed to love to the majesty of your wills. Nothing else. MARTIN HOLMES. September 23, 1845

Chesnut Grove Institute.
BEING desirous of doing all the good I can, in the short time I have to sojourn on earth, I propose to enlarge my SCHOOL to a size sufficient to employ my daughter and myself, and if practicable, to form a MALE and FEMALE Department. My Institute is located in a very healthy part of the District, (near Mr. L. Wideman's).
Boarding can be procured in respectable families at Thirty Dollars a year, if washing is not done. I have made the terms of Tuition to suit the times, and I expect they will be found much lower than those of any other School of the kind in the District. They are as follows:
Orthography, Reading and Writing. $10
Those with Arithmetic and History. 11
Grammar included. 12
Geography included. 13
And with Natural Philosophy and Rhetoric. 14
The Scholastic Year, Ten Months.
My system of teaching is new and altogether my own. I would invite those who may think of sending to me, to visit my School and see my method. To those who may desire to inquire of my capacity as a Teacher, or the progress of my Scholars, I would refer to my patrons; also, to the Hon. A. Burr, Maj. L. Independence Pearson of Hamburg, Dr. John Heart, John Cochran, Esq., John Wideman, Esq., and Mr. James Wideman, of the Senior Class of the South Carolina College. All of these gentlemen, with the exception of the Hon. Burr, acted as judges at an Examination of my School in August last.
Fifteen or twenty scholars more than I now have, will make my School large enough to put my design into execution.
Application for admission to my School must be made by the first of December.
CHARLES M. PELOT, Teacher.

Dr. Brandreth's Pills.
HOW TO GET HEALTH!
THOUSANDS of persons continue to cure themselves of Colds, Coughs, Headaches, Rheumatic Affections, Small Pox, Measles, Costiveness, Influenza, and the host of those indications of the body of the blood being out of order, simply by perseveringly using Brandreth's Vegetable Universal Pills, so long as any symptoms of derangement in any organ remain. Often by adopting this course, which experience has proved according to Nature, it being merely assisting her, have many in a few days been restored to health, who, but for Brandreth's Pills had been sick for months. The value of this medicine is beyond price.
The Pills are sold at Dr. Brandreth's Office, 241 Broadway, N. York. Also, by Bland & Butler, Edgefield C. H.; S. D. Clarke & Co., Hamburg; J. S. & D. C. Smiley, Meeting Street; W. M. Coleman, New Market; Whitlock, Sullivan & Waller, Greenwood; L. D. Merriman, Cokesbury.

Land for Sale.
THE Subscribers wishing to remove to the West, offer for sale that well known tract of Land where they now live, situated on the Martintown Road, in Edgefield District, 25 miles from Hamburg. The tract contains about four hundred and forty acres. Some excellent land and well timbered—about one hundred and fifty acres cleared, about seventy-five of which is fresh. The situation is as well calculated for a public stand as any other place from Hamburg to the Mountains. Persons wishing to purchase, can call and examine for themselves.
If not previously disposed of, it will be sold to the highest bidder, the first Monday in October next, at Edgefield Court House.
SINKLER HUFFMAN, DAVID HUFFMAN.
