

THE BLUE HEN'S CHICKENS.

There are divers and sundry rumors afloat to the effect that some sheenigan business is to be done with the tickets to be placed at the polls on next Tuesday...

Scrutinize your tickets carefully and see that none but the Blue Hen's Chickens are on it, and here they are:

- For Congress—W. J. TALBERT. For Governor—JOHN GARY EVANS. For Lieut. Governor—W. H. TIMMERMAN. For State Treasurer—W. T. C. BATES. For Secretary of State—D. H. TOMPKINS. For Attorney General—J. H. BUCHANAN. For Comptroller General—J. H. NORTON. For Adj't and Insp'r Gen'l—J. G. WATTS. For Railroad Commissioners—W. D. EVANS, H. R. THOMAS, J. C. WELBORN. For State Senator—R. B. WATSON. For House of Representatives—T. H. RAINSFORD, J. W. THURMOND, L. J. WILLIAMS, B. L. CAUGHMAN, J. H. EDWARDS. For County Treasurer—J. C. CAUGHMAN. For Probate Judge—J. D. ALLEN. For Snrervisor—M. A. WHITTLE. For Auditor—J. B. HALTIWANGER. School Commissioner—P. N. LOTT. Dr. Samps Pope will get very few votes in Edgefield.

Populism is the expression of the discontent of the unthrifty.

The general election comes off next Tuesday, the 6th of November.

The opposition to the dispensary law is abating generally throughout the State.

"Sow oats and watch the Radicals," is what the Hampton Guardian advises.

The State Fair will open in Columbia on Nov. 10th, and continue for four days. The railroads will give low rates.

W. Wadley Thompson, who killed Editor P. E. Rowell at Greenwood several months ago, was tried and acquitted last week.

Gen. Johnson Hagood has gathered fifteen hundred bushels of corn from twenty-five acres of his Saluda farm in this county.

There are now twelve daily papers in South Carolina, five morning and seven afternoon publications. The fool-killer is not doing his duty.

The new naval dry dock at Port Royal will be completed within three weeks. The channel is being dredged out so as to admit our largest battle ships.

Nine million bales is generally accepted as the cotton crop for this season, while the world's consumption of American cotton can only reach 8,500,000 at the highest.

Hon. Yates Atkinson, the newly elected Governor of Georgia, was inaugurated on last Saturday. Gov. Atkinson, like Gov. Tillman, has been the architect of his own fortunes.

Hubbard, Price & Co. say the cotton market has touched the lowest price on record, and yet we are confronted with the fact that the supply seems to be growing larger rather than smaller.

The Bamberg Herald says: The action of the Supreme Court in declaring the dispensary law constitutional has about driven the last remains of the blind tiger business out of Bamberg.

Constable McClendon was tried at Darlington last week for the killing of Redmond in the Darlington riot, and acquitted. The cases for shooting into the train were thrown out by the grand jury.

John Temple Graves will lecture in Atlanta on next Friday on "the reign of the demagogue."

A bronze statue has been erected in New York to Dr. J. Marion Sims, a native of this State. This is the first instance in the United States of the erection of a heroic statue to the memory of a member of the medical profession.

Nothing yet has been ascertained as to who killed and robbed Orangeburg's county treasurer last week. Gov. Tillman has offered a large reward and the county of Orangeburg has also offered a reward, both together amounting to $1,000.

Let every man and every woman take courage. We are all failures, more or less, but our successes may be beyond our knowledge, the mustard seed may spring to mighty foliage, the fruition of long and patient and humble work may be magnificent. There are no complete successes this side of death. There are no unmarred triumphs until the results are all known. There are no failures where there has been a good purpose or hope and no life may be adjudged by us a failure because the works of a life cannot be known to any of us.—Greenville News.

We should judge from the above that the editor of the Greenville News does not know an ace from a ten spot.

News from Chotoy.

Since sending in the last communication the fire fiend has visited this community. About noon on Saturday, the 20th inst., the barn, stables, and buggy shed of Mr. P. B. Whatley were burned.

The barn contained an immense quantity of corn, fodder, hay, seed oats, cotton seed, etc. The place being very recently settled the barn was used for a general place of storage. Besides losing all his corn, fodder, etc., he also lost his farming implements. Gentle, though brave, Mrs. Whatley, sister of J. Wm. Thurmond of your town, seeing the fire, went to work to save what she could, and succeeded in saving the buggy, tho' badly burned.

The origin of the fire is not known. Philanthropic Dr. R. H. McKie, although not a near neighbor, was the first to render aid, he sent Mr. Whatley a load of corn and fodder. Many kind friends and neighbors have also proffered help.

Mr. James Garrett, of Hephzibah, Ga., is up looking after the interest of H. C. Garrett's estate.

Mr. M. S. Bigham was down to see his daughter Mrs. J. C. Whatley on Sunday last.

Mr. J. Trapp McManus has just returned from a protracted stay in the Pleasant Lane section.

Genial and business-like Johnnie Bussey, of Parkville, is down putting a move on his tenants, Hamp Thomas and John Bussey, colored.

"Larry" Talks With Ex-Judge Cotran.

Piedmont Headlight. Last Saturday we had a short talk with Judge J. S. Cotran, of Abbeville, at our depot; and found him one of the fairest men we have ever met. Judge Cotran is a thoroughbred South Carolinian, and a man, too, whom our people love and honor. He voluntarily resigned two of the highest offices in the gift of his people; and during the political excitement that has wrecked our State the past four years, has done naught to fan the flames of the factional animosity; and neither has he denounced the administration, or advocated rebellion against our laws. In speaking of the political situation, Judge Cotran said that he believed agitation tended to improve and purify public affairs; that for four days he had been arguing a mill pond case down in Union, and knew all about stagnant water. And he was much opposed to stag-nation in politics as he was in millponds. Judge Cotran then went on to say that he believed a man could support the Alliance demands and be as good a Democrat as if he stood upon the Chicago platform with both feet; that this is a free country, and every voter has the right to think as his judgment dictates; but it is demanded of him to support the nominees of his party when they are made. Judge Cotran then went on to say the Democratic party would be a most tyrannical organization if it required a man to think just as certain leaders dictated, and he was denied the freedom of his own opinion. But, of course, when our party meets in convention, and formulates a platform and set of principles, it then becomes the duty of every member to yield obedience to those principles, and support the nominees, whether they suit his views or not.

The Dispensary and the Courts.

The acquittal of McLendon is not a surprise. It is nothing more than frequently occurs in our courts without exacting comment. The fact that it was a dispensary case has brought a great deal of prejudice into the consideration of it. It is a hard thing at any time to convict a man of even manslaughter, and this case simply follows the general rule and the verdict arrived at is not unusual or strange. The conviction of Bladon in Spartanburg was a surprise. It did not follow the usual course of events at all, and there must have been a wide difference somewhere in the two cases or in the juries that considered them.

There is one point for us all to consider, and that is the absolute necessity for upholding the courts of the country in both of these cases. The courts of South Carolina need the support of good honest citizens very badly. They have been brought into grievous disrepute, and the general feeling of unrest is growing stronger and stronger. With contempt of court comes contempt of law and order. anarchy and the thousand and one ills that governments are heir to. The verdicts of these courts must be accepted as right and sustained. If we expect Bladon to be punished we must expect McLendon and Cain to go free. It may be true that politics has had a great deal to do with both cases. That is our misfortune now.

Cotton Wanted.

The Langley Manufacturing Company will pay Augusta market price for Cotton delivered at their factory at Langley, S. C., until further notice. THOS. BARRETT, President.

It is a shame the way the word "Bargain" is abused by most merchants. Ramsey & Bland will show you the true meaning of the word, if you will call at their store this week.

Are you fond of a bright and sunny disposition? Then buy your wife a few pieces of Ramsey & Bland's Furniture, that she has been wanting, and watch results.

A plane smoothes rough boards, and Ramsey Bland's low prices on Hardware are smoothing the way for buyers, carpenters, and builders.

Good men do not go astray when they stray into Ramsey & Bland's for their hardware specialties.

A poor cook can't spoil your bread if you buy one of Ramsey & Bland's cook stoves.

Whoever offers you something for nothing is trying to fool you. Ramsey & Bland guarantee every article they sell you as represented.
