SORE EYES CURED.

Eye-Balls and Lids Became Terribly Inflamed—Was Unable to Go About—All Treatments Failed—About Two Years Ago I was in such a condition that I was unable to go about. They were terribly inflamed, both the balls and lids. I tried home remedies without relief. Then I decided to go to our family physician, but he didn't help them. Then I tried two more of our most prominent physicians, but my eyes grew continually worse. At this time a friend of mine advised me to try Cuticura Ointment, and after using it about one week my eyes were considerably improved and in two weeks they were almost well. They have never given me any trouble since and I am now sixty-five years old. I shall never fail to praise Cuticura. G. B. Halsey, Mouth of Wilson, Va., Apr. 4, 1908.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. DE WITT L. PELTON.

Theme: The Habit and Kindness and Consideration For Others.

Who went about doing good and healing all that were oppressed—Acts, 10:38.

The tendency of business life is to make men calculating, selfish, limited in their sympathies. This disposition, stressed each work day and emphasized by competition, becomes a habit of the soul, which takes control of life.

The tendency of the life of pleasure is the same. Those whose eyes are single to their own enjoyment, who are intent upon every opportunity for amusement, become superficial, cold and limited in sympathy. Selfishness with them likewise becomes a habit.

Qualities that we admire, nobility, kindness, sympathy, service, are to be secured like the practical qualities of life by making them habits of the soul. They will not come as the result of spasmodic action or sentimental day dreams. Acts performed daily ripen into habits. Do you want to keep from being the mean and selfish individual the practical life of business would make you? Plan to do some deed of kindness every day, some act which has no relation to your business, your own happiness or success.

Do your own work faithfully and well, but see if there is not an opportunity to lead a helping hand to another, to say a kind word, do an encouraging deed. In the midst of the hurly-burly of life, in the daily contact with men, take time for a look now and again for the weaker man, for the man fighting bravely against great odds, for the wounded and crushed in the battle of life. Cultivate the habit of kindness, of consideration for others with whom you come in contact.

But not only for those with whom you come in contact, but others who you do not see, a countless host in this great city, who daily stare with what courage they can muster, but with dread as well, into the raging eyes of the wolf of Forgive—our city bounds and crisscrossed with suffering and misery which men might see if they would step out of their selfish routine. Do some deed of kindness each day until it sets into a habit of the soul. This is practical Christianity.

A good way to create such a habit is to commit one's self to some form of Christian or altruistic service. One of the objections urged by our pleasure loving natures against definite service of any kind is that it ties us down. This is really one of its advantages. When you commit yourself to the service of others, or make engagements with yourself to perform some duty, your good intentions do not dissipate into thin air, but are harnessed into practical work, and the disposition to be of use to your fellow-men becomes yours at last as the result of the habit of definite Christian activity.

Moody's Testimony.

Two months before his death, Mr. Moody, while at Central Church, at Brooklyn, gave the following testimony:

"I know if I should be asked to be a witness in a court my testimony would be taken; and I want you to take my testimony as to what it is to be filled with the Spirit. There are two epochs in my life which stand out clear. One is when I was between sixteen and seventeen, I was born of the Spirit. There can never come a greater blessing to any man on this earth than to be born again from above—to have the God-nature planted in him. God has been good to me. He has showered blessing after blessing upon me, but the greatest blessing—next to being born of the Spirit—came fifteen years afterwards, when I was filled with the Spirit; and He has never left me to this day. He is for all—women as well as men. When Pentecost was fully come, the whole church was qualified for work in God's cause."

R. A. Torrey.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JUNE 27.

Temperance Lesson, Romans 13:8-14—Commot Verses 8, 10—Golden Text: "Put Ye on the Lord Jesus Christ," Rom. 13:14.

TIME.—Spring, 58 A. D. PLACE.—Corinth.

EXPOSITION.—I. Love the Fulfilling of the Law, 8-10. Every Christian would do well to let the opening words of this passage ring deep into his heart, "owe no man anything." It is a plain command, and as wholesome as it is plain. Debt is disobedience to God. Debt is also slavery (Prov. 22:7). But "owe no man anything" means more than "pay your debts." It means never, yet, it means render to every man what is due to him, whether it be tribute, custom, fear, honor, obedience (v. 7). The whole law of God can be put into one word: "Love." Love is the fulfilling (or filling full) of the law. He that really loves his neighbor will perform toward his neighbor all that the law requires. Love works no ill. So it is not necessary to say to one who really loves, "thou shalt not steal," for he won't steal, he can't be hired to steal. It is not necessary to say to him "thou shalt not kill," for nothing would induce him to kill. It is not necessary to say, "thou shalt not commit adultery," for he would rather die than commit adultery. It is not necessary to say "thou shalt not covet," for he would rather the other should have than to have himself. Love is the secret of all right doing. When love renews religion in the heart even the ten commandments will keep them all without being commanded. What love will do and what love will do is described in a wonderful way in 1 Cor. 13:4-7, and again in 1 Jno. 3:16-18. Love is the secret of true temperance principles. The man who loves his brother abstains from all use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage because such use tends to work ill to our neighbor. The ways in which it may work ill are countless. It may work ill by becoming a drunkard myself, and a drunkard is a curse not only to himself but to all who love him and to the whole community. How many hearts one drunkard breaks. The only man who is entirely safe from ever becoming a drunkard is the man who never drinks liquors at all.

II. The Day is at Hand, Cast Off the Works of Darkness, 11-14. The Day is Coming. Christianity is a religion of perennial hope. "Dwell men and seduce many was worse" (2 Ti. 3:13). Iniquity may abound and the love of the many was cold (Matt. 24:12). Some may depart from the faith and give heed to seducing spirits (1 Ti. 4:1), perilous times may come (2 Ti. 3:1-5), but ahead there is "the day-star" and the sunrise (Mal. 4:2) and it is darkest just before day. As the day is coming it is time to awaken out of sleep. Let us wake up and be ready to greet the morn. Salvation was near when we first believed (Luke 9:9), it is near now (R. V.). By salvation here Paul means not salvation in the limited sense of pardon of sin, but the full salvation that shall be ours at the Coming of our Lord (Phil. 3:20, 21; R. V.; Heb. 9:28; 1 Pet. 1:5, 7, 11; 1 Jno. 3:2). The Coming of our Lord so near at hand is one of the mightiest motives for true temperance practices (Luke 21:34-36). "As the night is so far spent it is time to put on our 'the works of darkness' (all practices that have their origin in this present evil world, that arise from moral and spiritual darkness and lead to eternal darkness). These are too numerous to specify, but one can safely put liquor drinking, tobacco using and raising and selling, the theatre, card table and dance under this head. But it is not enough to put off, we must also put on (Matt. 24:44). What is 'the armor of light'? Eph. 6:11-18 describes it in full. We must walk in a seemly manner as in the day. The word 'honestly' is a totally misleading translation. It means 'in good form.' Society people are greatly concerned about what is 'good form' by the standards of 'the best society.' Citizens of heaven (Phil. 3:20, R. V.) should be concerned as to what is 'good form' according to the countenance of that country. What 'good form' is according to heavenly standards appears from the words that follow 'Revealing and drunkenness, chambering (sexual sin) and wantonness (licentiousness), etc. and jealousy' cannot be tolerated. Drunkenness and licentiousness are commonly associated together, for experience shows that they are rarely if ever separated. The use of alcoholic liquors even in what is called moderation, stirs up all that is basest in men and women. We do not usually put drunkenness and licentiousness, but God does (v. 13, R. V.). The whole secret of 'good form,' or walking becomingly, is to 'put on the Lord Jesus,' to have our lives clothed with Him (cf. Gal. 3:27; Eph. 4:24). The figure Paul uses here is the putting on of a garment. The clothes we wear should be Jesus Himself. When we meet a man pretty much all we see is his clothes, and when people meet us all they should see should be the Lord Jesus Christ (cf. 1 Pet. 3:3-5). The way to have Christ upon us is to have Christ in us (Col. 1:27; Eph. 3:17).

Testing Age of Poultry.

Senator W. Murray Crane, at a Thanksgiving celebration in Dalton, talked about turkeys.

"From November on through the winter season," he said, "it is important to know how to tell a good turkey from a bad one—a young and tender one from an old and tough bird."

"A farmer once examined his chore boy in this grave manner: 'Roger,' he said, 'can you tell infallibly a young from an old turkey?'"

"Yes, indeed I can sir, Roger answered."

"How do you tell?" continued the farmer.

"By the teeth," the boy replied.

"O, rubbish, nonsense," replied the farmer. I am ashamed of you, Roger. Turkeys have no teeth."

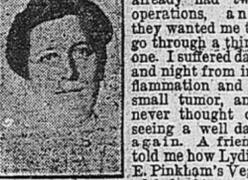

"No," said Roger grinning, "but I have."—Baltimore Herald.

THIRD OPERATION PREVENTED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured."—Mrs. ALYSSA SPERLING, 11 Langdon Street, Chicago, Ill.

If you are ill do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until an operation is necessary, but build up the feminine system, and remove the cause of those distressing aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

No Man in a Stovepipe Hat Ever Seen Carrying a Baby.

"Did you ever," said Mr. Juggleton, "see a man in a silk hat carrying an infant child? Never. I venture to say."

"You see plenty of fathers, young fathers mostly, carrying their babies, and very willing to carry them, indeed proud of their offspring; but you never see such a father in a tall hat. They may wear forty-seven other kinds of hats—derbies, soft hats, straw hats, or as many kinds of caps; but no father carrying an infant wears a silk hat."

"Of course there can't be any fashion decree about this. Refraining from wearing a silk hat on such occasions must be due just to instinctive common sense; the baby is an extremely informal thing, liable to scream or cry or wriggle or squirm at any minute, to bear itself in many ways in a manner quite incompatible with the high hat dignity; and even young fathers seem to know this, and so they leave their stovepipe titles on the shelf at home when they go out with the baby. They seem to know what is fitting instinctively; but certain it is that you never see a man in a stovepipe hat carrying a baby." So. 26-09.

WONT MIX

Bad Food and Good Health Won't Mix.

The human stomach stands much abuse, but it won't return good health if you give it bad food.

If you feed right you will feel right, for proper food and a good mind is the sure road to health.

"A year ago I became much alarmed about my health," for I began to suffer after each meal, no matter how little I ate," says a Denver woman.

"I lost my appetite and the very thought of food grew distasteful, with the result that I was not nourished and got weak and thin."

"My home cares were very heavy, for beside a large family of my own I have also to look out for an aged mother. There was no one to shoulder my household burdens, and come what might I must bear them, and this thought nearly drove me frantic when I realized that my health was breaking down."

"I read an article in the paper about some one with trouble just like mine being cured on Grape-Nuts food, and acting on this suggestion, I gave Grape-Nuts a trial. The first dish of this delicious food proved that I had struck the right thing."

"My uncomfortable feelings in stomach and brain disappeared as if by magic, and in an incredibly short space of time I was again myself. Since then I have gained 12 pounds in weight through a summer of hard work and realize I am a very different woman, all due to the splendid food, Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason." Trial will prove. Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Poultry for Profit

A CHEAP TURKEY SHED.

It Costs Only $3.85. But Mrs. Portis Would Not Take $100 For It.

I built my turkey shed and the pen for them myself. My shed is 4 feet high at back and 6 feet at front, 12 feet long and 6 feet wide. I only used six studdings, one at each corner and one in middle, which took three pieces of 2x4, one foot long, and one piece 2x4, eighteen feet long, made the three rafters. Four pieces 12x12 made the back and it took seven pieces 12x12 to cover and six pieces 12x12 to cover the ends.

I put the number on back and top straight so it could be easily taken off and used. I lapped the roof just enough to keep it from leaking, left no cracks for the wind to come through in back and ends. The high and south side I left open, except one piece at top to which I fastened a drop door of net wire. I began at each end of the house and ran five-foot wire fence with a twelve-inch base plank and made a little yard about twenty-four feet square. I made a gate and a little slide door for the little chicks to go in and out at.

I bought my lumber delivered at $1.25 a hundred and the whole thing cost me $3.85. I would not do without it for a hundred dollars.

I raise as many chickens in winter as I do in summer. I make small coops, air tight on three sides to keep out the cold and slatted on one side to let in the sun. I place these under the shed and when a hen hatches I put her in one of the coops and keep her there for several days. If it is bright and warm I let her out in the pen. When they are old enough I let out of pen each day, but put them in coops at night; when it is cold and rainy I keep the hen in coop all the time and the little chicks have the whole shed and pen to run under.

Later in the season I use the pen for setting my turkeys in. I fix nest, put turkey on, put plenty of water and feed, and there is always a dust bath ready for her under the dry shed, so I am never afraid of her going back to her old nest or a stray dog getting to her. After she hatches I just let her come off in the pen when she gets ready. When the little ones are stout enough I let the hen out every pretty day after the dew dries off, but make them roost under shed every night until they are large enough to fly up to the roost.—Mrs. J. H. Portis, in Southern Cultivator.

Counts Eggs as Laid.

The dishonest hen with cannibalistic tendencies; can no longer defraud her employer with impunity and if she likes eggs for her meals she is in danger of decapitation. Two Wisconsin men have perfected a registering device which keeps a record of every egg laid and enables chicken owners to detect any loss through theft or any other agency. This device is in the form of a band that fits over the hen's body. The expansion of the body caused by the emission of the egg causes the band to spread and register a number. If the indicator shows that a hen is laying more eggs than are collected and if the owner finds no evidence of theft, he can then be sure that the bird is eating the eggs herself and either put her in the stewpan and replace her with a more honest fowl or keep such a close watch over her that she will not have an opportunity to indulge her cannibalistic taste. It is impossible to cure a hen of this habit once it is contracted.—Washington Star.

Nest Boxes.

There should be several nest boxes provided for each pen, to avoid hens crowding into one nest and breaking eggs. Boxes should be eighteen inches square and ten to twelve inches deep, supplied with clean nest material, and a few moth balls kept in them. Across middle of pens boards should be placed to the height of fifteen inches, and to the front, litter placed to scatter small grain to induce plenty of exercise. Shucks and a little fodder make the best litter, as fowls eat the fodder if not provided plenty of green food, and the shucks do not crumble so much like straw or hay, and can be thrown to one side when the pen is cleaned, and then used again.—Progressive Farmer.

What Hens Eat.

Experiments have proved that a hen in good condition will eat, on an average, three ounces of mash in the morning, two ounces of grain at noon and four ounces of grain at night.

Let shipped eggs rest twenty-four hours before placing to hatch. In ordering eggs to hatch, place orders early in season and have hens ready to receive eggs before you notify breeders to ship them.

"My—ma mamma h-asn't any l-ideas in her head—so there!" she exclaimed.—Philadelphia Record.
