

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The holy passion of friendship is of so sweet and steady and loyal and enduring a nature that it will last through a whole lifetime—if not asked to lend money.—Mark Twain.

SOME GOOD EATING.

One tires of the same flavoring in cakes and the combination of two or three different extracts makes one that will be pleasing and give variety. Take one teaspoonful of almond, three of lemon and six of vanilla, put it in a bottle, shake well and use a teaspoonful of the mixture as flavoring for cake or pudding.

A fine combination for soup seasoning is two ounces of dried marjoram, parsley, savory, thyme, lemon peel and sweet basil, ground fine and well mixed. Keep in a tightly corked bottle and use sparingly for seasoning.

Rice a la Creole.—Chop one large onion and a small slice of cooked ham very fine; put in a saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter, add a cupful of cooked rice, a can of tomatoes, a teaspoonful of salt and a little paprika. Mix together and heat well, then put into a baking dish, cover with bread crumbs, and put into the oven for 15 minutes.

Bacon Chowder.—Chop half a pound of bacon or salt pork coarsely and fry a light brown in a kettle. Add two tablespoonfuls of wheat flour and when brown add six potatoes, also chopped with water to cover. Boil until the vegetables are tender, add three cupsful of milk, three milk crackers and sweeten to taste. Serve hot.

Beans With Rice.—Soak a pint of red beans overnight, drain, cover with cold water and cook slowly. In one hour add a half pound of fat bacon. Season with salt, red pepper, add one pint of washed rice and cook slowly until all is tender. The rice should be nearly dry. Serve on a platter with the bacon in the center.

Baked Potatoes.—Peel good-sized potatoes, cut out a hole and in it place a rolled strip of bacon, lay in a baking pan and add a little water, baste the potatoes with the water and the fat while cooking. When done they will be tender and a nice brown color.

Deviled Almonds.—Fry blanched almonds in olive oil, drain on paper, add salt and cayenne. These are nice served with the salad course.

POTASH MADE OF FELDSPAR

Discovery, It is Said, Will Enable America to Produce All the Amount Needed.

The European war has brought the United States face to face with the problem of supplying its own potash. Several new methods of providing a substitute for German fertilizers have been brought to the attention of the government. The most promising of these is that patented by a Canadian, which provides for the extracting of potash from ordinary feldspar. The feldspar is heated with limestone and iron oxide at a temperature of about 2,200 degrees Fahrenheit, which produces a partly fused mass that is easily decomposed by a weak acid. From this product the potash salts can be readily extracted for further purification.

Another method of obtaining potash will be tried out at a New Orleans distillery where molasses is used in large quantities. In the distilleries where molasses is fermented it is said that more than one hundred and six tons of potash is wasted daily, and it is this waste the New Orleans company is endeavoring to forestall. It is possible to make fertilizer from this otherwise worthless material at a price that will meet competition even after the war is over.

BRUSHED CAR OFF HIS EAR

So Declared Owner When He Was Describing His Escape After Collision.

In telling the details later, William A. Lucas said he brushed the car off his ear, but that was somewhat of an exaggeration. He was explaining an accident that occurred at Washington street and Vermont avenue, when the car in which he was riding with his wife and her sister, Mrs. Kate Holmes, all of 652 Towne avenue, was struck amidships by an unknown motorist in a powerful machine.

The small car which Mr. Lucas was driving was turned over, and Mr. Lucas was thrown out, so he fell with the full weight of the machine on his head. The car was one of the light ones about which so many jokes are attempted.

By bracing himself Mr. Lucas succeeded in raising the machine enough to escape. He was not seriously injured. Nor was his wife or sister-in-law. All are more than sixty years old.—Los Angeles Times.

WANTED—To have about 40,000 feet of lumber sawed. Saw mill owners will please communicate with me, stating price. F. F. Rainsford, Trenton, R. F. D. 5-17-2t.

ROAD BUILDING

EXPERIMENT IN GOOD ROADS

Road to Chevy Chase "Text Book in Concrete, Brick and Stone"—Experts Are Interested.

There is here a text book in concrete, brick and stone—the road to Chevy Chase, built by the plans and under the direction of the office of public roads of the United States and for the sole purpose of informing the public and the members of congress interested in the improvement of the public highways upon the methods and cost of construction, types of roads, adaptability of material and economy of maintenance.

Thousands of people travel over this road, which is built in many sections of different types, every day, and hundreds of practical road builders from all parts of the country have inspected it from time to time and have marveled at the excellence of the work.

Manufacturers who have supplied bituminous materials for the treatment of the road have detached their special experts for this service and the traffic over the road has demonstrated under carefully observed conditions the relative value of the several types of road making up this great highway.

The Chevy Chase road is experimental. It consists of different types of pavement—bituminous macadam laid by the penetration method, surface treatments of waterbound macadam, asphaltic surfaces on concrete foundations, bituminous surfaced concrete, plain and oil cement concrete and vitrified brick, all of which are under daily observation by expert road builders to ascertain which of the types is best suited to the traffic and which is condemned by practical test under the same conditions of climate, soil, rainfall, heat and cold and like traffic requirements. It would be just the same to the office of public roads which has written this open book in concrete, brick and stone whether any part of it or all parts of it should fail, failure in materials used, in construction, in durability, in cost, in maintenance—the test is the thing.

Road building is a science now, and efficiency is the only test of quality. In the stones used in the construction of the Chevy Chase road, their specific gravity, their weight per cubic foot, their water absorption, their percentage of wear, their hardness and toughness are all determined by the most careful scientific tests. Patrolmen are constantly employed on this road to keep account of whatever defects in materials and construction may develop and exact data as to the cost of maintenance.

The Chevy Chase road was fortunately placed for the reason that all of its sections of types have been subjected to precisely the same sort of traffic year in and year out and the section or type that has not stood the strain has been as important an object lesson to road builders as the section or type that has maintained itself under like strain. The road, as a whole, is a great experiment conducted by the most competent engineers to demonstrate the most practical things.

Good Stretches Useless. Local control in road building means a good patch where the officials are up to date, and a poor stretch where the local authorities are slack in their road work—and the poor stretches of road make the good stretches useless.

Up-to-Date Roads. We have the spectacle in most states of pioneer roads for twentieth-century farmers whose equipment in farming consists of modern machinery and modes of travel. When, oh when, will he put the up-to-date mode of travel on an up-to-date road!

Drag Improves Surface. Is your road to town rough and hard to travel over? A split-log or iron drag drawn over the road after each rain helps to give a good surface and does not cost much.
