A house belonging to Mr. Wm. Langford was burned down Sunday morning about 2 o'clock. The house was a twostory one with four rooms, the first story of brick. It was situated on Gauntt Street, on a lot purchased by Mr. Langford from the Julius Smith estate. It had just been completed, with the exception of a few finishing touches. No one was living in it; and there bad been no fire about the place Saturday. There seems no room to doubt that the fire was incendiary, but by whom or for what cause it was burned is not known. Fielding McDowell was killed Monday night, the 7th instant, on Mr. P. B. Workman's place in this County. The Coroner's jury returned a verdict that Simon Johnson did the killing. Job, a brother of Simon, says he (Job) killed Fielding, in self-defense. Job and Fielding had been to town that day, and were quarreling and fighting all the way home, both being in liquor. Job split Fielding's head open with a fence rail, and Dr. Patton sewed up the wound. The quarreling was resumed, Simon and one or two others taking part. In a short time Fielding was shot with an doors. Enfield rifle and killed instantly. The witnesses all testified that Simon fired the rifle. Simon and Job are both in jail. The parties are all colored.

Almanacs Wanted.

The medical fraternity, or rather the punck nostrum dealers, or to be more polite the patent medicine men, are requested to send down a few tons of their almanacs, as the demand just now far exceeds the supply. The colored children go for them with an avidity truly astonishing. What they want with them we can't understand. It's lively to be about the Drug Stores as the piccaninnies come by from school, to see them go for Almanacs, but the Druggists don't appreciate it as fully as they might; and when they are waited on by a score of little darkeys and asked for an Almanac, they show signs of impatience. We were in at Fant's one afternoon last week, when a squad of colored urchins came in with the usual request-"take 'em, take 'em all," said the Doctor, who tired of doing a retail business concluded to close out at one venture. They did not wait for a second invitation and in a twinkling the Doctor's counter was bare, and he fetched a sigh of relief as he said, "dog-of South Carolina of which I shall speak, before the many readers of the HERALD, and especially in the eyes of "Palmetto." Now "Palmetto's" letter in the last week's HERALD reminds me of an incident which occurred the year before the war ended between the lamented Henry L., then Gen. By J. N. MARTIN & CO. Benning, of Toombs' old Brigade, and a soldier of the 15th Ga. Regt. Gen. Benning came out as Colonel of the 17th Ga. Regt, Toombs' Brigade being composed of the 2nd, 15th, 17th and 20th Ga. DRY SALTED MEATS-the rank of Brigadier-General, and one dark rainy night when we were on a forced march from the Darbytown road in Virginia to Petersburg, the soldier had to be good grit who did not straggle some. Gen. Benning marched that night in the rear of his Brigade, and as the stragglers would fall back beside the General's horse he would call out, "What Regiment do you belong to, sir?" If the soldier said, "to the 17th Regt., sir," the General would say, "Well, 17th, it's a bad night to be on a forced march, but we must do the best we can; forward on, 17th, to your regiment, it's just ahead of you." But if the straggler unluckily belonged to the 2nd, 15th or 20th, or some other command, the General would draw his sword and with an oath. order him forward, saying at the same time, "The whole Brigade is straggling back into the 17th till she can scarcely move at all." Well, soldiers were not slow to learn "the ropes," and a young Corporal of the 15th Ga., had found that it was an advantage to belong to the 17th, and about 11 o'clock, tired and weary, he had fallen behind till he was alongside of Gen. Benning. "What Regt., do you belong to, sir?" asked the General. "To the 17th Ga., General," meekly replied the Corporal. "I believe you lie, sir," replied the General. It being very dark and the Corporal knowing the General would never find him out, asked, "Who are you anyhow, sir?" "I am Gen. Benning, sir, of the 17th Ga., sir, now who are you, sir?" at the same time drawing his sword and wheeling his horse. "I am Corporai Bogs, sir, of the 15th," replied the soldier, as he slid over the stone-The present number overflows with wall into the field and disappeared in the darkness, leaving the irate General standing in the road calling to the Adjutant to have "that man arrested." Now we feel that we will compare to "Palmetto" at least as did Gorporal Bogs to Gen. Ben-"Palmetto" claims to have traveled six months in Georgia; well we have just completed a three weeks' tour in Abbeville County and no other, and as we shall speak only "whereof we know" we will confine our letter only to Abbeville, and while we have no issue to make with "Palmetto" we do say that while "Palmetto" was traveling "six months in Georgia", that Abbeville ed. County was making the most gigantic strides to the front, both politically, religiously and agriculturally, than she has in any three years of her existence before. "Palmetto" saw the Haiman Plow Factory in all its blast, and it is no doubt a sight worth seeing; but I will venture to say that there are as many of Haiman's Plows sold and used in Abbeville County as any County in Georgia. They are good Plows our farmers know it. We have been using largely for the last 12 months the Avery Turn Plows and Sweeps, also the famous Dickson Sweep, as well as Dickson Cotton Seed. We also use in Abbeville McCormick's Reaper and Binder, as well as one or two others which give good satisfaction. As rolling as our country is we have more than one of G. & G. Cooper's Traction or Road Engines which did well in the threshing season. We use Hall's Solf-Feeding Gin and Condenser as well as

Smith's Double Power Press. We have Smith's Patent Gin Sharpener; one man can whet a gin perfectly with it in 5 hours whether he ever saw a gin before or not. If "Palmetto" will come over to Abbeville just now he will see the Simms' Compost Distributor at work in almost every field, one hand and horse doing the work of one horse and three hands, and doing it splendidly; he will also see countless numbers of "West's Guano Distributors" putting out Fertilizers, and if "Palmetto" will visit us about the 15th of April he will see that we know just how to plant cotton with Cotton Planters. The people of Abbeville used last season not less than 250 Rhodes, Blacklidge and Daw Law Machines. "Palmetto" is right when he says these are the standard machines. "Palmetto" says that one man borrowed money to pay for a County, or bought it on time, we forget which, but it all amounts to the same, and in 5 years made $5,000. Well, the 13th day of last March (1880), a young man 19 years old bought Calhoun Township for $25, for the Rhodes Cotton Planter, and made clear $180 that season, having only a month to do the work in, and to our own knowledge he will make $500 clear this season. Can

"Palmetto" find a Georgian who will beat this young man? Mr. J. L. Brock & Son, at Honea Path, known all over the State as large manufacturers of wagons and carriages, told us in February that they had gone entirely out of the business and were making a specialty of Rhodes & Blacklidge Cotton Planters. W. C. Brock, at Due West, is making Cotton Planters and Compost Distributors. James A. McAlister, of Lowndesville, is making a specialty of Seed Drills and Compost Distributors, and we will venture to say that there will be not less than 700 Cotton Seed Distributors in Abbeville County this year. We desire to say to "Palmetto" that we are abreast with ry is, as we have not visited the lower portion of the State for 3 or 4 years, but Abbeville can make her mile in 2.144, and Now, Messrs. Editors, I do not wish to be understood to disapprove of anything which "Palmetto" has said as regards the Alex Rikard, who is under contract with use of labor-saving machines. We say me for this year, and who has left me withwith "Palmetto", if you are not using it get it, its a sure road to prosperity, and we endorse all that he says on that line, but we set out to prove that Abbeville, at least, is not so far behind Georgia or any other Southern State in progressive agricultuie.

And now, Messrs. Editors, if we have succeeded in showing that Abbeville is yet we think we know him to be a dear friend of ours and a citizen of Newberry County.
