A PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE.

The Herald is the highest respect a Family Newspaper, devoted to the material interests of the people of this County and the State. It circulates extensively, and as an Advertising medium offers unrivaled advantages. For Terms, see first page.

South Carolina: Its Resources and Attractions.

This is the title, rather a portion of the title, of a pamphlet just issued from the State Immigration Bureau. We presume the pamphlet is intended for world-wide circulation, as special pains are taken in the title to show that South Carolina is in the United States of America.

We are free to say that amid the multiplicity of pamphlets, circulars, etc., that come to this office this particular pamphlet would very likely have passed unread; but the scathing criticism of the Charleston News and Courier, the 14th, led us to examine the pamphlet carefully; and we agree with that paper in declaring that the pamphlet should be suppressed. It is bombastic and sophomoric in style; filled with violations of the simplest rules of English grammar and rhetoric; deals in the wildest sort of generalities; and is puerile in the extreme. A school boy of fifteen who would commit as many mistakes in the same space would either be fogged or kept in after school. Its circulation will certainly reflect no credit on the State, and can give no information of any value to strangers.

The pamphlet is accompanied by a map made in 1867—fourteen years ago. As the News and Courier well says, "What can be thought of a map of the State in 1881 which does not show the Counties of Aiken, Oconee and Hampton, is oblivious of the existence of the Air Line Railroad, and treats the Wilmington and Manchester Railroad as still in existence." But really the map is the least objectionable part of the pamphlet.

This pamphlet should be suppressed, and the task of preparing a paper for the purposes designed by this should be entrusted to some person who can not only write good English but can also set forth the resources and attractions of South Carolina with some degree of method and definiteness.

Bad for the Old Dominion.

The good news from Virginia last week was premature. Later intelligence reveals the lamentable fact that Mahone and the Readjusters carried the State by an overwhelming majority. The Republicans supported the Readjusters almost solidly. The entire negro vote, with very insignificant exceptions, voted with the Mahone party. The virtue and intelligence and honesty of the old State were powerless against the combined forces of the Federal administration, ignorance and dishonesty. One result of the election will be to put another Readjuster or Republican in the United States Senate. Riddlebarger will probably be the man.

Officers of the State Agricultural and Mechanical Society.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the South Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical Society was held the 9th instant in Columbia.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

President, D. P. Duncan; Vice Presidents, E. R. McIver, 1st Congressional District; W. G. Hinson, 2d; A. P. Butler, 3d; B. H. Massey, 4th; J. Wash Watts, 5th. Executive Committee, B. F. Crayton, E. L. Roche, W. A. Clark, Isaac S. Bamberg, J. N. Huffman, J. K. G. Nance, L. C. Thompson, Secretary and Treasurer, Thomas W. Holloway.

Judge Cox, of the District of Columbia, has quashed the informations against Brady and others in the Star Route prosecutions. The Judge says the prosecutions should have been brought by indictment.

It is highly probable that the defendants will escape entirely through technicalities.

The Supreme Court of Indiana has decided that playing billiards where the loser pays for the use of the table is gambling, and that the proprietor is therefore liable for keeping a gambling house.

Two colored men fought a duel with shotguns near Norfolk, Va., a few days ago, and one was mortally wounded. The duel was intended to be only a sham affair—a parody, as it were, of the numerous affairs of honor that have recently occurred in that State; but some bird shot accidentally got into one of the guns, resulting in the strange anomaly that the mock duel was the only serious duel that has occurred.

There is considerable virtue and honesty still left in New York City. In one Congressional District the candidates were W. W. Astor, Republican—millionaire, and Roswell P. Flower, a Democrat. Notwithstanding the District was Republican and the millionaire candidate spent $75,000 in buying votes, Flower was elected, on his merits alone, by a very handsome majority.

Judge T. J. Mackey denies the report that he is a candidate for Collector of the Port of Charleston. The Judge, we presume, will be a candidate before the next Legislature for re-election to the Circuit Bench. What his chances are we cannot say; but we think the Legislature could find a substitute if it should try.

The President has accepted the resignation of Attorney-General McVeigh—none too soon, judging from the bungling manner in which the Star Route prosecutions were carried on.

The Executive Committee of the State Press Association, at its meeting in Columbia last week, decided to hold the next Press Association in Marion.

The National Cotton Planters' Association will meet in Atlanta December 6th. Over three hundred delegates are expected to be present.

The trial of Guiteau for the murder of President Garfield was begun at Washington Monday. It will probably consume two months or more.

Gov. Hagood, in accordance with the President's proclamation, has appointed the 24th as a day of thanksgiving and prayer.

New York is very comfortably Democratic. There is some consolation in that.

The Legislature opens next Tuesday, the 22nd.

State News.

Ex-Chief Justice Willard has moved back to New York.

The candidates for the Charleston Custom House are R. M. Wallace, T. B. Johnston, C. H. Baldwin and Harry Noah.

A five year old daughter of Mr. Goodman, of Pelzer, was killed the 11th by a freight train while she was attempting to get off the cars.

Washington Letter.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10, 1881.

There are a great many more Government clerks and officials in Washington now than were here a week ago. The exodus of voters from the Departments was almost as great this year as it has ever been in a Presidential campaign. All employees from Virginia, New York and Pennsylvania were especially enjoined to go home and vote, and were given ten days' vacation for that purpose. Nearly every room in most of the Departments was short several clerks, and the work, which at this season of the year is most pressing, suffered in consequence. But the country had to be saved again. It may as well be understood now and here, that the first business of this Administration, at all times, will be to attend to politics. This reminds me that quite a number of persons holding lucrative Federal positions in the South are now here in a state of great uneasiness of mind. They were prominent in opposition to Grant in the election of delegates to Chicago last year and now that the "Old Guard" is running things they are suspicious that all will not be well with them.

The absentees on account of politics were not confined to clerks. Even the President was away several days on the pretext of "private business." When the New York Republican State Convention met in New York the unsettled law business of President Arthur required several days of the most assiduous labor to settle and close it up, and it is doubtful whether he would have been able to settle it at all had it not been for the timely aid rendered him day and night by Cookling, Logan, of Nevada, and others who knew just what attention the President's private business affairs needed. Then last week when his political friends were again in need of advice, and he felt great concern lest apathy should cause "his own State" to go against his party, the President discovered that a lot more of his private business had to be settled, notwithstanding his efforts to close it up a month ago. Meanwhile he had done here all he could to help Mahone settle up his business over in Virginia. Great interest was manifested here in the Virginia election, and all honest men not engaged in politics regret the disgrace which has fallen upon that Commonwealth by the triumph of the Republican Repudiation Coalitionists. But her property owning, tax-paying people, those who have a real interest in her future, are not responsible for it. The real credit of the results belongs to President Arthur and under officials, who pretending to be specially scrupulous regarding the country's honor, have taken into close communion a party of repudiators. The 65,000 ignorant, illiterate rogues voted the ticket in obedience to instructions from this city, and Virginia must submit to the mongrel Administration which Arthur, Mahone and that vote has selected.

Judge Folger has taken rooms at the Arlington for the winter, and assumed charge of the Treasury Department. The official quill will fall with considerable effect, it is understood, in a short time, much to the advantage of the Department, which needs new blood, while it gets rid of some of its rings. There is a good deal of talk, too, about a change of policy—a reduction of some internal revenue taxes and a less rapid paying off of the public debt. Just at present the annual reports about attention in this and other Departments. The heads of bureaus are already sending in their reports to the Secretaries who will embody them in their recommendations to Congress, through the President. Some of these subordinate officials are quite prone to elaborate theories and express views of their own. When Mr. Spinner was Treasurer, he fell into the habit of airing his financial views in his annual reports, and the practice grew on him until he practically usurped the functions of the Secretary in the matter of making recommendations to Congress. Finally Secretary Bristow resolved to stop it and on one occasion took his pen and drew black lines all through the long spun theories in the presence of Spinner, who had just handed in his report. The old gentleman was indignant, but his report was thereafter printed as it should be, containing simply a record of the transactions of his office. Mr. Gillfillan has in his report for this year taken up considerable space with a somewhat crude discussion of abstract financial questions, and there is much curiosity at the Treasury to see what the new Secretary will do about it.

The election of a Democratic member of the House of Representatives from the Eleventh New York district destroys the majority of the straight out Republicans, and they will only be able to muster 146 votes, one less than a majority. The Republicans here are not very much concerned over this, as they express no doubt of being able to pick up the one vote requisite to constitute a majority without much trouble. They have nine Greenbackers, two Virginia Readjusters and with New York Independent Republicans to recruit from, and their calculations are, therefore, based on good foundation. Yet if these twelve members, who belong to neither of the regular organizations, were to combine they could dictate their own terms.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, COLUMBIA, Nov. 14, 1881.

Whereas information has been received at this Department that an atrocious murder was committed in Newberry County on or about the 8th day of October, 1881, upon the body of Wyatt Young, one Milton Oxner, and that the said Milton Oxner has fled from justice;

Now, therefore, I, JOHNSON HAGOOD, Governor of the State of South Carolina, in order that justice may be done and the majesty of the law vindicated, do hereby offer a reward of FIFTY DOLLARS for the apprehension and delivery to the Sheriff of the County in which the alleged crime was committed of the said Wyatt Young, with proof to convict.

Said Milton Oxner is about 30 years old, about six and a half feet high, copper color, no whiskers, weight 220 pounds. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed [L. S.] the Great Seal of the State at Columbia, this 14th day of November, A. D. 1881, and in the 106th year of the Independence of the United States of America.

JOHNSON HAGOOD, Governor.

The South Carolina Military Academy.

Whether justly or not, the world measures men by the success in life that they obtain, so that whatever course of training will best secure that end for their sons is well worthy of the attention and thoughtful consideration of men. Success in any pursuit, however, is rarely attained unless confidence is felt in the exercise of those mental forces which it is necessary to employ, and this element of confidence can only come as the result of a systematic culture of those forces under suitable condition and in a proper gymnasium.

Such condition and such training were supplied to the young men of our State in past years by the military schools that were established at the Arsenal in Columbia and at the Citadel in Charleston, and the loss of these admirable institutions has been one of the most seriously injurious results of the war.

Wisely planned and carefully nurtured by her most eminent men the military schools of the State of South Carolina sent out year by year young men skilled in the application of the exact sciences to the manifold wants of life and accustomed to that discipline which inspires prompt and decisive action. The wholesome influence for good and the beneficial results in general secured by the system adopted in these schools may best be estimated by the fruits they have borne of earnest and worthy men in every county of the State, and it is greatly to be desired that by an early restoration of these schools they might be made available to the youth of the State. The dictates of sound common sense lead us to see that opportunities for a higher grade of education than our schools now offer can no longer with safety be disregarded, and that we must rigidly provide for our young men here at home the advantages they need to qualify themselves for the development of the material resources with which our State is so liberally endowed. Let the military schools of South Carolina be re-established on the same broad and wise plan that marked their former administration, that they may afford our young men the privileges they need of systematic training and thorough culture. The Legislature should not allow its next session to pass without making an ample appropriation to the Board of Visitors of the Academy for the reopening and maintenance of these schools, and it is earnestly to be hoped that the year 1882 may witness the consummation of a scheme so eminently conducive to the best and highest interests of our State.

Humbugged Again.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the Bitters my wife was cured and has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T. St. Paul Pioneer Press.
