THE CATTLE SHOW AT THE EXPOSITION.

The exhibit of cattle at the International Cotton Exposition now in progress at Atlanta, Ga., has seldom been surpassed in the quality of the exhibit as a whole, or in the excellence of the individual animals which took some of the prizes.

The Short Horns exhibited by Messrs. J. R. Anderson, of Anderson's, Ohio, and Geo. W. Palmer, of Saltville, Virginia, were superb. The head of Mr. Anderson's herd weighed 2,670 pounds, and that of Mr. Palmer's herd, a younger animal, weighed 2,000 pounds. The objects had prominently in view in the breeding of the two herds were conspicuously prominent in the characteristics of the animals. Mr. Anderson's herd had been bred with an eye almost single to the production of beef, while Mr. Palmer had sought a combination of beef and milk production. Mr. Anderson's cattle had evidently received more special preparation as show animals, and even as such were over-fat as stock animals. We hardly think a breeder of the skill shown in the quality of Mr. Anderson's herd would prefer to breed from animals in the pampered condition of the individuals of the herd exhibited. Yet he showed that he knew how to capture the eye of the average observer, and we doubt not, attract that of the best judges. His herd does him credit as a skillful breeder of Short Horns and an experienced exhibitor, for few men can eliminate the influence of fat in their judgment of animals of any kind, even when it has nothing to do with the qualities on which they are called upon to pass. The Exposition was fortunate in having as judges in every class of cattle, men of experience and character, men who thoroughly understood their business. The awards were made with the best judgment and the most even-handed justice. Mr. Anderson took the prize of $850 on his Short Horn herd, that for the best bull of any age, and the best heifer. Mr. Palmer took the prize for the best cow over three years, the best bull between two and four years, and the best cow of any age.

Mr. D. J. Whitmore, of Troy, Ohio, exhibited a superb herd of Devon cattle, and captured the herd prize of $250, and two other liberal prizes.

Mr. Ed. D. Hick, of Nashville, Tenn., who exhibited a herd, and Mr. Palmer, of Saltville, Va., who competed for the individual prizes, divided the latter with Mr. Whitmore. The exhibit of Devons was very fine, both in numbers and quality. Mr. Whitmore's herd especially gave evidence of very skillful breeding. This was exhibited in the uniformity of the type of his animals and in the full development of the characteristic points of the Devons.

Individuals in the other herds possessed particular points of excellence superior to those of Mr. Whitmore's cattle, but the tout ensemble of Mr. W.'s herd was simply superb. There is no herd of animals in which the characteristic points which distinguish them are so fixed and permanent as the Devons. They have been bred pure as far back as we have any authentic history, and hence have in a degree not possessed by any other breed the power of stamping their type upon their offspring even when bred to the most insignificant grade.

Jerseys were well represented in the herds of Messrs. J. B. Wade and R. Peters, Atlanta Ga., and G. W. Palmer, Saltville, Va.

Mr. Wade's herd was simply superb, and was awarded the herd premium of $250. Besides this he took four individual premiums amounting in all to $460.

Mr. Wade has the honor of owning a Jersey cow, Tenella, which has made the best score on record, either in Europe or America, as to quantity of milk. The largest yield of milk by a Jersey cow until Tenella reported, was 53 pounds, both made in the presence of a committee of gentlemen who attended to witness and establish beyond dispute the authenticity of the record. We look with much interest to the report of the yield of butter from this cow. It has not yet been tested, but judging from her points of excellence we expect her to eclipse Eurolas. The awards were made on Thursday. On Friday the stock was paraded around the old race-track, which surrounds the main building, and stopped in front for some minutes for the inspection of visitors. Here arranged in a line fronting the embankment they presented a beautiful sight, which was witnessed and admired by hundreds of visitors. It was admitted on all hands to be a superb cattle show, and one worthy of any locality and any occasion.

Sen. Anthony sent every member of the United States Senate, as well as every living ex-member of that body, a Thanksgiving turkey.

Van Amburg's circus and menagerie was sold at auction in Dutchess Co., N. Y., the other day. An elephant brought $7,100, a camel $625, and a rhinoceros $2,400.

The Carolina Spartan is bitterly opposed to the re-opening of the Citadel and Arsenal. It says: "It will be less expensive to create about nineteen hundred more brigadiers and colonels. That is about as much of the military as the State now needs."

The Mayor of Richmond, Va., has vetoed an ordinance for compulsory vaccination, the penalty being $5. His objection to the ordinance is that the provision for free vaccination is such that laboring men and women would be forced to lose a day's labor in order to be vaccinated.

A heavy rain storm prevailed at the time appointed for Frank Wall's marriage, at Crawfordville, Ind., and it may be that the dampness quenched his matrimonial ardor, for he borrowed $6 and an umbrella from the bride, walked off hurriedly toward the railroad station, and has not since been seen in the town.
