

James L. Orr.

The March number of the American Phrenological Journal, published by Fowler & Wells, 308 Broadway, New York, and edited in part by Professor O. S. Fowler, who is now lecturing in the South, gives a portrait and biographical sketch of Speaker Orr, and the following phrenological sketch: Mr. Orr has a predominance of the vital temperament, which is indicated by the largeness of his chest, the fullness of his face, the plumpness of his muscles, and his general stoutness of build and breadth of organization. This gives health, warmth, enthusiasm, power of endurance, and those qualities of body which sustain the brain, and thereby give to the mind zeal, cordiality and earnestness of action. He has a fair amount of the motive or billions temperament, which gives toughness, power and hardihood; and he has enough of the mental temperament to give clearness of mind and a studious disposition. He bears the marks of sound health and a strong constitution, and of having inherited these excellent qualities from a long-lived ancestry. By observing the form of his head, it will be seen that he is largely developed over the eyes. This is the region of the perceptive intellect, and in this case indicates unusual practical talent, readiness of mind and ability to gather information, and to take clear, scientific, practical and business views of life. The middle portion of his forehead is also large, which shows an excellent memory of details, particulars, similar cases, historical reminiscences and whatever has transpired in his experience. He carries in his mind more of the knowledge which he has gained by reading and experience, and can bring it to bear on the point in question with more readiness and force, than ninety-nine men in a hundred who are in public life. The upper part of his forehead is only about full, showing less of the abstract and profound, philosophical and speculative; hence he is less inclined to indulge his mind in problematical premises and theoretical speculations, and to argue on abstract questions, than he is to take general views, and to regard subjects in their practical aspects. He possesses the qualities of a historian, and these talents avail him as a lawyer and politician, and give him that ready business capacity for which, in Congress, he is so distinguished. As Speaker of the House, he requires to remember all the phases and points of parliamentary law; to hold in continual readiness the usages and customs of a deliberative body, and also to be able to see all the windings and complications which, in the process of legislation, arise from various questions and motions which come before the House. This form of forehead is also seen in Henry Clay, John Quincy Adams, Silas Wright and others who have been distinguished for their practical talent, command of details, and power to use all their knowledge on the spur of the moment and to the best advantage. Had Mr. Orr devoted himself to science, instead of to law and legislation, he would have distinguished himself as an investigator, a teacher and a demonstrator. He has a fine development of the organ of language, as seen in the fullness and prominence of the eye. This gives him great readiness of speech, while his intellectual faculties are so developed as to enable him to arrange all ideas and to clothe his facts and prepare them for fitting expression. His temperament gives him the requisite emotion for an orator. The top-head, especially through the region of benevolence and veneration rises high, giving him considerable religious sentiment, kindness of character, and politeness of disposition. He has a large firmness—a strong will, great desire to finish what he begins, and a disposition to drive through difficulties.—The more opposition he meets, the more it seems to fortify his mind to grapple with it—more especially if he feels confident that his course is right, and that time will sanction it. The side-head is fully developed, showing fair mechanical talent, desire for property, power to be reserved and restrain his feelings, prudence, circumspection, energy, courage and efficiency. He has strong social affections—finds it very easy to make friends, and to show himself bland, cordial and affectionate, not only toward men, but toward children and women. In his own social circle, where he feels that he is not watched by critical eyes, his manners are very open, frank and undisguised. He has large self-esteem; but his veneration and friendship modify its actions and soften its natural austerity. He is rarely repulsive or domineering, still he is dignified—has a just sense of his own character, and is determined to command respect.—His approachiveness being large, induces a pretty active regard for public approval and a desire to stand high in the estimation of an, more especially those whose character and experience give value to their opinions. He will do and suffer much to maintain his honor. He is laborious, consecutive and thorough—is anxious to understand and to know the bearings and uses of everything. Very little escapes his attention anywhere, and this sharp observation is pre-eminently evinced wherever he has care and authority. He systematizes his thoughts and actions; arranges his ideas and all his business in such a way as to do a vast amount of labor with but very little friction. We seldom meet with a head in which is combined so much strength and self-possessed energy—so much steadiness of purpose and practical judgment, with so much enthusiasm and frankness. He rarely loses his mental balance from extra heat of passion and emotion, and never becomes tame, or prosy, or uninteresting in his style of speaking. He is pre-eminently a valuable public man, on account of his knowledge, his industry and his practical talent.

dressess were made by Ex-Gov. Jones and Hon. Mr. Hughes, of Indiana, and others; and letters were received from Hon. John Kelly, Hon. Elijah Ward, Hon. John Cochrane and Hon. Wm. B. Maclay. The Herald says: "It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings which has ever assembled in this city, and in point of interest was one of the most successful. "The speeches, resolutions, letters, songs and enthusiasm, were all indicative of a determination to sustain the President at all hazards." The Journal of Commerce says: "The audience was composed of very intelligent people—many of whom were evidently no frequenters of political meetings, but had come for the purpose of hearing the Le-compton side of the Kansas question." From Washington. WASHINGTON, March 1.—General Whitfield, in a letter received to-day, says that General Lane's party has served upon him a notice to quit, threatening, unless he do so, to assassinate him. He has sent his family out of Kansas, but resolved to remain himself. He also says that house-burnings and murders are frequent. In the county opposite St. Joseph, Missouri, a family was driven out and several persons were killed. Another family was also driven out in the county above. Prominent Democrats calculate that the Kansas and Minnesota bills combined will pass the Senate by six or eight, and the House by about fifteen majority. Samuel Medary, ex-Governor, was to-day confirmed by the Senate, as Postmaster of Columbus, Ohio. WASHINGTON, March 2.—Despatches received at the War Department from Col. Johnston, indicate an insufficiency of the present means at Fort Laramie, to transport provisions to Camp Scott, and it will be necessary for those to reach him by the 1st of June. Gen. Scott has, therefore, issued orders for 206 mule teams of wagons to be concentrated at Fort Leavenworth, with the utmost despatch, to transport commissary stores from Fort Laramie to Johnston's camp; seven companies of cavalry to escort them thither—the train to start as early as the 10th of March. In consequence of the known intention of the Mormons to intercept Marcy on his return to Santa Fe, orders have been sent there to the commanding officers to furnish the escort. Col. Johnson says no incident of importance has transpired since the last despatches. The troops are in excellent health and spirits; but many are frost bitten. WASHINGTON, March 3.—In the Senate the proposition of the Printing Committee to curtail the number of copies ordered to be printed of the Coast survey reports was opposed by Messrs. Pearce, Haulin and Mallory, and advocated by Mr. Johnson. Mr. Hammond offered a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to pay the officers and seamen engaged in the expedition sent in search of Dr. Kane at the same rate allowed in De Haven's expedition. The House resumed the consideration of the Senate resolutions of the Naval Retiring Board. Mr. Whitley argued in favor of the resolutions, severely criticising upon the proceedings of the Naval Board. Mr. Bocock offered the resolutions, contending that the proceedings of the Board of Inquiry were just, and even if reversed that many of its supposed victims now expecting to get back into the Navy, would find themselves mistaken. The Senate, yesterday, confirmed the following appointments: W. H. Custis, Collector at Yorktown; J. S. Parker, Collector at Cherrystone; C. C. Robinson, Naval officer at Norfolk; A. J. Denby, Surveyor at Norfolk; W. Sandy, Surveyor at Richmond; H. Hancock, Collector at Washington. WASHINGTON, March 4.—The House Kansas Committee met yesterday. Gen. Calhoun's statement in regard to Kansas affairs was refused to be received. A resolution, calling for the census and documentary evidences, was adopted. Mr. Stephens presented to the Committee a report to be submitted to the House as the views of the majority, which was adopted by the Committee by a vote of eight to seven. It is supposed that there will be two minority reports. The reports will be shortly presented to the House. The Committee adjourned, to-day, sine die. In the Senate, to-day, Kansas affairs were discussed. The resolution to inquire into the alleged influence of the Executive upon the votes of members was laid on the table. The volunteer bill was also discussed. Officers of the army here urge the reinforcement of Col. Johnston's command before starting for Salt Lake City. HORRIBLE AFFAIR.—We learn from a correspondent, who has kindly furnished us, recently, with several items of news, that a horrible occurrence was enacted in a place called the Windham settlement, eight miles from Timmonsville, on the 4th inst. It appears that this place was one which was resorted to for the purpose of drinking and negro trading at all times—the Sabbath day not even excepted. A committee was formed by the citizens of the district for the purpose of suppressing such places of vice and infamy. On the 4th inst., about 75 men, armed, went to this place of resort for drinking. The law-breakers had been apprized that the Vigilance Committee, so called, would be there, and they immediately armed themselves for a defence; when one of the desperadoes fired, wounding one of the committee.—The fire was returned, killing Caleb Freeman and Abraham Windham, and seriously wounding E. A. Windham and Thomas Windham, who were living 24 hours after the occurrence. Several others were wounded. Of the Vigilance Committee, one was badly cut, and is supposed to be mortally wounded. Two others are wounded, but our correspondent did not ascertain whether they were considered dangerous. Dr. Hunter, of Timmonsville, was in attendance at the scene of the dead and dying. A jury of inquest was in attendance on the 5th, examining the witnesses in relation to the death of Freeman and Windham. The above statement may be relied on, as the gentleman who furnishes it was at the place the day after this dreadful tragedy occurred—saw the dead bodies—also those who were wounded—and obtained his facts from the physician in attendance. [Wilmington Herald.] RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—We received a despatch from Columbia last evening, announcing the occurrence of a serious accident on the Union and Spartaung Railroad, by which several of the passengers were badly hurt, one of them having both arms cut off. The accident occurred to the up-train, between Allston and Unionville. Judge O'Neill was among the passengers. [Mercury.] LARGEST STEAMBOAT LOAD OF COTTON.—The steamboat H. R. W. Hill, Capt. T. H. Newell, arrived here this morning, from Memphis, with the largest load of cotton which has been brought hither by any boat during the season—the very handsome one of 5,162 bales. She also brought eighteen hhds. of tobacco, with flour, corn, bacon, iron, &c., in addition. [N. O. Picayune, Feb. 26.] LECOMPTON IN CONGRESS.—The Richmond South indulges in the following confident prediction: We have private information from Washington of a character so authoritative as to leave no doubt of the admission of Kansas with the Lecompton Constitution. We question, indeed, if the measure will be opposed with any earnestness by either wing of the Black Republican-Douglas coalition.—However that may be, Kansas will be admitted into the Union before the lapse of twenty days. HYMENEAL. MARRIED, on the 4th instant, by Rev. W. G. MILLER, Mr. HARRISON DILLARD, to Miss MARGARET HAMILTON, all of Pickens District. On the 7th inst. by W. S. GRISHAM, Esq., Mr. ANDERSON DORSEY, formerly of Texas, to Miss ELIZABETH JANE, daughter of Mr. Wm. KING of Pickens. OBITUARY. DEPARTED this life on the 17th ult., MARTHA LOUISA, daughter of Joel and Rachel Moody, aged one year and five days. Also, on the 22d ult., SARAH HARRIET MOODY, aged three years and three months. DEPARTED this life on the 9th ult., SARAH A., daughter of Lucy and B. B. Mosely, aged eleven years, eight months and thirteen days. The amiable qualities of our young friend made her a favorite with all who knew her. She suffered much during her illness, and seemed conscious that death was fast approaching. In youth, death came and called her away; No remedy his chilling blast could stay; While we mourn the loss of an amiable child, We submit to our Great God's will; Not our will but Thine be done Is all we can say when a friend is gone. DEPARTED at the residence of her parents, (Mr. and Mrs. T. Dickson) near Pendleton, Mrs. SARAH ANTOINETTE, consort of Mr. Thomas J. Steele, on the 5th of January, 1858, in the 22d year of her age. The subject of this notice was justly endeared to a large circle of acquaintances, dearly beloved by her parents and other kindred. Having a heart susceptible of social soul-endearing friendship, she had a year previous to her death become the partner of a kind and tenderly affectionate husband, was a mother to a sweet and lovely infant. To these and to parents, sisters and brothers, she was linked in all that endearing tenderness of heart, which can bind kindred together on earth. Thus we might truly say her life here was desirable indeed.—But the all-wise God whose rights and claims are paramount in his unsearchable wisdom, saw it best to take her from this sin blighted world. Her illness was short, cut off suddenly in the spring time of life, reminding us that "in the midst of life we are in death" and of the uncertainty of all earthly happiness. But we hope she is now chanting the praises of her Redeemer in that "happy, happy land," she loved so much to speak of. "May He who tempers the wind to shorn lambs" soothe the bereaved sorrows, and sanctify their affliction. "Earth has no sorrows that Heaven cannot heal." "Christ is your richest treasure: He can give strength to the feeble, joy to the distressed, He saves the lost, He bids the dying live, And guides the weary soul to perfect rest." DEPARTED this life in Clarksville Ga., on the 22d day of February, 1858, Mrs. HESTER ANN PAYNE, daughter of T. J. and Lucinda Hughes. She was born on the 17th day of October, 1832, at Anderson Court House, S. C., and was married to John B. Payne on the 28th day of July, 1850. The deceased had never united herself with any church, but had long since professed a hope in the christian religion and to know her Maker through faith. And although during her sickness, nature exhibited unmistakable evidences of the most excruciating suffering, yet she uttered not a single murmur at the fate which she said was fast approaching, and evidently awaited her. Kludred and friends crowded around the death bed of this good woman, and tried to console her with words of hope that she might recover; but being truly convinced, in what he thought, she was taught from above, she continued to exhort them, that her time had come, and that she was going; that her mother, who had died some four years ago, was present, and was calling her home, to live with her in Heaven. And when the moment of her dissolution approached, she expired with out a groan or a struggle, leaving a husband and three small children to mourn her loss. Her ardent desire was to see God in glory. In moments of happy and unfeigned bliss, Where the hills are green, eternal and hoary, When you leave a world so full of trouble as this. Administrators' Sale.
