BE PREPARED TO POISON WEEVIL

At the Right Time—Farmers Often Fail to Realize Their Danger.

(Department of Agriculture Bulletin) "In time of peace prepare for war" is a proverb more or less in disfavor in international negotiations just now, but it still applies to fighting the cotton boll weevil, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Late poisoning is likely to hurt the farmer more than it hurts the weevil, and the only way to be sure of getting an "even break" with the weevil is to be supplied in advance with calcium arsenate and the dusting machinery.

"We find every year," says B. R. Coad, director of the department's boll weevil laboratory, "that many farmers fail to realize their danger early enough, and then start making desperate efforts to poison after the infestation has become very heavy. They scurry around trying to get calcium arsenate and dusting machinery, and nearly always there is considerable delay. Even when they get the poison and the machinery, it is extremely difficult to control weevil infestation after it becomes severe. There are so many weevil stages present in the squares and bolls that some of them come out every day and poison must be kept constantly on the plants if any good is to be done by it. This very greatly increases the expense of poisoning. Then, if there comes even a short spell of rainy weather, such control as has been gained is lost, and the farmer has gone to heavy expense for nothing. We advise all cotton planters to be extremely careful about starting late season poisoning. In a few cases it has been successful, but at a heavy cost and only under the most favorable conditions. The only safe course is to be prepared to poison at the right time."

Columbus Elects New City Manager.

Columbus, Ga., June 1.—City affairs of Columbus to-day are running smoothly, following the assumption of the office of city manager by H. B. Crawford, a local contractor, who was elected late yesterday afternoon by unanimous vote of the city commission.

Mr. Crawford was elected to succeed H. G. Hinkle, of Altoona, Pa., who was discharged by action of the commission Saturday. Mr. Hinkle, it is said, left Columbus without the consent or knowledge of the governing body.

Detectives of the city and many from agencies are busily engaged in running down clues of the perpetrators of the bomb outrage, when the home of Mayor J. H. Dimon was dynamited a few weeks ago, but so far no tangible evidence has been gathered.

A Good Reputation plus a Better Price—$10.90

THE new low mark of $10.90 for the 30 x 3½ size "Usco" created something of a sensation. Naturally, the first impulsive remark was on the "wonderful price."

Even more to the point are the comments of today.

People are getting more used to the $10.90 price—but the "Usco" value is still a cause for wonder.

With thousands of $10.90 "Uscos" running today, every locality has had a chance to check up on the surprising tire value.

Let all these "Usco" Tires now serving their owners so well remind you of this—

Whatever the price of "Usco," it has got to deliver big value because it has always done so.

FATAL PLUNGE FOR AVIATOR.

Body Charred Beyond Recognition. Was on Graduation Flight.

Richmond, Va., May 31.—As his loved ones watched him perform stunts in the air, believing, but not positive that it was he, and before their horrified gaze, Second Lieut. William Austin Sydnor, Jr., aged 22, United States army aviator, plunged 700 feet to earth in an airplane that had become unmanageable, within sight of his uncle, Eugene B. Sydnor, at West Hampton, this afternoon, and was probably instantly killed.

In its descent the plane, which, according to eye witnesses, was acting erratically, dove into two cedar saplings, one of which was snapped off, the other uprooted.

Immediately after striking the second tree the careening plane was seen to emit a thin spiral of black or blue smoke, and, a few seconds later, struck the ground with a thud that was heard at the Country Club and the University of Richmond grounds at West Hampton, both a considerable distance away.

Divining from the unusual antics of the plane that something was amiss, and fearful that the aviator would be unable to right the machine before it reached the ground, scores who were witnessing the stunts of young Sydnor in mid-air, hastened to the field in which it was apparent the machine would land.

Before the first of these spectators could reach the scene the plane had struck the ground, and almost immediately a burst of flame was seen. By the time aid had arrived the machine was a mass of flames and the body of the youthful flier, who was motionless and probably already dead, rapidly was being consumed in the fire that partly consumed both the plane and the body of the young officer.

The body, burned beyond recognition, was lifted from the mangled mass of twisted steel and the other wreckage left by the destruction of the plane. Then began a feverish search for some trinket or other means by which the body might be identified. First, the searchers uncovered from the ashes and bits of charred wood a metal watch, which, however, did not aid in the identification. Next, a pocket knife was brought to light. Neither did this throw any light on the identity of the victim.

Then a gold signet ring was found by the searchers who persisted after others had abandoned the quest. After the ashes and grime were wiped off, the initials of a monogram, "W.

A S." were deciphered. The ring was identified by the uncle of young Sydnor.

The plane was a Simplex 1875 and bore the numerals SE-5-A. The gasoline tank, apparently of about 25 gallons capacity, was some distance from the plane.

Dog Led Searchers to Dead Body.

Woolwich, Maine, May 31.—While relatives were searching for Miss Juanita H. Wright, 75 years of age, her collie dog, dripping wet, appeared and led the searchers to a pond. The body of his mistress was found in shallow water. Tracks indicated that the collie had tried to pull her from the pond. Miss Wright had been in poor health.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. From this moment on, cast from your mind all dread and fear, and feel every day as the months roll by that great freedom from much of the suffering which thousands of expectant mothers undergo, unnecessarily. And when the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand easily. It penetrates quickly. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. There is no substitute. Avoid useless greases sometimes recommended by the unknown. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

NOTE—Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradford Regulator Company, 24-46, Atlantic, Ga.

SOME ONE FOUND POT OF GOLD?

Aged Aiken County Man Supposed to Have Had Much Buried Treasure.

Aiken, S. C., May 31.—James C. Garvin, an octogenarian farmer of the Wagoner section, died suddenly on April 28th, at his farm home. "Uncle Jimmie," as he was called by the people of Wagoner, was supposed to be very wealthy, but upon his death it was found that his fortune amounted to about $40,000. Last Saturday Andrew Ward, of Wagoner, discovered a newly dug hole near the home of "Uncle Jimmie," and an old iron pot, around which were scattered several old coins, and the belief prevails in the neighborhood that parties in search of the old man's buried treasure found a pot of money and got away with it before relatives discovered the fact. It was the boast of Mr. Garvin that he had a thousand dollars for every year of his life, and he died aged 83 years. Pope L. Courtney, of Aiken, a brother-in-law of the deceased, gives it as his opinion that the fortune buried by the old man was dug up and carried off.

Wonderful Sleep Producer.

"Was that sleeping potion I recommended to you any good?" asked Brown of his friend Jones.

"Good?" replied Jones. "I should say it was. Listen here! I took it as you suggested and went to sleep soon after retiring. Then a friend with his head under his arm came along and asked me if I wanted to buy his feet. I was bargaining with him for them when the dragon on which I was riding slipped his skin and left me floating in mid air."

"While I was considering how I should get down, a bull with two heads peered over the edge of a wall and said he would haul me up if I would first climb up and fix a windless for him. So as I was sliding down the mountain the conductor came in, and I asked him when the train would reach my station."

"We passed your station two hundred years ago," he answered, calmly folding the train up and slipping it into his vest pocket. At that moment I woke up—and found that I had been asleep for just ten minutes."

FOR FIGHTING BOLL WEEVIL.

Policy is Adopted by the Extension Service Conference.

Clemson College, June 2.—At the meetings of the extension workers held recently at the district offices at Spartanburg, Florence and Aiken, full discussions of the boll weevil problem were entered into with a view of arriving at a policy by which to fight the boll weevil during the present season. After full discussion of various phases of the subject, the conference drew up policies upon which all agree for the present year. In addition to a continuation of the policies and measures advocated heretofore (right varieties, small acreage, putting the farm on self-supporting basis, soil improvement, proper fertilization, fall plowing under of stalks, etc.) the following points were emphasized as measures for immediate execution:

1. Rapid, thorough cultivation—(once per week).
2. No late side-dressing with nitrate of soda.
3. Picking of weevils and squares during June and July, provided labor is cheap and cultivation is not sacrificed.
4. Opposition to the use of all weevil traps and patented devices until they have been tested and endorsed by the college or the Delta Laboratory, Tallulah, La.
5. The use of liquid or sweetened poisons, in the light of available information, to be discouraged rather than otherwise.
6. The use of the calcium arsenate method of poisoning to be regarded as holding more hope than any other method of direct control, but to be undertaken very conservatively with the most intelligent farmers, and to be regarded as experimental for the present. One year's results in poisoning could hardly be regarded as conclusive.
7. Each county agent to have several demonstrations in growing cotton under weevil conditions, upon which a special report will be made at the end of the season, setting forth methods and results obtained.
8. Farmers may not expect much results from a partial application of the above measures.
9. The free use of Extension Bulletin 48 and Farmers' Bulletin 1282 among reading farmers.

Turners Are Found Guilty.

Judge S. W. G. Shipp, presiding at this term of court, sentenced Thos. Turner to six months' imprisonment and Mack Turner to one year.

Wanted to Fight Over Dye Bill.

Washington, June 1.—A personal encounter between Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, was apparently narrowly averted to-night after a stormy debate over the dye sections of the tariff bill.

Advancing to the center aisle to meet each other, the Senators found Senator King, of Utah, standing between them. Then Senator Poindexter, of Washington, moved across the chamber and took Senator McCumber by the shoulder. The latter resisted, and for a moment they were clinched.

The Cause of the Trouble.

Little Willie had been naughty—so much so, in fact, that, after having reproved him several times, his mother was at last forced to punish him severely.

When his father arrived home in the evening he at once perceived that Willie's eyes were suspiciously red.

"What's the matter, sonny?" he inquired.

"Oh, nothing," responded Willie, uneasily.

"Come, don't be frightened," said the father, in coaxing tones. "Tell me all about it; I want to know."

Willie remained silent for some time, then he suddenly burst out: "Well, if you must know, I've had a terrible row with your wife!"
