SAY, MR. MAN!

Are You Living Up
to Your Privileges?

Are you getting your money's worth out of what you have to buy? Are you as prosperous as your neighbor? If you are, it is because you are trading with us. If you are not, you are the man we are talking to. The man who buys—

DEAN'S PATENT FLOUR

From us in season and out of season, and refuses to take any other, no matter how "cheap," he is the man who enjoys life and carries a high head; his big soul is never troubled. He has no worries and he never frets. He seeks comfort for his tired feet by buying a pair of our—

FOOT EASE SHOES

For they are well named, and, like all our Shoes, are chock full of superiority. He buys his—

FERTILIZERS

From us and rests beneath the friendly shade of his own vine and fig tree, for our Fertilizers do all the rest. They are the best grades on the market, and that is what he always demands and what he always gets.

SAY, DON'T—

YOU

WANT TO BE HAPPY? Then, come and have a smile of satisfaction with us. Take a full dose of our Compound Chronic Values and the rest is Peace, Plenty and Prosperity. Chance customers are sure to become regulars.

Try us, and whenever you think of perfect, unalloyed Happiness you will think of—

DEAN & RATLIFF,

The Folks that Sell the Good Kinds.

STATE NEWS.

—The $50,000 fire which occurred at Johnston last Thursday afternoon, wiped one of the principal blocks of the town off the map.

—The South Carolina College is nearly one hundred years old and will celebrate its centennial the 8th, 9th and 10th of next January.

—Capt. John S. Rowe, one of the largest and best known planters of Orangeburg County, has sold his large plantation to several gentlemen from the North.

—Ed. Brown, a good negro, died in Darlington from drinking from a jug of acid which he found under the depot platform and which he thought was whiskey.

—The $40,000 of bonds voted in September by Laurens for improving its water plant and installing a sewerage system have been sold to a Cincinnati firm for $41,027.50.

—The annual conference of the South Carolina Methodist church is to be held in Darlington some time the first of December. Bishop A. W. Wilson, of Baltimore, will preside.

—As a result of an investigation as to the burning of the barn of Mrs. Dye near Blacksburg a week or two ago, Mrs. Nancy Duncan and her two sons have been arrested and turned over to the criminal court.

—The scaffolding fell with workmen slating a roof in Charleston and R. T. Masters, who was overseeing the work, and a negro named Frank Hogan were killed, and other negro workmen were injured.

—Chester County breaks the record for speedy legal punishment. Lewis Williams, colored, committed house-breaking and larceny last week, was tried, sentenced to one year of hard labor, and put to work all in less than three days time.

—A man named J. H. Holt has victimized several farmers in Lexington County, by taking orders for buggies that never came—the parties paying him part of the price in advance. He has been arrested and committed to jail to await trial for swindling.

—Mr. Ross Mulloy, a prominent young man of Cheraw, was drowned in a mill pond a few miles from that town while out duck hunting. It seems that his boat capsized while he was separated from his companions and he was drowned while trying to swim to shore.

—Several railroad contractors, who are grading the new line to connect with the Seaboard Air Line were arrested a few days ago at Union, charged with cruelty to animals and working mules on which the harness had made terrible bleeding sores. The men are out on $200 bond each.

—Capers Etheredge, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. Uriah Etheredge, of Batesburg, was killed last Saturday night while out possum hunting. The boy lay down and went to sleep while a tree was being cut down and ran in the way of the falling tree. He was horribly crushed and died almost instantly.

—Governor Heyward has revoked the commission of Magistrate Bailes, better known as "squire," who has done a land office business in marrying couples in York County. The general charge was incompetency, but the dismissal was brought about by his advertising bargain rates for marrying couples.

—Ben Wardlaw, a burly drunken negro of Greenwood County, walked into the county seat on the day before election, produced a vicious looking gun, and declared there was not an officer of the law in the town who could take the weapon away from him. He was disarmed immediately and punished.

—At Dillon last Friday afternoon Calvin McNeill and Neil Barnes, colored workmen engaged in feeding the big cotton press at the oil mill ginery, were instantly killed by the explosion of a steam cylinder. The negro operating the lever to open the valve threw it wide and the rush of steam burst the cylinder.

—Judge Purdy has granted bail to Clarence Thrailkill, convicted in Saluda County of manslaughter, pending an appeal to the State Supreme Court. The bond was $5,000, which has been given. The judge also fixed bond at $5,000 for Miller and McCormick, the two white men convicted of killing a negro, and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, but they failed to get bondsmen.

—William Hardin, colored, convicted of the murder of his father in law, Henry Sanders, in Chester, was sentenced last week by Judge Watts to be hanged on December 16. This was a brutal murder, and Hardin while in jail awaiting trial, said there was no hope for him and the sooner the hanging was over the better. When the death sentence was pronounced he exhibited no fear or concern.

—The dispensary has turned over to the State Treasurer about $25,000 for the schools, this amount representing the gross profits at the wholesale dispensary for several months. The money will be added to largely at the end of the fiscal year, which is November 30th, for the dispensary, and the whole amount will be distributed by the Comptroller General according to the enrollment as stated in the last annual report of the State Superintendent of Education. The total number of pupils attending the schools will be divided into the total amount received from the dispensary and the number in each county will be multiplied by this result. The money will be distributed on December 10th.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Continental Savings Bank building, at Memphis, Tenn., collapsed burying some 20 persons, none of whom, however, was killed.

—As a result of an injury in a football game, Captain Robert S. Strangeland, of the Columbian university, has lost his sense of smell and taste.

—Three hundred and thirty people were killed in Chicago last year by railway accidents. The average for big cities in the United States is eighty a year.

—Secret Service officials have arrested three counterfeiters in Cleveland, O., who are charged with making and circulating large sums of counterfeit Hungarian money.

—The total value of real estate in North Carolina, as shown by a report just made up, is $220,303,339. The last report, a year ago, showed a total value of only $178,892,819.

—The court at Charlottesville, Va., has denied a new trial to ex-Mayor Sam McCue, convicted of murdering his wife, and has sentenced him to hang the 20th day of January.

—Four masked robbers entered the private bank of Jes. L. Bladgett at the Hermitage, Buffalo, N. Y., Friday morning before day, blew open the safe with dynamite and secured $30,000.

—A woman in Oakland, Cal., got a divorce because, at every full of the moon, her husband would sit up in bed and howl, occasionally beating her and pulling her hair for a change.

—An apple of this year's growth weighing 30 ounces, and measuring 18 inches in circumference, is exhibited at the World's Fair in the office of Secretary Marchant, of the Oklahoma commission.

—State Representative T. F. Curley and Alderman James M. Curley were sentenced by the United States court in Boston to two months in jail for impersonating others at a civil service examination.

—James B. Storm, county treasurer of Prescott County, Arizona, was found locked up in his own vault bound and gagged with $15,000 missing. He claims that robbers left him in that condition.

—Private advices from India announce the prospect of a serious famine in certain districts owing to a light rainfall. The Bombay presidency and the region north and south of it for a stretch of 500 miles have had but little rain.

—It is understood that steps have been taken to bring about another conference between representatives of the striking cotton mill operatives and the manufacturers at Fall River to discuss a proposition to submit the strike issue to arbitration.

—As a coroner's jury was attempting to arrive at a verdict in Omaha the other day as to what caused the death of James Black, the corpse arose and wanted to know what was the matter. The jurors left so suddenly they forgot to collect their fees.

—Timothy I. Lee, the American locomotive engineer, who was held responsible for the railroad wreck on the Central railroad, in Mexico, about nine months ago, which resulted in the loss of about twenty lives, has been sentenced to four years imprisonment.

—Last year 1,069,000 harvesting machines were sold in the United States, and of this number 225,000 were binders. They went to every wheat-producing country in the world, for the sun never sets on American farm machines. But most of them are being used in the United States. Our agricultural expansion has followed the path of farm machines.

—At Philadelphia, Friday, Charles Hestrom pleaded guilty to forging the name of ex-President Cleveland to a check for a small sum. His arrest occurred several weeks ago. A letter from the ex-president was read stating that the prisoner had been in his employ as a coachman for a year and a half, during which time he had always been honest. The ex-coachman was given six months in the county prison.

—John Crawford, an industrious and prosperous negro of Sumter County, Georgia, paid $6,000 cash one day last week for the William Tooke plantation of two hundred acres adjoining his own farm of a thousand acres. Crawford operates twenty plows, raises two hundred bales of cotton annually and is only one of many wealthy negro farmers here with money in the bank.

—The disturbance of a hornets' nest led to the death of William Forbes, of Stewarton, N. H., in an unusual way the other day. Mr. Forbes was mowing with a scythe when he struck a hornets' nest. In defending himself from the insects he dropped his scythe and was about to step out of the way when he tripped and fell. The blade of the scythe passed entirely through his body and he died almost instantly.

—Special services were held in the old John Street Methodist Episcopal Church of New York, known as the "Mother of Methodism" in this country, and the oldest Methodist Church in the United States, to commemorate its one hundred and thirty-sixth anniversary. The sermon was preached by Bishop Foss, of Philadelphia. An augmented choral service was rendered by the Sunday School. The original church building was erected in 1788 and occupied the site on which the present edifice stands.

Latest War News.

St. Petersburg, November 9.—There is the greatest rejoicing here at the failure of the recent Japanese attacks on Port Arthur. The papers are filled with columns of praise, interspersed with poems, eulogizing the gallant defense made by General Stoessel and the heroic garrison. The firm conviction prevails here that General Stoessel would never surrender and that if the fortress falls the garrison will go down fighting.

According to information received by the war office 50,000 is a low estimate of the Japanese losses before Port Arthur.

Tokio, November 9.—It is reported that the Japanese have completely silenced the forts on Kihlung and Sung mountains and that their main strength is now attacking Etse mountain.

Tokio, November 10.—It is reported that General Stoessel, commanding at Port Arthur, has asked the Japanese for an armistice, the purpose of which is not stated. A confirmation of the report is unobtainable.

It is hoped here that General Stoessel will capitulate before the city proper is taken. The Japanese soldiers are angry and inflamed on account of the alleged abuse of their wounded by the Russians. They believe they will be captured if captured.

Under these conditions it will possibly be difficult to avoid a massacre when the troops meet in the final combat.

Mukden, Nov. 11.—There was heavy exchange of artillery fire yesterday at the Russian right center. The Russian batteries began shelling the Japanese trenches and the Japanese batteries responded.

During last night Russian volunteers dislodged a detachment of Japanese infantry from trenches in front of Lone Tree Hill.

The Japanese continue to show activity on the left flank, without, however, engaging in any serious movement.

Comfortable dugouts are being built along the Russian lines and the soldiers seem to think that they will winter where they are. The idea that Field Marshal Oyama contemplates an attempt to take Mukden is not generally entertained. Both sides seem content for the present with a suspension of hostilities. Warm clothing is being distributed among the troops.

Chefoo, Nov. 13.—No news of developments at Port Arthur has been received here today.

Mukden, Nov. 12.—The situation is unchanged today. Artillery fighting continues, the fire at times growing heavy, particularly in the southwest. The Japanese shelled the Russian position intermittently yesterday. The Russians did not reply.

This afternoon a severe artillery engagement took place on the Russian right.

St. Petersburg, November 14.—The latest indications from the front point to an early resumption of military operations on a large scale.

Field Marshal Oyama has received heavy reinforcements from New Chwang and evidently is about ready to wage battle for the possession of Mukden.

The Japanese are showing particular activity on their right flank as if they were contemplating a turning movement from that direction.

General Kutropkin has fortified his positions along the Shakhe river, and as he seemingly is prepared to accept a battle he doubtless has made dispositions to block a flanking operation.

"Our Women in the War."

All are earnestly and cordially invited to contribute accounts of such instances as are known to them where the women of the South showed, during the war, their patriotic heroism and patient fortitude. Such contributions are intended for the "Special Edition" which The News and Courier, Charleston, S. C., proposes at an early date to publish, devoted entirely to true history of the "Women in the War," "who bound their warriors' sash when they went forth to fight; who suffered worse than death a thousand times; who were stung and hounded by privations that the hardest soldier never knew; and who, besides, were exposed to the infamies and taunts of the infamous raiders who visited Southern homes and stripped them of what was holiest and dearest, because it was dear and holy."

It will be published with the endorsement of all the camps of Veterans and Sons of this city and under the direction of Committees from all these Camps.

Perhaps many of those who suffered the most and crowned their sufferings with the grandest heroism, or those who knew of such, are not accustomed to write for publication and would shrink naturally from such an undertaking—to such we can only say, write down your own story, the way you see it, as you remember them and send to us. We will have what you write edited—clothed in company dress—just such contributions are the most valuable.

Contributors are asked, and especially asked for at once, from the most brilliant literary attainments; from those of modest culture; from those who can not even spell correctly, and from those who can not write at all and must get some friend to write for them. We only ask a true history of what our women did, how they suffered and all that they endured with such heroism, that justice may be done to those deserving of all honor, all praise, and all glory.

Send these contributions to Theodore D. Jervey, Editor, Charleston, S. C.

We desire to issue this special edition just as early as possible and ask that the contributions be sent in just as soon as they can be written. Don't put off for to-morrow what you can do today.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 1, 1904.

—The Secretary of State has issued a commission to the Broad River Light and Power Company with offices in Charleston and a capital of $1,000,000. The company will erect a power plant on the Broad river at Lockhart Shoals, and a large number of Charleston capitalists are interested in the company. The fee to the Secretary of State for the charter when it is issued will be about $500.
