THE FENIAN movement, whose importance had been diminished somewhat by the unhappy and unbecoming difference between the leaders of that organization, lately at issue in New York, has come again to claim a large share of public attention.

ONE OF THE heaviest institutions in the line of newspaperdom in the United States, is the New York Nation. Its writers are heavy, its articles are heavy, and its capital must necessarily be heaviest of all, inasmuch as it requires the largest kind of sinking fund to stand the pressure of the great pecuniary losses this heavy establishment must sustain, if it pays its writers heavy prices for their heavy articles.

These heavy articles have nothing but their weight and length to recommend them, inasmuch as they are the duller, most unmeaning, most senseless trash that can be conceived. But there are exceptions to all rules; and this paper, noted for heavy articles, sometimes publishes very light ones—very-headed, 'tis true, but written by exceedingly light-headed penny-a-line writers.

Whether Canada be the object of attack, or whether a hostile movement be, in fact, intended upon any point, or whether, indeed, the Fenians have the military means for any military movement whatever, does not appear. We have no better assurance of these facts than that afforded by the disturbance of the apprehension has occasioned among the Canadian authorities, and it is quite possible, therefore, that the whole purpose, at present, is to create an excitement. In fact, it is to be hoped that this is so. It is scarcely conceivable that, with any means at present in the possession of the Fenian body, they can make a successful movement upon Canada.

It is an ungrateful task to dash the spirits of men, inflamed to great achievements, by the suggestions of prudence; and those things to which they can really attain are of little interest if they are not also those which they desire; and it were well, perhaps, when men are ardent in the pursuit of an object, even beyond their reach, not to disgust them by the suggestion of an alternative. But this precept of prudence we will disregard for the present, to the extent, at least, of expressing the wish that the present zeal and agencies for the liberation of the Irish nation should be turned to a form of substantial benefit to the Irish people.

WENDELL PHILLIPS is so invariable and authentic a forerunner of the Republicans that it is always profitable for those who would penetrate their designs to read his speeches. On this occasion he is reported by the Boston Journal to have said: "The Anti-Slavery Society never undertook to abolish chattel slavery; they did not begin with that idea in their mind. Its object was to put the negro race on an equality with the white race."

THE MASSACHUSETTS Anti-slavery Society held its thirty-fifth annual meeting in Boston last week. Slavery being abolished, the Board of Managers, seconded by WM. LLOYD GARRISON in a speech, recommended the dissolution of the Society as an organ without a function. WENDELL PHILLIPS opposed the dissolution, and was sustained by a strong vote, including THEODORE TILTON, of the Independent.

Its object was to put the negro race on an equality with the white race."

THE MAcon, Ga., Telegraph says that the negroes in that vicinity are dying off with the most frightful rapidity. During the preceding week about five hundred had died in that city alone, out of a black population of only eight thousand. Previous to the war the weekly mortality in the same number had only been about twenty.
