SHALL-POX.—There is a case of small-pox in town, but it is hardly necessary to caution persons against it.
KALE BLIND, one of the many Red Republican legends of the last generation, who has been repeating revolutionary letters from London during an amber of years, has written a letter to a German Radical paper in New York, urging the instant emancipation of Andrew Johnson, warning America as by the example of Louis Napoleon and his puppet.

THE ZEPHYRUS.

AN article on "Book Borrowing" in the Howard Tribune contains the following proposition: "Tooth-brushes, horses, and books ought to be common-places to be held articles equally untransferable. The transmission made by their borrowers against, sound social morality varies only in degree. The tooth-brush loses its value to the owner instantaneously, while the horse and the book undergo gradual deterioration and after a certain period of the operation become worthless. Yet an overture for the first would be recognized as an inflexible mark of ruffianism by the virtuous people who habitually transgress as to the other two."

Our New York Letter.

NEW YORK, February 27.—The large hall of the Cooper Institute was well filled, on Monday night, by a select audience of thirty-five hundred colored ladies and gentlemen, with about a half-dozen whites, inclusive of your correspondent, whose curiosity was excited and fully gratified. The occasion was a grand concert, given for the benefit of the Colored Young Men's Christian Association by the Black Swan Operatic Concert Troupe, of which the Black Swan herself and a brown "Southern Nightingale" are the shining lights. Candor compels me to admit and to record it here, black or white, that the audience was one of the most orderly and gentlemanly I have ever seen in any place of amusement, and that the "gentlemanly ushers" were as polite as French dancing masters.

The Black Swan is one of the ugliest old "maumas" I have ever seen; not fair, fat and forty, but black, fat and fifty. She plays the piano most abominably, sings rather well, and her chin is adorned by an emerald bead that enhances the beauty of her ugliness. The Southern Nightingale is a beautiful young girl, and sings extremely well, and with the aid of a demagogue that it would be well for many of our white concert singers to imitate. A number of other colored persons took part in the performance, and your correspondent was well pleased with the entire affair.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, February 27.—The House this morning was opened by a characteristic prayer from Mr. M. B. BOSTON. This reverend gentleman is in the constant habit of appealing to the Deity specially to interfere in extricating the House from the muddles they get into. On this occasion he invoked Divine aid in "thrusting through the Tariff. On other occasions he has had the temerity, in a roundabout way, to assure the Divinity that he might always be sure to be right when following the lead of THAD. STEVENS and by sustaining the previous question if moved by that immaculate christian and patriot.

It is indeed here, that we have a scheme with extensive ramifications has been concocted in the Senate by the State of Maryland is to be the subject of a bill, and it is the only one that has been introduced. The plan seems to be this: Governor Swann's credentials (should he not resign) are to be referred to the Committee on Elections, there to elicit the words and the meaning of the Legislature, when the acting Governor was in commission. The course Governor Swann has indicated will be to resign, and then to be re-elected. Senator Johnson, I understand, is himself not only the author of the bill, but also the mover for its recent extraordinary vote. He will avail himself of the earliest opportunity (probably that of the 4th inst.) to move for its passage. The motives that impel him to the course he has adopted. His ego is a aided with much curiosity.

OBITUARY.

DIED, in Allen, S. C., February 29, 1867, Mrs. HARRIET GALE, beloved wife of R. W. GALE, and youngest daughter of THAD. STEVENS and CHARLES F. BURTON. Her death was a sudden and unexpected one. She was a cold, shrewd, and calculating woman, and her death was a great loss to her family. She was a member of the Baptist Church of Charleston, and was a devoted wife and mother. She was a member of the Board of Missions, and was a member of the Board of Education. She was a member of the Board of Health, and was a member of the Board of Charity. She was a member of the Board of Relief, and was a member of the Board of Aid.
