THE BREAD OF ST. JOHNSKUS.
FROM THE DEKMAN OF HONORABLE.
BY MARY A. W. HUMPHREY.

To prove how pure a heart his servant bore,
One day the Lord to St. Johns' door
Came to be tried, by bread to him and poor.
"Good bread," spoke Johns' wife, "give him bread."
"The Lord shall reward," said the man who sold,
"For thou art me, the faithful of old."
"Give it," said the Lord, "and I will provide."
The steward marked the single loaf with care,
And cut four pieces, each an equal share.
To the leaver, to no friendly soul,
"This loaf for thee," he said, "and thou art good.
Oue to the Lord, since I can but obey."
St. Johns' smiled; and the leaver went his way.
Not long and yet yet wreathed his brow,
When the Lord asked bread with pleading eye.
"Give him my piece," St. Johns' gently said;
"The Lord will reward the man who gave the bread."
A little while, and asked, blind and lame,
The fourth and last, the Lord, and gave the same.
"Give the loaf to the poor," the holy man replied;
"The Lord will reward the man who gave the bread."
The steward gave, and the leaver went his way,
And saw no man upon the vessel said;
But on the shore a snow-white hair was seen,
Which told the leaver that he had been seen.
"Four shall be heads who do the ravens feed,
To him who feeds who feeds his need.
One for the abbot, thus the last is given,
The fourth is for the sender's needy kin."

STATE ITEMS.
ANOTHER LABOR TROUBLES.—Dr. D. I. DeGrecure has placed upon our table a Tomato weighing one pound and two ounces. The Dr. is quite a successful grower, and has an abundance of such a vegetable of the finest kind. He exhibited to the fair, a fine specimen, weighing sixteen pounds after taking off the surface.
A CURIOUSITY.—Abram Marks, a freedman, has in his office a strange specimen of an egg, taken from his garden in Camden. It consists of a large egg, surrounded by eight smaller ones, all developed and full grown.
THE GRASS OWL.—The prospects of the growing crop of corn are brightening, and the hopes of the farmers, their hearts, in unison with the great fields, are brightening. It is a year since it has been so long as many previous years. The crop of wheat, although not as heavy as was expected, may be considered a fair one, and the farmer bears not a grateful heart under these circumstances, must surely be an ingratitude, incapable of the thought of the present, and the future, and the condition of political affairs, it is certainly pleasant to entertain the mitigating hope that there will be a "successful" corn in the land.

DOWN.—We regret to learn that a young man named Austin Putnam was accidentally drowned in the Mill on Sunday last. This youth, we learn, had gone to the mill with a bag of flour, and had been killed by the machinery. His body has been recovered, and an inquest held.

A VERTUOUS COURTESY.—Mr. J. Brown has been in our office a long time, and has been a great help to us in many ways. He is a very kind and generous man, and has been a great help to us in many ways. He is a very kind and generous man, and has been a great help to us in many ways.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE, of the 12th, says: "In their anxious desire to secure for themselves the advantages of education, the freedmen are affording the strongest possible proof of their appreciation of the rights and duties of citizenship. And it is not simply that they are ready to accept education as an end in itself, but that the best feature in the case is that, whenever able, they are willing to pay for it. In the State of Georgia, for example, there are two hundred and thirty-four freedmen's schools, of which fifty-two are supported by the Bureau, seventy-seven by Northern societies, and one hundred and seventy-one by the freedmen themselves. The education of the colored people is making gratifying progress in Georgia, recently published returns showing that from October, 1866, to June 30th of the present year, there has been an increase of one hundred and eighty-eight schools, one hundred and twenty-six teachers, and ten thousand seven hundred and twenty-one pupils. We are not surprised to learn that the negro's earnestness in this matter is bringing about a healthy reaction of sentiment among the whites in favor of their education." It would certainly be to the disgrace of the whites if it were not so.

HERE IS A STORY of the Empress Eugenie: "The Empress has begun her annual tour of visits to the charitable institutions, hospitals and lunatic asylums of Paris. Last week (June) she visited the prison of La Sante. One of the poor women presented in the name of her companion a petition requesting that they might be allowed to have wider benches. Her Majesty promised that the petition should be granted, and she quitted the same amidst tremendous cheering. As the Empress crossed the courtyard she turned to the governor of the prison and spoke about the benches. "The petition is granted," she said, "but if they are comfortably seated, and besides, their health may suffer." A young student answered, "Madame, disease even may ensue." "Whereupon a doctor present answered, "I never remarked anything of the sort, madame, and I have been in daily attendance for the last ten years here." "That is a very reasonable reason, but such facts may occur for the first time, and if so, it is marked, and yet a single day may suffice to refer them." "I do not precisely envy the doctor, and congratulate the poor prisoners on the able advocate they find in their queen."

M. ROUJER, in the name of the French Government, has declared, in the Corps Legislatif, that France is indifferent to German unity. This probably means the withdrawal of all protests against the reunion of Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Baden and Hesse-Cassel with the North German Confederation which began with the signing of the convention concluded in August, 1866, and was advanced by the new Customs Treaty a few weeks ago. The cautious, and therefore slow progress toward the reunion of South and North Germany, was solely due to the expected opposition of France. If the formal consent of France to German unity has been accorded, it is possible that Prussia has likewise made some concessions on her part to France.
