

He sat the quiet stream beside—
The white reeds waving in the breeze—And watched the pleasant waters glide Beneath the silver of the sun.

He said—"My own Glycerin!
How white and how refreshing!
How well I knew that thou wouldst come, Beneath the heat of the glowing sun."

He dipped her fingers in the brook, And gazed upon the sparkling ripples Upon the wings of a book Of Cyprian Hygiene's leader.

The rippling ocean waves he heard The flying minutes passed in haste;
His arm was round the maiden's waist—That "wait no time" was never said.

Orcel Time! O raptur' time!
Whoe'er winter all the streams of rhyme,
Whoe'er winter all the streams of rhyme,
In better passage freeze.

I only see the scrawny goat, The sheep on the water-worn shore, While an old shepherd with an oat Pipes to the autumn breeze.

A Dresden letter says:
The best schools in Europe are found in Bavaria, in Saxony and in Prussia, and the best in these countries are found in Munich, in Dresden and in Berlin.

The school-rooms are so arranged that they are conducive to mental development, and, as a means to this end, the subjects of study are so classified and taught as to lead to the acquisition of knowledge in the most efficient manner.

I go about to the different school-rooms of a large educational institution, that they are arranged in a manner that is conducive to the acquisition of knowledge in the most efficient manner.

Every one that is taught, in one school-room, in which history is studied, I saw the pupils for analysis, all growing in pots, which were arranged on shelves in the room.

The teacher of the German mind is naturally sympathetic. There are naturally sympathetic in all plans of German education, a thorough classification of subjects of study.

The law is popular with all classes and is rigidly enforced upon people, as well as upon the upper classes, all and they report to the common schools.

At 8 o'clock in the morning the streets of the city are filled with pupils of the schools, and the monks of the higher grades, each with his satchel of books tied to his back, marching regularly to his appointed place for study.

After 8 o'clock no more children are to be found away from their classes. Each parish of a town must have at least one primary school, and in towns of more than one thousand inhabitants, at least one upper burgher school, as it is called.

The German children at school all appear to be well clothed, and in the poor, and the noble do not hesitate to allow their children to receive their elementary education in the same school.

When a child enters a school-room, the children all rise and remain standing until the teacher is seated, or until they are invited to be seated; and when the visitor leaves, the children all stand and remain standing until the teacher has closed the door behind him.

This practice is observed in all the grades of schools, from the first primary up to the senior class in the university.

If a parent is not able to clothe his child properly for school, then he is clothed at the public expense. The children of the rich are not allowed to wear more than the common clothing of the poor, and the noble do not hesitate to allow their children to receive their elementary education in the same school.

The German youth can enter upon the duties of active life or they may enter the school, and remain in the school for years, and prepare for the various trades which they may choose to follow.
Then he can enter the industrial school, and in two years, with a certificate of his studies, he can enter the school of an engineer, a chemist, or, if he wishes, he can pass from the industrial school to the polytechnic school, and prepare to take a high position in the mechanical arts.

The student may leave the common school and enter the gymnasium, where Latin, Greek, mathematics, rhetoric, history and chemistry are taught. From the gymnasium, the student can take up the study of a profession, or he can go on to the university, where he can take the highest position in the profession he chooses, and who he knows all the subjects of his study as sciences.

In the gymnasium the students are required to study and recite thirty to four hours per week, and before graduating to pass over consecutive study which requires nine years to complete. The German teachers, as a class, are better prepared for their work than the teachers of other countries. They are encouraged to fit themselves for a high excellence in their profession by the preference which is always given to teachers who possess a high professional training, and by the honor which is always accorded to teaching as a profession.

In Germany the boys are always educated apart from the girls, and a male teacher is always placed over a class of boys, and usually a female teacher over a class of girls. In the schools of the United States the teacher concentrates on the same class, and the teacher of the school until its graduation.
This plan requires every teacher to be qualified to teach all the topics found in the whole course of study. Teachers of one State are encouraged by the government to visit the schools of other States, so that any improvement made in the schools in one section may be rapidly introduced into the other sections, and also encouraged to hold conventions for mutual improvement.

DEATH OF MANSON JOLLY.—This news will be received with regret by the many friends of this bold and daring Confederate soldier.
We learn that a private letter has been received, bearing that Mr. Jolly was killed on the 26th of July, near his home in Texas. He was building a residence on the opposite side of the creek from where he lived, and had crossed over on horseback several times during the day. The stream was greatly swollen, and in attempting to cross on the third or fourth time, he was carried by his horse down the creek, and the animal which he was riding was drowned. Mr. Jolly had been married about one year, and leaves a young wife, the daughter of a former commissioner of Anderson. The deceased was a brave and gallant soldier, and his death is a great loss to the country, immediately after the war closed, are fresh in the recollection of his name was a terror for a long time over on horseback, and especially the volunteer white and colored regiments stationed at this place.
When the regular troops were removed to Texas, where he has since been leading a quiet and peaceful life.—Anderson Intelligencer.

The latest scandal about Warner is that the pantographic conductors of the rebels are his own. He was the cause of the music. Such stories are easily told, but they and few believers.

THE EXCELLENT REMEDIES OF C. F.
PANKNIN, M. D., need no recommendation—their well known power in removing the diseases to which our Southern climate having already established for them an enviable reputation in Georgia and the adjoining States, and the multitude of persons living in the South are pre-disposed to disease of the Liver, it is granted by all intelligent physicians that most of the pains and aches our people are disposed to or unusual derangement of that important organ. Panknin's Liver Medicine and Antibilious Pills strike directly at the root of the evil. They cure the Liver, which in nine cases out of ten, is the cause of the Headache, Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Sciatic, Neuralgia, Catarrh of the Bladder, Menstrual Obstructions, &c., so common among our people. Rheumatism, Catarrh of the
