EUROPE.

THE BYRON SCANDAL AGAIN—THE LONDON TIMES ON THE SENATUS CONSULTUM—NAPOLEON'S REALITY.

LONDON, September 15.—The Daily News contains another letter from William Howitt, on the charges against Lord Byron. He says Lady Byron has condemned herself by the breach of an honorable silence.

The Times, in an editorial to-day, commenting on the Emperor's illness and the publication of the Senatus Consultum, says: "The person of the Sovereign is of secondary importance; if the personal government is ended, it matters little who is Emperor or Regent."

The Times, discussing the Cuban question, and hopes that Spain will soon see that it would be to her advantage to get rid of Cuba on any terms.

There was a large meeting of the cotton merchants, spinners and manufacturers at Manchester last evening for the purpose of considering the condition of trade in Lancashire. Speeches were made and resolutions adopted.

PARIS, September 15.—The tempest yesterday prostrated the telegraph wires, and communication in every direction was temporarily interrupted.

MADRID, September 15.—The journals assert that the government has recently sent a letter to the Great Powers of Europe, repeating the correspondence with General Siskies, American Minister, on the subject of the recognition of Cuba, and that replies favorable to the rights of Spain have been received from England, France and Austria.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

WASHINGTON, September 15.—The Treasury Department will melt over one hundred counterfeit plates now in its possession. Two or three very fine plates will be preserved as specimens.

Certain German citizens have asked Spinner regarding the genuineness of Confederate bonds. Spinner thinks this specimen exhibited genuine.

The following diplomatic gossip is authentic: Minister Motley was not forbidden to entertain invitations to reopen Alabama claims negotiations. He is now engaged in negotiating an important commercial treaty.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES.

Secretary Seward intends visiting the City of Mexico. The Cuban expedition from New Bedford was overhauled at sea.

Three whites and twenty Indians were recently killed in Arizona fighting over a wagon train. The steamer Hornet sailed from Halifax with a lot of hard customers at high wages.

The Spanish organ at New York asserts that both the Spanish and Cuban reports of fights near Los Tunas are fictitious.

COURT IN WILLIAMSBURG.

KNOWLEDGE, Tuesday, September 14.—Court was in session here during the past week, and was occupied until Friday afternoon with criminal business.

THE OHIO CANYASS.

Mr. Pendleton Sounds the Keynote of the Campaign.

The Democrats of Cincinnati serenaded Mr. Pendleton, their candidate for Governor, on Friday last. In the course of his speech in response to the compliment, he said:

I cannot agree with Governor Hayes that the vexed questions of national politics are wisely and happily settled; that the great questions of liberty and Union have been forever settled.

THE PAPER FOR THE TIMES.

What People in the Country Say About The Charleston News.

[From the Georgetown News, September 15.] THE CHARLESTON DAILY NEWS, under the hands of its present proprietors, justly takes and maintains its rank as a first class daily paper.

The Hon. Lot M. Morrill will probably be the successor of the late Senator Fessenden. Mrs. General Lee is so rheumatic that her only mode of locomotion is in a chair with wheels.

Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, described as a youthful and attractive widow, is at Rockbridge Springs. The Prince Imperial of France is taller than his mother, but does not stand so high as his father.

The editor of the Times at Fort Huron, Mich., wrote to Carlyle for his autograph, and received the following reply in a Stephen-Hobish looking manuscript: "Here is my autograph. Much good may it do you. T. Carlyle, Chelsea, 23rd June, 1869."

At the last interview between the President and Governor Walker, the question of the Virginia seceder came up, and the President unreservedly expressed his personal preference for General Robert William of the army, the husband of Mrs. Senator Douglas.

Mr. John Lester Wallace, since his return from Europe, wears on full dress occasions a blue swallow-tail coat, with velvet collar and gilt buttons, a white vest, with rick, fancy buttons, black knee breeches, and black silk stockings, and pumps with delicate silver buckles.

Twitcheil, the Philadelphia murderer and suicide, is still alive, according to a "gentleman of truth and veracity" who has seen him in Montana and read a pardon dated April 6, 1869, and signed John W. Geary. He further says that Governor Geary charged such a big price for the pardon that Twitcheil hasn't money enough left to start in business.

A Miss Gray, of Washington County, New York, a milliner, thirty years old, was engaged to a young Englishman a few years ago. He died before the time fixed for their marriage, and left her seventeen millions of dollars. The natural heirs of the young man contested the will, but in vain, and the young lady is to receive the first instalment of her large possessions in December next.

Mr. Pendleton dwelt at some length upon the financial question, reiterating his former assertions in regard to the payment of the government debt and the bondholders in greenbacks, and abolishing the national bank system, and the study of economy in reducing the national debt.

THE LAURENS RAILROAD SQUABBLE

The Statement of Mr. Joseph Crews.

We have received a long-winded communication from Mr. J. Joseph Crews, in reply to the letter of Dr. B. J. James on the sale of the rolling stock of the Laurens Railroad, which was published in The News of the 31st inst.

The greater part of Mr. Crews' reply is made up of an ex parte account of his individual and confidential business dealings with Dr. James. These, we take it, are matters of no possible concern to the general public; and, even were it otherwise, the language of Mr. Crews in narrating them is not such as we could permit to appear in our columns.

Now, as to the sale of the locomotives. One A. M. Brodie and J. W. S. Arnold obtained a judgment in the United States Court against the Laurens Railroad Company, some time in the month of 1868, and were instructed to sell the bonds of the company, the payment of which bonds and coupons was guaranteed by the State of South Carolina.

Section 21 of the "Act to afford aid to the Laurens Railroad Company," ratified 22d day of March, 1859, says: "That so soon as the said bonds shall have been sold, the proceeds shall constitute a lien upon the entire property of said company, including the road, bed, and all the grading, bridges and masonry, and upon the iron rails, chairs, spikes, equipments and appurtenances of every kind; and the proceeds of the sale of the same shall be applied to the payment of said bonds and coupons, and the interest thereon as the same become due; and it shall not be lawful for said company to give, create or convey to any person or persons, or to any corporation, partnership, firm or individual, any mortgage or lien upon any real or personal property of said company."

THE DRY GOODS AUTOCRAT.

Interesting to the Ladies—Jennie June Stewart's Secret of the Great Merchant's Complete Outfit—Family Sewing by Hand—A Colonial Charity.

Jennie June, the sprightly fashion writer and one of the lights of the New York Boros, concludes her last letter with the following very readable batch of gossip for the ladies: Stepping into Stewart's on my way home, the afternoon, I suddenly gazed dark and helpless into the eyes of a young man.

Victor Hugo lately gave a new proof of his modesty. It is the annual custom of the French Academy to give a purse to whoever of their number happens to need assistance. In order to render the reception of the purse as little obnoxious as possible to the member for whom it is designed, it is offered in the first place to the oldest member; he declines, and the purse goes to the next oldest, and so to the member previously agreed upon.

Eighteen years ago, when he was about enlarging his down-town store, a gentleman, a merchant, said to him: "Mr. Stewart? Don't you know that you are a very unpopular man?" "Yes," said Mr. Stewart, "I am aware of that, but I don't do business on Saturday. My method is not to obtain popularity, but to compel people to buy of me."

As a man, Mr. Stewart is not a whit more popular to-day than he was eighteen years ago. He is a man of few words, and his few are well chosen. He is a man of few words, and his few are well chosen. He is a man of few words, and his few are well chosen.

It is now altogether the largest and most useful of the kind ever published in America. What it will be when the area of several million large stores is added to it, it tires one to think. My object, however, in writing this paragraph is to draw attention to the fact that it is a masterpiece, but simply note him as one of the extraordinary facts of the day, and give some idea of his aims, and what he is doing to bring about their accomplishment.

General Beauregard, it seems, dyes. A letter from the White Sulphur Springs, in sketching the notabilities at a recent ball, there, says: "But what young man is that whose raven locks and moustache may be seen wherever beauty and grace reign most decidedly? Some one whispers that it is General Beauregard, the great engineer and gallant soldier; but surely that cannot be, for the last time I saw that great chieftain his hair was as white as driven snow, and his bronzed features were not those of the ball room gallant. But another look convinces me that my friend is right, especially when I remember the ready reply made by the brave chieftain to one of the belles who twitted him on this change. 'When I was in command of an army,' said he, 'I used to dye my hair white to impress my soldiers with a proper respect for my age and position; but after the war was closed and the necessity passed away, I allowed it to return to its natural color!' May his locks never turn gray, and may he live long to enjoy the society of which he is so bright an ornament."

Somebody has recalled a paragraph which went the rounds of the newspapers in the early years of the war, in which it was stated that a son of Lord Byron was a major in the Federal service, and that he was not, as might be supposed, a natural son, but the fruit of the poet's secret marriage with a Spanish lady of rank and a Catholic. Major Byron was described as a man well advanced in years, but erect and vigorous, and bearing a remarkable personal resemblance to Lord Byron. He was familiar with the noble family of which he claimed to be a son, and indeed, had written a three-volume history of its members. He possessed many manuscript letters, personal and official, and claimed to be the man whom the poet's father had loved, and could repeat almost every word of Lord Byron's poetical works. A correspondent of the St. Joseph Missouri Herald writes to that paper, stating his acquaintance with Major Byron, and recalling a conversation with him on the subject of Lord and Lady Byron's separation. Major Byron declared that Lady Byron unkindly discovered a portion of her husband's correspondence with his Spanish wife, and although by the laws of England and the laws of Spain the marriage was void, she at once determined upon a separation. Major Byron mentioned to the Herald's correspondent the subject of Lady Byron's revelation to Dr. Lushington, and contended that it concerned Lord Byron's marriage in Spain. The theory is, of course, within the bounds of possibility, but it is repeated here merely as an illustration of the wide range of speculation which has been wasted in futile efforts to discover the cause of a famous matrimonial quarrel.

A DEFENSIVE MEDICINE.—"IN time of peace prepare for war," is a sound military maxim, and that the sickly season find you unprepared, is an equally sound maxim in medical jurisprudence. The man must be made of iron as well as himself at the close of summer as strong as at its commencement. Such a phenomenon is rare, even among the most robust of the human family.

IT IS STRANGE TO SEE WITH WHAT carelessness some individuals attend to their health. They will procure a box of PLANTATION BITTERS, which ought to be used up in a month or six weeks, and upon inquiry it is found that they have used only two or three bottles. Some days they have used it according to the directions, and others have not touched it. The whole truth has been revealed, and it is worth going to "what is worth doing, do it."

THE PLANET'S AND MECHANICS' BANK OF SOUTH CAROLINA, SEPTEMBER 1869.—DANIEL BAVENEL, PRESIDENT, JAMES K. ROBINSON AND OTHERS, DIRECTORS OF THE PLANET'S AND MECHANICS' BANK OF SOUTH CAROLINA, vs. THE PLANET'S AND MECHANICS' BANK OF SOUTH CAROLINA, LEW. M. HAYES AND OTHERS.—Whereas, in pursuance of the decree of the Court in the above case, a meeting of the Stockholders of the said Bank was duly called on the 12th inst., but said meeting, although largely attended, failed for want of a legal quorum; and whereas, in that event, the further action of the Corporation is devolved by the said decree upon the Board of Directors, Be it, therefore,

Resolved, by the said Board, That it is expedient to re-call the said meeting, and to do so, as possible, under the Act of the General Assembly, entitled "An Act to enable the Banks of the State to issue Bank Notes," and to do so, on the 15th inst. Resolved, That to this end an assessment of Five Dollars is hereby laid upon each share, to be paid in two equal installments, the first on the 15th inst. and the last on the 1st of October; and payment to be made either in cash or by stock note of the shareholder, the same to be deemed paid in full, and to be credited accordingly to each share. Resolved, That stockholders failing to pay in cash or by note to the Bank within the time specified, and a separate account shall be kept of the assets and debts of the Bank, and that the same be audited with a view to a liquidation of their claims; and that whenever the said assets shall be collected, and the debts of the Bank paid, the said Bank shall be dissolved, and the proceeds thereof shall be distributed to the shareholders in proportion to their respective shares of the surplus.

Resolved, That the committee appointed for a special meeting of the Stockholders of the said Bank, and the committee appointed for that purpose, were unanimously adopted by the Board of Directors. The President will attend at the Bank daily from 11 to 2 o'clock, to give information and arrange the assessment called for. W. E. HASKELL, Cashier. Sept 2

ROSADELISI ROSADALISI—SKIN Disease, such as Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, &c., are cured in a short time by the Rosadali Remedies. The Rosadali Remedies are so simple, but if the patient will persevere in its use, the disease will certainly yield to the great alternative effects of the medicine. BALTIMORE, February 19, 1868. This is to certify that I was severely afflicted with an inveterate Eruption of the Skin, and that I was cured by Rosadali. BENJ. M. WIRT.

Dear Sir:—In 1863, my son, now aged five years, was vaccinated with what proved to be impure matter, which completely destroyed his health. He has been afflicted with an inveterate and extremely troublesome Eruption of the Skin, sometimes breaking out in sores, &c. Rosadali was prescribed by our family Physician, Dr. A. D. Moore. After taking it only a few weeks, my son became and remains entirely well. Yours truly, J. B. DANIEL.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That application for the renewal of the following Certificates of Stock in the People's Bank of South Carolina will be made at the expiration of ninety days from the date, which Certificates have been lost: November 18, 1868, for One Hundred Dollars, $100, for Forty Dollars, $40, for Twenty Dollars, $20, for Ten Dollars, $10.
