The Charleston News.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1869.

To Our Friends in the Country—Instruments to New Subscribers.

We desire, if possible, to make THE NEWS, which is already without exception the cheapest newspaper in the South, a regular visitor in every well regulated household in this and the adjoining States.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Gold at New York yesterday closed dull at 203 1/2 @ 207 1/2.

—The New York cotton market was declining. Sales 5000 bales at 10 1/2.

—Liverpool cotton closed steady. Uplands 12 1/2 @ 13 1/2.

—Twenty-one suits for divorce are pending at Davenport, Iowa.

—Virginia is sending large quantities of zinc metal to the North.

—Corn is selling at a higher price than wheat in some parts of Indiana.

—Miss Anna Lane will settle in New York and lead a church choir there.

—The Hon. Jefferson Davis is sojourning temporarily at Hernando, Mississippi.

—The Havre stock hand who saved the life of the murderer Traupmann, received a medal and 400 francs reward.

—A proposed Canada and Pacific railway is 2500 miles in length, and will cost seventy millions of pounds sterling.

—A partial reconstruction of the Spanish Cabinet has been effected. Martas is Foreign Secretary, and Figuerola Minister of Finance.

—The superintendent of the Georgia State road declares that after this year the road will not be at the Agricultural and Mechanical Fair, held recently at Staunton, Virginia.

—Benjamin Smith, a negro, was awarded the first premium for the best specimen of barrels.

—The Empress Eugenie thinks she can make her trip from Paris to Cairo, Egypt, about as far as from New York to Omaha for $160,000.

—Count Bismarck's income is computed at about $35,000, derivable from his various estates and offices. To this must be added the not inconsiderable amount of a free ministerial residence in Berlin, and his money.

—The State Department has received intelligence of the loss of the whaling schooner Susan A. Smith, of Boston, with the captain's wife and two children, and all the officers and crew except the captain and four men.

—A survey of the Suez Canal shows that it is in its shallowest parts but twenty feet deep; therefore, the steamer Atlas, on which the Empress Eugenie intended going through it, cannot make the passage, as it draws more than twenty feet. The Empress, however, insists on making the trip, even if a new survey proves that a lighter vessel will be necessary.

—The London Times' money article of yesterday contains on the increasing importation of wheat from the United States, and in view of competition with Russia and Central Europe, when railways in that quarter are fully developed, suggests, as the great questions for the United States to consider, the reduction of freights and the enlargement of communications with the Mississippi.

—A French paper reports that "the most brilliant" of the states of the world, "has signed a treaty which will recognize the Marquis de Cayx, "has signed a splendid engagement to sing in Russia. It is stipulated in the treaty that the diva promises—you would never guess what—to have no children during the period of her engagement. And her husband has written at the bottom of the contract: "The above writing is read and approved."

—It appears from a notice sent to the papers by Mrs. Stowe, that she is preparing a book on the Byron scandal; and that she expects, of course, to justify her previous publication on this subject. The publication of the Leigh letters in the London Quarterly Review has brought out the following note from Mrs. Stowe: "Mrs. Stowe requests the public to suspend their judgment on the letter of Lady Byron to Mrs. Leigh, lately published in the London Quarterly Review, until they meet them in their proper historical connection in her forthcoming volume."

—A horrible railroad accident occurred on Monday last near Narransburg, N. Y., by which one man was burned to death and fourteen cars, loaded with coal oil, tobacco and cotton, were entirely consumed. When the fire had reached its height a man was seen in the midst of the glowing flames, but it was impossible to approach near enough to render the victim any aid, and he was in a short time completely roasted. His name was James Rourke, and he was a brakeman on the train. It is supposed he had in some manner become fastened between the cars in such a way as to be unable to extricate himself before being engulfed by the rapidly approaching flames.

—An exchange of the following interesting gossip concerning the Siamese twins: "Their surgeon is Hunter, and their given names Chang and Eng. They reside alternately at two residences, one at Mount Airy, N. C., and the other three miles distant in the country, one of the three taking charge of each establishment. They married twin sisters near that point many years since, and each has a family of beautiful black-skins and each has a family of beautiful white-skins, and they are quite gray-haired, and white hair is in independent circumstances they are not wealthy. Their wives are large, healthy-looking women, and their country home, the only one we have seen, is full of logs with punchen floor, and without finish or decoration. They use a Windsor chair of double width, and a bed not less than eight feet wide. A rustic night of steps of double width leads to the attic, and they pass up and down them without difficulty. On the occasion of our visit there was a four-luck snook on the ground, and as they were out gaming, we had to wait their return. When they made their appearance they were walking very briskly, and soon they were engaged in a spirited and double-bi-lateral shot gun, and were in the humor. They were exceedingly pleasant and hospitable in their manner, and insisted upon a second visit from

The telegraph brings news of the death of "England's wealthiest" son, Richard Grosvenor, Marquis of Westminster. Early in the last year, a gentleman of much landed property in the County of Middlesex, and in a few years, in consequence of the late fashion setting westward, found that this same small landed estate was probably for its size destined to be almost the most valuable in England. It now forms Grosvenor Square, and the adjacent streets, and in fact the greater portion of that property which, bounded south by Piccadilly, north by Oxford street, east by Bond street, and west by Park Lane, contained in the Marquis's opinion, more intellect refinement and social position than any other in the world. Some eighty years ago, when George III was making improvements at Buckingham House, now a palace, which had been purchased as Queen Charlotte's (lower house), the Marquis was offered him for £15,000. He declined it, and it was subsequently purchased by the Government. Many years after it came into his possession, a very enterprising builder, Mr. Cadell, permeated the great banking house of Smith, Payne & Smith to advance money to him for drainage and building purposes, and thus arose "Belgravia," which, when the leases fall in, will probably yield the present Marquis of Westminster £100,000 a year. Lord Westminster is a combination of generosity and meanness, and a hundred and one other qualities, and both these characteristics. He has several children. The eldest, known as Lord Grosvenor, now Marquis, is a remarkably popular man in his county, Cheshire. It is computed that the new Marquis will have an income of certainly not less than £700,000 pounds a year. Lord Westminster was a Liberal, but took no active part in politics. His health has long been in a precarious state.

Political Blackbaling.

If any one is so simple as to credit the dispatch that the Congressional sub-committee is coming "to take testimony" in regard to the contested elections of Messrs. Simpson and Reed, we recommend to him the careful perusal of the paper read by Hon. H. L. Dawes, at the recent session of the American Social Science Association. He shows that these committees consist of a majority of the political party ruling in the House, and that they are appointed for the sole purpose of declaring that the contestant belonging to that party has been duly elected.

The framers of the constitution assigned to each house the power of deciding upon the elections and qualifications of its own members. There are no restrictions upon the exercise of this prerogative. In the Senate the Judiciary Committee manipulates the case; in the House of Representatives, the Committee of Elections, whose proper business it is to receive the testimony presented by the contestants and to decide judicially upon its value, but who have recently received permission to go into the contested districts and act at once as an inquisitorial jury, a prosecution, and a bench of judges. The plaintiff always belongs to their party, and their business is simply to represent him. They meet to hear his case, and to legalize his assumptions—"only this, and nothing more." They have never made their decision before a law has been summoned.
