

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Annexation of San Domingo—How to Tame the Indians—The Next Census.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE NEWS.] WASHINGTON, November 17. The treaty for the annexation of San Domingo to the United States was accepted here on Tuesday, and returned for ratification.

The Indian Peace Commission met to-day, and agreed on a report, in which they say that peace can be preserved without military aid, and that most of the tribes are willing to settle on the reservations and become civilized.

The House Special Census Committee met to-day and began the preparation of a bill for taking the ninth census.

TELEGRAPHIC RESPONSIBILITY.

ATLANTA, November 17. The Superior Court decides that telegraph companies are not common carriers; that they are not responsible for errors of atmospheric electricity over which they have no control; that the telegraph is a contract between the sender and the receiver, and that the company is not responsible for the transmission of a message and the expense charges on a money package mislaid by error of the telegraph.

The amount claimed was $2000. The court also decided that telegraph companies are not responsible for errors when their line or territory is under the control or supervision of the military authorities.

EUROPE.

What is Thought of Spain—Movements of the Emperor.

PARIS, November 17. The Empress, regarding Spain, that is, a coup d'etat, or a violent revolution, says: Spain will probably remain an irregular Republic under the name of a monarchy.

The Emperor remains in Paris during the elections. The radicals condemn the opposition deputies' manifesto as wanting courage.

The Ecumenical Council. LONDON, November 17. The Pope writes that though excluded from the Ecumenical Council, Protestants will be afforded opportunities for making explanations.

A Pleasant Alternative. MADRID, November 17. It is said that the political prisoners have the choice of joining the army or of banishment to the Philippine Islands, there to await legal proceedings against them.

A Left-Handed Marriage. PARIS, November 17. The details of to-day, announces the marriage of Victor Emmanuel during his recent illness. It is rumored that he will soon abdicate.

THE SURE CANAL.

ALEXANDRIA, November 17. The festivities preliminary to passing the canal proved a great success. The Emperor and Empress and the Emperor of Austria are here.

No vessel drawing over fifteen feet will join the expedition.

THE NEW REBELLION.

WASHINGTON, November 17. Canadian affairs confirm the report of the expedition of General McDowell to the Red River country. McDowell is encamped in Dakota Territory, calling for troops.

The insurgents have established a provisional government.

THE CAPE FEAR FAIR.

WILMINGTON, November 17. The Cape Fear Agricultural Fair is well attended, and a large number of additional entries have been made. About six thousand persons were on the ground to-day, and fifteen thousand are expected to-morrow.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRE.

There was a violent rain and wind in Philadelphia on Tuesday night.

The vote in the lower House of the Tennessee Legislature on the Fifteenth amendment is fifty-seven per cent. The vote in the Senate will be in about the same proportion.

The workmen have struck in the tunnel between the White Sulphur Springs and O'Connell, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad.

The revenue yesterday was over $200,000. All the department offices at Washington are closed to-day.

Secretary Hoar has gone home to Massachusetts.

The Mayor of St. Louis estimates that the amount of produce sent thence to points south of Cairo is twice as large as it was before the war, and that the shipment of manufactured articles has increased ten-fold.

WHAT IS DOING IN SUMMER.

Our country this year has made about two-thirds of a cotton and one-third of a corn crop. As for rice, potatoes, &c., the continued dry weather during the summer has caused the yield to be very small.

EUGENIE WITH THE TURKS.

THE EMPRESS OF THE FRENCH ASTONISHING THE SULTAN.

Her Conversation with the American Minister—Seeking a Pretext for a Visit to the United States—The Great Spanish Beauty Promised a Splendid Reception in America.

A Constantinople letter to the New York Sun says: All business has been suspended at the Porte for the last week, in consequence of the fêtes to the Empress Eugenie.

On Friday last, the diplomatic corps were presented to her at the palace of Beglerbey. She was extremely cordial and pleasant to the American Minister. Among other things, she said to him: "I love to travel, and the more I travel, the more I love it. I have a great desire to visit the United States, and I should rejoice to find a pretext for going there."

Our representative assured her that she would meet with a cordial reception from the American people and the people of the United States, and he hoped she would find an opportunity to honor us with a visit.

THOSE WINNING WAYS. You cannot imagine the grace and charming manner in which the Empress Eugenie has responded to the inquiries of the American Minister. Her bearing and manners are so fascinating, that unless a diplomat is on his guard he may commit a breach of etiquette. She is amiable to all, and has an apt word for all. She has won all hearts here by her innate goodness and the grace of her manner and person.

A GRAND REVIEW. On Saturday there was a review of 30,000 troops at Hunkiar Iskelessi in her honor. The Sultan conducted her to the review from Beglerbey in his own state carriage.

TOURISTS' RECOMPENSE. Abdul-Azis bears a striking resemblance to Mr. Toombs, of Georgia, of Bunker Hill and Confederate fame—the same imperious air and tawny complexion and the same proud bearing—carrying about him that impenetrable and impenetrable sense of power, which marks great slave and land-owners as well as absolute sovereigns.

EUGENIE PENITENT. Eugenie is the embodiment of Andalusian grace and Parisian stylishness. Seen from a distance, she retains all the beauty which in times of youth made her the most courted belle at Madrid, London and Paris. But on closer proximity to her, and when her face is not bathed in that sea of smiles which constitutes its most charming charm, the ominous frown of age, which settles on ladies' faces, and especially round their eyes, after the fourth year, has been left behind.

It is said that the political prisoners have the choice of joining the army or of banishment to the Philippine Islands, there to await legal proceedings against them.

A Left-Handed Marriage. PARIS, November 17. The details of to-day, announces the marriage of Victor Emmanuel during his recent illness. It is rumored that he will soon abdicate.

THE SURE CANAL.

ALEXANDRIA, November 17. The festivities preliminary to passing the canal proved a great success. The Emperor and Empress and the Emperor of Austria are here.

No vessel drawing over fifteen feet will join the expedition.

THE NEW REBELLION.

WASHINGTON, November 17. Canadian affairs confirm the report of the expedition of General McDowell to the Red River country. McDowell is encamped in Dakota Territory, calling for troops.

The insurgents have established a provisional government.

THE CAPE FEAR FAIR.

WILMINGTON, November 17. The Cape Fear Agricultural Fair is well attended, and a large number of additional entries have been made. About six thousand persons were on the ground to-day, and fifteen thousand are expected to-morrow.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRE.

There was a violent rain and wind in Philadelphia on Tuesday night.

The vote in the lower House of the Tennessee Legislature on the Fifteenth amendment is fifty-seven per cent. The vote in the Senate will be in about the same proportion.

The workmen have struck in the tunnel between the White Sulphur Springs and O'Connell, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad.

The revenue yesterday was over $200,000. All the department offices at Washington are closed to-day.

Secretary Hoar has gone home to Massachusetts.

The Mayor of St. Louis estimates that the amount of produce sent thence to points south of Cairo is twice as large as it was before the war, and that the shipment of manufactured articles has increased ten-fold.

WHAT IS DOING IN SUMMER.

Our country this year has made about two-thirds of a cotton and one-third of a corn crop. As for rice, potatoes, &c., the continued dry weather during the summer has caused the yield to be very small.

How much of their cotton the farmers have lost by theft, it is impossible to estimate; but, judging by the large quantities of seed cotton sold this fall, the theft tax must be a very heavy one. The farmers, unable to protect at night their wide extended fields, and surrounded by cunning and expert thieves, have remonstrated with merchants and traders for aiding, however unintentionally, these rogues, by purchasing seed cotton at all; and the greatest instance of this appeal was at the late fair at New Orleans, where the State Constable Hubbard a few days ago paid a visit to our county, and as a result of his investigation a number of most respectable persons have been arrested as being K. K. K.

The congregation of the Episcopal Church in this place held a fair at the beginning of this month, which proved quite successful. The amount realized was much greater than was hoped for. It is proposed by some of the ladies to have a fair on the 20th of December on our town to have a fair on the 20th of December for the purpose of raising a fund with which to erect a monument to the Confederate dead at our district. This project has been warmly approved to the minds of the people, and it is sure, as they say, to be a success.

THE BLACK CLOUD IN PARIS.

How it Passed Over the City—The Precautions Taken at the Tuilleries.

The Paris correspondent of the New York World writes: Yesterday, the 26th of October, was to have inaugurated the last French revolution. At the eleventh hour, indeed, its promoters backed out, and gave notice to their adherents that the affair was adjourned to another date. But as things turned out, they might as well have spared themselves this trouble; for the weather was such as to make a popular gathering almost impossible. When I drew my window curtains in the morning and looked out upon the wet and slippery streets, the cold, inclement skies, and the evident discomfort which every passer-by under his umbrella regarded the general condition of the universe, it was a foregone conclusion that under no circumstances would there be a demonstration of any kind.

The great, important day, big with the fate of Oato, and of Rome? And so, when at noon the clouds began to roll away, and the sun shined forth, I followed his example and went out to see the "black cloud" of constitutional reform—the Place de la Concorde, on this side of the Seine, and the hall of the Corps Legislatif, on the other.

There were two all open to the eye, and it needed but one glance to see that there was no revolution on the march. The air was cold, but the sun shined brightly on the still damp and chilly, though the sun smiled satirically on the sight-seers, who came for excitement and went home with bad colds.

There was indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

There were indeed a time when there were enough blouses present to have inaugurated a row, and some of these were apparently well disposed to do so; but they were so scattered and mixed up in the temporary throng, that it was perfectly plain that their hour was not come, and that, if indeed they had come, they had broken it. As the day passed away, so did the people; and I can safely affirm, that for by far the larger part of the twenty-four hours, there were fewer persons in that neighborhood than on any other day that I have visited it since my arrival in Paris.

Special Notices.

CHARLESTON SAVINGS INSTITUTION.—The following amounts have not been called for in the above named institution. As the office will be closed on the 1st of December, all persons interested are requested to bring in their Pass Books and receive the amounts due them.

Those who have drawn the first instalment, but not the second, will not find their names in this list, as the fact of their having drawn one instalment is an evidence that they know of their interest in the institution.

HENRY S. GRIGGS, Treasurer.

Names. Amount. Anderson, A. J., Trustee. $3 77

Anderson, Ann. 13 14

Anderson, Charles, Jr. 10 99

Anderson, A. J., Trustee. 10 99

Arnold, Ann, Trustee. 10 21

Alston, Thomas, Trustee. 2 45

Ballester, Charles. 4 39

Burns, Ann. 51 57

Burke, James. 4 89

Boswell, J. F. 57 24

Balentine, Isaac, Trustee. 2 88

Boyd, Mary. 10 99

Bryant, J. Trustee. 60 17

Buckles, Mathilda. 2 73

Baum, John A. 12 50

Burn, D. D. 1 42

Barre, Mathilda. 1 25

Brown, Isabella. 3 13

Bellinger, J. Trustee. 2 10

Blake, Margaret M. 2 10

Carr, Susan D. 38 69

Connolly, Elizabeth. 0 30

Carey, George. 123 85

Carmichael, J. Trustee. 15 40

Carroll, H. McG., Trustee. 148 88

Cameron, Alexander. 14 40

Corn, D. W. Trustee. 156 93

Cass, James. 46 14

Constance, D. B. Trustee. 14 65

Chandler, Janet B. 6 65

Cornes, E. S. 2 41

Collins, Mary Jane. 24 17

Conroy, Mary Ann. 34 85

Clarkson, E. B., Trustee. 9 06

Coburn, J. Robert. 2 32

Carroll, Robert Ann. 34 85

Curry, S. A. D. Ann. 1 18

Derric, Louise. 643 99

Dorric, David, Trustee. 25 13

Duffy, Michael. 10 99

Dupont, C. C., Trustee. 17 74

Devenney, Peter, Trustee. 499 98

Donohoe, D. A., Agent. 50 45

Drayton, John. 52 43

Evan, Edward P. 11 61

Early, John, Trustee. 9 49

Enson, Hannah. 0 51

Kildred, G. P., Trustee. 10 06

Frost, Henry R., Trustee. 9 10

Fueller, Mrs. C. A. 97 10

Fahrbach, S. 1 07

Ford, Mary. 1 40

Flood, Margaret. 32 73

Garden, Ruth C. 15 15

Gilbert, Theodore N. 34 88

Gulbert, A. 4 00

Gordon, Alexander, Trustee. 5 89

Geisel, George. 4 48

Gross, Barnwell. 6 24

Graham, Anne. 5 23

Garland, David. 2 27

Gregg, William, Trustee. 3 48

Grier, J. W., Trustee. 3 48

Hewitt, M. E., Trustee. 3 10

Henderson, Mary. 8 60

Hennessy, Charles. 61 78

Hummel, John. 29 18

Hammer, J. Trustee. 21 68

Henry, E. H., Trustee. 21 68

Holmes, J. W., Trustee, (two accounts). 8 78

Hyatt, Thomas, Trustee. 160 94

Gordon, D. Trustee. 9 47

Hochmann, H. 0 74</