

THE BOSTON CALAMITY.

THE EXTENT OF THE HAVOC AND ITS EFFECT ON THE COUNTRY.

Another Outbreak Yesterday—Gas Explosions During the Night—The Fever of Excitement Abating.

At two o'clock this morning a gas explosion in Summer street started the fire fresh, and it crossed Washington street toward Temple Place, and the block on the corner of Washington street and Temple Place and that on the corner of Washington and Summer streets are doomed. These are occupied by the dry goods stores of Jordan & Marsh, Camp & Lowe, and other large houses.

A fireman has just been killed by falling from the top of a building on Summer street. The gas was only shut off from a portion of the burnt district, and three heavy explosions occurred at half-past three o'clock this morning. Order has been maintained, however, and the people begin to be relieved from the terrible excitement.

The limits of the field of fire—Over One Thousand Buildings Burned. The general boundaries of the burnt district may be defined by a line drawn through the whole length of Summer street, from Washington street to across Federal street, and nearly to Berk's wharf; thence across to Washington square, crossing Purchase, Atkinson and Pearl streets; thence along Hamilton street, Battery-march and Kilby street to Lindell street, just in rear of the Merchants Exchange; thence across to the corner of Milk and Washington streets, intersecting Congress and Devonshire streets, and thence southward along Washington street, back to the corner of Summer. Within this area, which forms nearly a square, stretching about half a mile each way, every building is consumed.

The Cincinnati Bankers Caution. The banks here are generally pursuing a conservative course. They are accommodating their customers, but there seems to be a general disposition among them to act carefully until they can more accurately weigh the probable consequences of the disaster.

The Havoc Among the Banks. Three of the seven banks burned have failed to settle at the clearing house, namely the Shawmut, Fireman's and North American. The Mount Vernon, Hide and Leather and Everett Banks saved most of their valuables. The savings banks are all secure.

A Staggering Blow to the Insurance Companies—Action of the Board of Underwriters. Nearly all the insurance companies have their windows placarded with statements of their condition. The heaviest losers are the large companies, who are the best able to stand it.

Not so Bad as it Might Be. The local insurance companies will be able to pay about fifty per cent. of the losses, but capitalists are coming forward liberally, and all may be able to continue business.

THE BROOK THE COUNTRY. A Careful Estimate of the Probable Effect—The Calamity Less Disastrous Than the Chicago Conflagration.

It is generally believed in commercial circles that there will be no panic consequent on the Boston fire. The unsatisfactory condition of the London money market may cause some disarrangement, but no serious trouble will come on account of Boston. Assistant Secretary Richardson is in town, and has been consulting leading business men all day, and will take prompt means for relieving the money market if necessary.

of them will be forced to suspend, and a good feeling now prevails. The Chicago calamity was much worse in its effects than this can be.

A Financial Panic in New York—Universal Uncertainty and Numerous Suspensions. The stock market is in a panic on account of the Boston disaster. Prices of all securities declined from 5 to 10 per cent.

Better News from Washington. The secretary of the treasury this morning received a telegram from the president of the Merchants' Bank of Boston, saying, "I am no reason for a panic if the banks stand firm. The loss is large, but it falls upon persons who generally are able to sustain it."

AFTER THE DEFEAT.

A NORTHERN VIEW OF THE CAUSES WHICH LED TO IT.

The Future of the Grant Administration—An Era of Unexampled Corruption to Set In—Nothing but a Financial Smash Up to Save the Country—Mr. Greeley and his Future Relations with the Democracy.

To use a head-line from this morning's Tribune—"The Liberal Triumph is Postponed." The movement which promised so fairly last spring has met with a check, rather disheartening when we contemplate the one-sidedness of the returns, but which, after the present confusion subsides, may show a healthy influence still at work to save the liberties of the American people.

From this outlook there appears to be several causes which have contributed to the defeat of the Democratic and Liberal Republican coalition. Let me summarize them: 1. The men in possession of the government wielded an immense power.

The men in possession of the government wielded an immense power. That power has been vastly augmented by the results of the war. It is far more difficult to dislodge an administration now than it was fifteen years ago. It has the advantage over the attacking party in the control of the Federal patronage, now swollen to an enormous extent.

There are other causes that might be mentioned, but these seem to have been the most influential. They make a combination in favor of the administration which may well inspire some despairing citizens to ask, "What chance have we against a party which expect to change the government for the better?"

In view of these facts and of the results of yesterday, theories about the future are plentiful, but the philosopher who would give an answer to those who depend, and those who hope, on the future, must first of all be a realist.

It is believed by our Liberal friends, and feared by thoughtful Republicans, that the very long and the very short of the party will have the effect of turning its head and plunging it into extravagant excesses, some of which will not fall to damage it with the people.

One result of the late campaign should be noticed. Mr. Greeley's candidacy was accepted by many Democrats with hesitation and dissatisfaction. His being throughout the conflict has at least won their respect for his abilities and their better opinion of his discretion and hard sense.

The shipment of gold from New York to Europe next Wednesday will amount to seven millions. The liabilities of Messrs. Bowles Brothers, American bankers in Paris, who have suspended payment, are five hundred thousand dollars. The losses will fall chiefly upon American tourists in Europe.

General Grant, Porter, Sherman, Sheridan and Ingalls, Commanders B. N. Smith, Bobson and ex-Governor Curtin have arrived at Philadelphia to attend the funeral of General Meade.

THE ALABAMA STATE FAIR. The fifth annual fair of the Central Agricultural and Mechanical Association at Selma opens to-morrow under the most encouraging auspices.

GOSSIP FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Blue Ridge Case Again in Court—Another Escape of Convicts—The Politicians Assembling—The Camden Election Contest—A Woman Suffrage Solace.

The argument in the case of the State ex rel. E. S. Gary, State auditor, vs. the State treasurer and others as county treasurers, has been closed. It may be several days before an opinion is rendered.

Seven convicts to-day escaped from the Richland County jail, through the carelessness of those having charge, it is said. The escape was made by cutting through a wall. The jailor had gone into another part of the city at the time.

Alfred Bernard, of Charleston, was appointed a notary public to-day. The horse mania is spreading slowly, but in a very mild form, notwithstanding very prevalent weather. No cases have yet been reported from the L. U. county.

Senators and representatives have commenced to flock into the city, drawn hither by the smell of the senatorial contest, and for the purpose of lobbying for chairmanships of committees. The board of State canvassers to-night heard the Camden case on a motion to declare the election for sheriff null and void.

There was held at the residence of the Misses Rollin last evening a meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Association of the State, Governor R. L. Scott presiding. Lieutenant-Governor A. J. Banister, Governor elect F. J. Moses, Jr., W. J. Wilpiter, Miss Lottie Rollin, Hon. D. M. Chamberlain, Miss Martha Schofield and Mrs. R. C. DeLarge were chosen delegates to the National Convention of the Woman's Suffrage Association to assemble at St. Louis on the 20th instant.

THE STATE BOARD OF CANVASSERS. Particulars of their Action in the Contested Election Cases. The following is the report of the action of the board of State canvassers on Friday: The board met pursuant to adjournment at 12 M. The York and Kershaw proffered election cases were postponed until Monday, November 11, 1872, at 5 P. M.

A BOLD ATTEMPT TO MURDER. Sunday evening, about twilight, a desperate assault was made on Mr. Joseph Newman, near his residence, about two miles from Columbia. Mr. Newman (who is aged sixty-eight) had been to town, and was returning in a wagon, having some articles which he had purchased in the wagon, when just after entering the gate of his enclosure, about three hundred yards from his house, he encountered a negro, who was armed with a pistol, and was doing on the place, to which he enjoined "what of that?"

It is believed by our Liberal friends, and feared by thoughtful Republicans, that the very long and the very short of the party will have the effect of turning its head and plunging it into extravagant excesses, some of which will not fall to damage it with the people. We may expect more of the same kind of emotion long as the annexation of the seceding States is in the air.

THE HIPPOZYMOSIS PLAGUE. POTTSVILLE, Pa., November 11. The horse mania is spreading slowly, and it is expected that it will extend throughout the mining districts.
