Cable Despatches.

LONDON, December 14.—A barrel of powder exploded under the wall of the prison in Clerkenwell, where Col. Burke was confined. The wall was blown up, and twenty houses shattered. The firemen are digging for the dead. No prisoners escaped; forty men, women and children were wounded. The man who lit the fuse escaped.

News Items.

CHARLESTON, December 14.—Arrived—steamer G. B. Upton, Boston; bark Esperanza, Havana. Sailed—steamers Falcon, Baltimore; Manhattan, New York.

AUGUSTA, December 14.—It is reported that a collision occurred to-day between a party of negroes and the civil authorities, at Elberton, Elbert County, in which the Sheriff, George Allen, was killed and several others, white and black, were wounded. The difficulty originated at a ball. Three of the persons implicated have not been arrested.

RICHMOND, December 14.—The weather is exceedingly cold here. A man was frozen to death in the city last night.

SAVANNAH, December 14.—John E. Hayes, editor of the Republican, was attacked by Charles H. Hopkins, this evening. Hayes was badly but not dangerously hurt, by a blow on the head with a loaded whip.

ATLANTA, December 14.—In apparent defiance of the relief ordinance adopted Thursday last by the Convention, the sheriff levied here to-day on a store, and closed it. Gen. Pope was appealed to, and replied that he could not intervene—the ordinance merely saying levies shall be suspended, but not preventing their being made. This construction is sustained by the bar, and under it the ordinance defeats its own end.

WASHINGTON, December 14.—A mixed delegation from Virginia, North and South Carolina, visited Stevens yesterday, when the following was elicited: Stevens regarded the impeachment failure an evidence of fickleness of public opinion. The Virginia delegate said the impeachment failure would work seriously against reconstruction. Stevens remarked that it could not fail to be otherwise, and mutual regrets were exchanged. The North Carolina negro (Harris) said they would get along very well. The Northern whites were more frightened about negro suffrage than the Southern whites. Gov. Holden was the life blood of the Republican party of North Carolina. The Virginia delegate represented that the condition was critical, and unless Congress came to the relief of the suffering colored and white Unionists, it would be terrible. Stevens favored the repeal of the clause requiring a majority of registered voters. The delegation thought that would do; but suggested a law empowering the Conventions already called to establish provisional governments immediately; then, if the Constitutions were defeated, they would have at least loyal State officers. Stevens said he had drawn up a bill with two or three beneficial provisions. One was to leave to a majority to affirm or reject the Constitution; another, that the present Conventions shall, as independent bodies, establish Governments in lieu of District Commanders, as soon as Constitutions were ready for submission to Congress. The delegation approved this. Stevens inquired whether the old masters would be able to seduce the negroes from voting properly. Harris replied that the negroes were dependent on their old masters for their daily bread. There was danger, but Harris hoped the negroes were capable of enduring great privations. The Virginia delegate, Cook, (colored,) said Harris' remarks applied to his district; 800 in Richmond lost places. Stevens hoped the whole Southern vote would be cast for the Republican party; this would elect a Republican President, and assure triumphant reconstruction.

Stanton is to have full hearing before the Senate Military Committee, to meet the President's charges.

In addition to the $500,000 already appropriated, $1,200,000 more is asked for, to cover reconstruction expenses to date.

Internal revenue receipts to-day $400,000, for the week $2,253,000.

RICHMOND, December 14.—In the Reconstruction Convention, resolutions of inquiry were offered: of incorporating in the bill of rights, a clause declaring all test oaths diametrically opposed to the principles of republican liberty; of enfranchising all persons from whom it is in the power of the Convention to remove existing disabilities. A resolution declaring all debts contracted since January 1st, 1860, in the purchase of slaves, null and void, was referred. Adjourned.
