Interesting European Intelligence.

London, September 19.—The Globe comments severely on the supineness of the Parisians in permitting the Prussians to repair roads and replace bridges on the line of their advance without interruption. Mail advices indicate that the besieged and besiegers at Metz suffer greatly from disease and casualties. The village of Basailles, near Sedan, was destroyed by the Prussians, because some wounded fugitives from the German army were massacred in its streets. The Shipping Gazette anticipates that there will be too much cotton and too little corn from the Southern States. Cotton prices are low and there is much activity in Lancashire.

A Canadian writes to the Birmingham Gazette that the present liberal government of the colony will drive Canada to annexation to the United States or independence of Great Britain.

Advices from Strasburg, on Monday, say the cannon at the garrison were nearly quiet. General Uhrich was badly wounded. His headquarters have been removed to the cellar. The people voted, by a large majority, to continue the defence.

Italian news is meagre. Rome is still unoccupied.

London, September 20.—The Prussians cite Napoleon's precedent as authority for employing prisoners on public work.

Tours, September 20.—The Ministry publish the following: The enemy are going to Bartheim and Enstein. Official Paris advices to the evening of the 18th, say the Prussians made a reconnaissance near Joinville. An engagement with the French sharpshooters occurred on the opposite bank of the Marne. The Prussians were driven off. The German Uhlans occupied Versailles. It is understood that the Prussians will make Versailles their permanent headquarters. The Constitutionnel gives the following answer from the King to mediation efforts: Whereas the great powers did not succeed in preventing France from declaring war against Prussia, Prussia now demands her right to treat directly with France for peace; but as France has no regular government, Prussia can have no guarantee that the conditions of the treaty will be fulfilled. To settle this point, Jules Favre himself has gone to the King's headquarters.

Tours, September 20.—Postal service hence to Paris is done entirely by messengers.

Tours, September 20.—It is reported that there are strong hopes of peace, since the interview between Favre and King William. Prussia is indisposed to an armistice. If there is peace at all, it must be settled immediately. Thiers left here this afternoon, after an interview with Crémieux.

England received Thiers' explanations favorably, and is prepared to act with Russia, if they also accept Thiers' proposition.

Advices from Orleans attach great importance to the action at Sisson yesterday. The Prussians suffered much from artillery hidden in the woods. The battle lasted nearly all day, when the Prussians were compelled to retire. It is reported that the Prussians were badly repulsed in an attempt to storm Fort Dumart Vallerat, on the West side of Paris.

Two trains collided near here. Eleven persons were killed, including M. Duval, editor of the Journal Des Debats, and twenty-five were hurt. An enormous quantity of stores and munitions gathered here are ordered further South.

A letter from Bismarck says: Rest satisfied that South Germany being properly secured, no obstacle will be placed, on the part of Germany, in the way of terminating the war into which Prussia was unwillingly drawn, but from which she will never retire until the legitimate aspirations of her children and the integrity of their fatherland have been secured, and the people of Germany rendered safe from future cruel and unnecessary conflicts and slaughter, the results of which we cannot look upon without horror.

A private letter from Cassi says Napoleon formally revoked the decree by which Eugenie assumed the Regency.

London, September 20.—Bictrie, formerly Prefect of Police, says it is untrue that the Emperor has 10,000,000 francs safely invested at Amsterdam, and that it is also untrue that the Emperor borrowed 2,000 thalers at Sedan. American Affairs.

New York, September 19.—The London correspondent of the Times, writing from Paris, 17th, says Gen. Tinay led 30,000 troops in line, last night, to Vincennes, to dispute the passage of the Marne. The advance of the enemy yesterday was not great. Their troops are massed near the Seine, ready to cross any moment. Crossing the Seine at Villeneuve and St. George's, they will pass in the vicinity of Longueumeau to the rear of Versailles. Established there, they will push forward by the woods of Mendon, to plant batteries on the heights of Clamart, and if the city is bombarded, will open fire upon the vanguard. From this point, they can greatly damage the city as far as the Boulevards d'Enfer and Mont Parnass. The Northern army is marching on St. Denis.

The announcement was made that a Socialist meeting would be held, at which Victor Hugo, Ledru Rollin, Louis Blanc and Pyat would be present, to protest against the moderation of the Government. The meeting will probably be suppressed, and not take place. The Reds are struggling hard for supremacy. Since morning, the enemy has made some progress towards Versailles.
