 Carrie England, colored, aged 12 years, is missing from her home on Yandes street.
 The revival services at the Corinthian Baptist church, closed last Sunday evening.

 The Stone yard will be reopened as soon as a sufficient quantity of material upon which to work arrives from St. Paul.
 Rev. C. C. Wilson, is conducting a series of very interesting revival services, at his church on Rhode Island street.
 Peter Wright, an old colored man, living on Mississippi street, near 7th, died suddenly last Tuesday night of pneumonia.
 The "American Twin Brothers," song and dance men, left the city last Saturday for Cincinnati, to fill an engagement at the Coliseum.
 J. C. Hart died Wednesday, and was buried Friday afternoon under the auspices of the G. U. O. of F., of which he was a member.
 Wilson Tansy, aged seventeen years, while hunting in the vicinity of Eagle Creek, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen, in firing a serious wound.
 Tom Lewis, who was arrested about a week ago for an assault upon a girl with whom he was associating, was released on bail and has "skipped" town.
 Officer Wells, met a foot pad, as he thought, Tuesday evening at the corner of North and Douglas streets. For further particulars inquire of Albert Farley.
 A very pleasant masquerade party was given, on West North street Tuesday evening. Quite a number of handsome costumes were displayed, and the evening was passed very pleasantly.
 The Bijou Theatre, R. L. Smith proprietor, opened Monday night and has been crowded every night since. The managers, Yale and Decker, understand their business, and are presenting good programs.
 Three persons were fined $14 each, in the Mayor's court Tuesday morning, for jumping on a train while in motion. Perhaps this will be a pointer to some of the boys who make a daily practice of jumping on trains at the yellow bridge to ride down town.
 Officers Wells and Dudley arrested Magie Hunt, Monday night, for the theft of several articles of wearing apparel. She entered a plea of guilty in the Criminal Court, and upon the recommendation of the officers, this being her first offense, she was released on a "float."

Charles Brown, who went from this city to Richmond, Ind., last fall, where he was employed as head waiter at one of the hotels and shot a hotel porter while the two were engaged in a fight, was released from custody last Saturday, the Wayne County grand jury failing to find an indictment, and has returned to Indianapolis. The man shot by Brown has entirely recovered, and it was shown that the shooting was done in self defense.

Says a prominent horseman, in giving his opinion of Vanderbilt's mare, Maud S., whose great feat at Chicago put her at the head (and dubbed her "Queen of the Turf") "In my opinion the time is not far distant when a two minit gait will be recorded." It will certainly be the case if horsemen continue to use Kendall's Spavin Cure, as it limbers up the joints, removes all blemishes, and in fact has made a complete revolution in the horse business.

The genial Charles Bently, of the Hvers' Sisters Combination, paid the LEADER office a call while in the city. The general verdict of those who met him, is that he is not only a good singer, but a jovial gentleman in every respect. Come again Charles, you will always be welcome.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound revives the drooping spirits; invigorates and harmonizes the organic functions; gives elasticity and firmness to the step, restores the natural luster to the eye, and plants on the pale cheek of beauty the fresh roses of life's spring and early summer time.

A surprise was tendered Rev. Vertrees last Saturday evening at his residence on East St. Clair street, by the following persons: Messrs. James E. Johnson, Emma Baxter, Anna Haley, Emily Parker, Jane Martin, Minnie Cattel, and Messrs. Cornelius Woodford, H. C. Turner, Abner Davis, and John Hutchcraft.

Tried to Kill Her.
 Jim Mcowan and his wife quarrelled Thursday evening, and Jim concluded to "remove" his better half; so he pulled out his gun, and went to shooting. The timely arrival of Officer Temple, and the poor state of the wife, prevented the execution. James stands a good chance to go North.

"In His Mind."
 Between 10 and 11 o'clock last Sunday night James Naylor, night watchman at Naylor & Marmon's works, across the river telegraph, returned to the city that he had shot a burglar. Capt. Campbell and a posse went out, and after examining into the matter decided that the watchman had a pretty well defined case of the "Jim Jams," and only shot a burglar "in his mind." He has been discharged from the service of the company.

Trouble in Zion.
 For several months trouble has been brewing in the Zion Baptist church at the Zion Baptist Church, corner of 2nd street and Lafayette R. R. The "bone of contention" was the pastor, Rev. William Singleton, and the disturbance resulted in the deposition of Mr. Singleton as pastor of the church. He very recently married a young girl about fifteen years of age, and as he is more than sixty, some of his congregation thought that he might have made a better selection; but the Elder thought differently. The opposition however, claim that this was not the cause of his dismissal, but say that there were charges of a very serious nature against him and which they did not care to make public. They are now looking for a new minister who is willing and competent to preside over the congregation.

Resolutions of Respect.
 HALL OF O. P. MORTON LODGE, No. 1987, Indianapolis Ind., Feb. 7, 1882.
 At a meeting of the above named lodge held this date, the following were unanimously adopted:
 Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Samuel Alexander, who died Jan. 22nd, 1882, and whilst he was in humble submission to Divine Providence, be it
 Resolved, That in his death Heaven has gained a soul and each one of us has lost a friend and O. P. Morton lodge No. 1987, G. U. O. of F. has lost a devoted brother, and earnest worker of the order, and his loss cannot be easily replaced.
 Resolved, That we deeply cherish his memory and fondly remember his Christian virtues and endeavor to exemplify the great principles of F. L. and I.
 Resolved, That the family of our deceased brother have our warmest and heart-felt sympathy in their affliction and express the warmest hope that God in his great love and mercy will support them in their bereavement. Be it
 Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the S. C. M. for publication, and also to the INDIANAPOLIS LEADER and a copy of the LEADER sent to the widow of the deceased brother.

Political Jots.
 Mr. James N. Weaver, colored, has entered the list as a candidate for legislative honor from Wayne county.
 Davis Cheatham, is rapidly growing in favor, as a candidate for Constable. He has a earnest friends working for him.
 Who was invited to the caucus of the night, (few) held down town a few evenings ago. Now, old boys, no set up jobs will be tolerated.
 Oliver M. Vorhees has returned from a business trip to Texas, and will now direct his attention towards securing the next nomination for sheriff.
 With Sheriff Adams out of the race, it now leaves a four cornered tussel between Vorhees, Hess, Branham and Whittinger. At present we have no comments to make.
 H. W. White is moving around pretty lively among his friends in order to enlist their services in his race for Township Assessor. This is a two handed game.
 The County Commissioners have decided to reduce the number of justices of the peace from six to four. This will make the contest a little more interesting for the candidates.
 We don't believe there is any colored man who will go into the convent on and vote against Conrad Burley. If there is, we would like to have his photograph afterwards.
 Organize seems to be the watchword. Well, let the proper kind of organization go on, and let it mean business too. The LEADER means to advocate the principles of justice and square dealing in politics as well as in other matters.
 It is asking very little of the party to ask that a colored man be placed on the township ticket for Justice of the Peace. The name of Conrad Burley will be placed before the convention for this place, and his nomination will be accepted by the colored people as an additional evidence that the Republican party means to act in good faith with the colored voters. If the white men who have promised to support Mr. Burley are faithful to their promises, his nomination will be accomplished. Let colored men make a careful note of the vote as it is cast in the convention.

Hon. Bernard Schweitzer, of Spencer, Owen county, will be a candidate for State Treasurer before the next Democratic State convention. Mr. Schweitzer was a member of the last Legislature, and made many friends among the colored people by voting on the right side of every question affecting their interests.

Calvin F. Rooker, at the urgent request of many friends has consented to allow his name to go before the convention as a candidate for Justice of the Peace. Mr. Rooker is an able attorney, and his nomination and election would do much toward dignifying and raising the justice courts up to that standard which is demanded by the people.

A meeting of colored voters of the 3rd, 4th, 13th, 14th, and 15th wards will be held in the basement of the A. M. E. Zion church, corner of North and Blackford streets, next Wednesday evening, for the purpose of organizing a League of the Secret Aldermen district. The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock sharp. Candidates are not invited.

We are informed that some persons have taken it upon themselves to criticize the LEADER for its denunciation of a candidate who in the past, would not vote for the election of a colored man for Councilman of the 14th ward, and has worked contrary to the interests of the colored people in other respects. The LEADER has no crow to eat in this matter. It meant just what it said; and, as a matter of principle, it will not give its support to any man of that class.

LITTLE FOLKS ABROAD.
 [Correspondence Golden Rule.]
 Within six blocks of my Baton residence there are eleven corn doctors. Some of them employ a number of operators, and do an immense business. A large majority of adults, among the better classes, suffer from corns or other maladies of the feet. Walking the best of exercise, would be indefinitely increased if four feet were healthy.
 Prompted by suffering in my own person, and seeing the large number of cripples about me, I have studied the subject with care and interest.
 Let me give you the results of my observation and thought: The sole is too narrow! It has long been suspected that a narrow sole was the great cause in this world, of the particular suffering under consideration. I am sure, all or nearly all, comes from a narrow sole.
 My friend Mrs. C., on reading the chapter in our Girls devoted to "Boots and shoes" said, "I have a good one, although she is a sufferer from corns, and a crippled condition of feet, her shoes were, nevertheless, enormous; the size of her feet. She wished I would see it it was not so. I examined her shoes and agreed with her that they were too large. As she stepped her feet rocked on the sole side and then that on that. Now it pressed over on the outside rubbing down over the edge of the sole, and touching the ground, and perhaps, if the ground were at all uneven, on the very step of the shoe's heel. I have seen the sole of the sole. Such friction between the little toe and the big toe joints against the upper leather must invariably produce corns. I think the majority of boots are too large.
 Mrs. C. wished me to accompany her to the shoemaker's and see what I could do for her relief, for really, life was becoming a torture. We went to her own shoemaker. Curiously enough, his name is Shoemaker. Mrs. C. hobbled to a seat and declared, "I won't try to walk again, there!"
 Her shoes were removed and the shoemaker marked around her foot when she was standing upon it. We measured the mark and found that it was exactly four inches. That was the width of her foot when she stepped on it without a shoe. Then we measured the sole of the shoe she was wearing and found it two and a half inches. Here was the secret of the whole trouble.
 A pair of shoes were made for her at once, with soles four inches broad. Now she can walk for hours without a pain in her feet.
 There are millions of poor sufferers in this country, who are limping and hobbling through the world who might be perfectly relieved and cured by the same means.
 A Telegraph Profitly.
 (Stanton Vindicator.)
 There is a little boy in knee breeches and colored stockings at Hanover Court House Station, on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, who is probably the youngest telegraph operator on that line of any other in this country. He is only nine years old, his name is Beverly Dabney Benson, and he is the son of Mr. James S. Benson, the agent and operator at the station, formerly of Charleston, and a very skillful telegraph operator, and reads messages from the wire as readily by the sound as his father can. Our reporter was sitting in the office a few nights ago, and had not noticed that the little fellow had been left in charge for a while by his father. He was perched on a high desk playing draughts with a companionable machine was ticking away, with its unmeaning clatter to the uninitiated, when all at once the boy exclaimed, "Hold on, they are calling me," jumped down from his perch, ran to his seat and in a jiffy had written out the message, and it aside for his father, and resumed his game.
 Not long since he was sitting idly in the office, and his father was reading a newspaper, while the machine clicked with the news that was going over the wire. He suddenly he exclaimed, "There's a message going wrong; it ought to come here; it is for John S. Taylor, and they are sending it to Hanover Junction!" And so it turned out. It was not long before the message was sent back to Mr. Taylor, who lived in the neighborhood of the Court House. Beverly's skill is all the more remarkable when it is known that it has not been more than a year since he took the thing up, having first recognized the call of a station below. He then commenced learning of his own accord, and was very much in the way at first, and though receiving but little encouragement from his father, persevered, and rapidly acquired the difficult art. So that now, but for his tender years and probably tender judgment, he is competent to manage an office. The boy will make his mark if he lives.

Owned to His Record.
 (Salt Lake Tribune.)
 The editor was sitting in his revolving cane-bottomed chair when Tornado Tom, the traveling terror of Texas, came in and demanded retraction of the statement that he had swindled an orphan out of $4.
 "It's a lie clear through," said the Terror, striking the table with his fist. "I'm as good a man as smells the atmosphere in this section."
 "Perhaps you are better," said the editor, meekly.
 "My record'll compare favorably with yours," said the Terror with a sneer. "Perhaps there are a few little back rackets in your life, sir, that wouldn't bear a microscopic investigation."
 "Oh, sir," said the editor, visibly agitated, "don't recall the past; don't bring up the memories of the tomb; I know I have had a hard life; don't deny it. I killed Shorty Barnes, the Bowery boy of New York; I backed him all to pieces with a knife. I have atoned for it a thousand times. I blew a man's head off at a log roll in Kentucky, and bitterly have I repented of my folly. I slew a lot of inoffensive citizens of Omaha over a paltry four-dollar pot, simply because I got excited. How could I but cheat the tomb of the men I have placed in its new I would be happy. But it was all owing to my high temper and lack of after thought. I know that I have been wayward, wicked, and you have a right to come here and recall those unhappy memories; but it's mean for all that. Nobody with a heart as big as mine could do such a thing. Don't leave, stranger; I'll tell you all I saw of a man's head off with an old army saber just for the Texas Terror was down stairs and half way around the corner, while the editor, taking a fresh chew of rattlesnake twist, continued his peaceful avocations quietly as a law-abiding citizen.

A Bear Whipped On With Fire.
 (Detroit Post and Tribune.)
 A McIntosh, of East Saginaw, Friday, while land-looking on the Tobacco River, and crossing a cedar swamp, was suddenly interviewed by a large bear. The bear manifested a too affectionate disposition. Mac dodged around two big trees growing together. He kept dodging around those trees till his knees grew weak with the exercise, and, taking a copy of the Saginaw Courier from his pocket, he thrust it in the bear's face, after the style of a subscription or advertising agent, whereupon the bear hastily departed to tend to business elsewhere. The paper was a red-hot number he having lighted it with a match.

Just as Louis XVI loved book-making, so Charles IV. of Spain had a craze for the manufacture of sausages, which he carried on in strict seclusion in a building specially set apart for them. Lady B., a handsome English woman, true to the instincts of Grandmother Eve, must needs peep in on his Most Christian Majesty. He detected the fair spy, and punished her by seizing her with his bloody hands and repeatedly kissing her.

Are you the happy father of a brace of vigorous, active boys? You are? Then you know all about having two snow forts in the front yard, and all the neighbors' brats living in wait behind them to give you a warm greeting with a snowball volley as you come sauntering up the sidewalk with half a dozen new lamp chimneys in your pocket and a 17x14 pane of glass under your arm to set in the cellar window.—Tom Weaver.

STRANGE THINGS IN DEATH.
 The Dream a Minister Had Before He Was Killed.
 (Western Christian Advocate.)
 There are some remarkable things in connection with the death of Rev. C. C. Showers, a local preacher of Bloomington, Ind., who was suddenly crushed beneath the cars, at Greensburg, on the 16th ult. He came up on the noon train of that day from his home, en route for Indianapolis, and thence to different points in Ohio, in the interest of a large furniture factory of "Showers Brothers," the brothers being his own three sons. He came to Greensburg, and having three hours to wait, he called on some of his friends, appearing in better health than usual. He was a hale, active, robust man of sixty-five years. On returning to the depot to take the 8 P. M. train, he had to cross the track of the L. N. A. and C. Road just at the double depot. He thought his train was coming beyond the platform, and was waiting with his hand to the face as a shield from the snowstorm. It proved to be the down train for New Albany, and, owing to the escaping steam from a locomotive, he did not hear the whistle, and stepped on the track immediately in front of the slowing engine. When about to strike him he saw his danger, and turned suddenly with his back to the train, but in his bewilderment had not time to leap before the iron guard struck him. He was carried thirty-eight feet, sought refuge in a vacant car, and crushed to death. He lived a few minutes, but he spoke. But here is the remarkable part of this terrible affair. On Saturday night, at his home, he had a strange and impressive dream, which he told his wife, and at early morn went to one of his sons, and related it to him. He also told it to Brother W. E. Browning's class, at the Christian church, where he was a member. He dreamed that he suddenly died, and a guide escorted him among high mountains until they came to a deep ravine and a valley, where he saw a wretched people were entering. As each one entered and was ordered to advance he fell on his knees and begged for mercy, but he did not get it. He saw a sign that said "too late," "too late," "too late," repeating it thrice to each. His guide told him this was the entrance to hell, and they who entered were worldly club members, and that the fault was largely owing to the preachers, who preached more to please than to save souls. The guide told him that he was not his doom, and that he would soon take his Heavenly home. He was so impressed with this strange, bright vision that he spent all day Sabbath reconsecrating himself to God. Monday he was to start on his trip, and did so. One of his sons went to that same day to Louisville on important and urgent business, to be absent a day or two. The father entreated him not to go, but he would not listen. He said, "Why not, father?" said the son. He said: "Do not leave home until you hear from me." At this the son promised to do so, and did so. One o'clock that evening he received the dispatch telling of his father's death. This is truly strange, and by many would be held as evidence of supernatural power. The morning he left home he told his wife he knew not where or how soon he should fall; but for he assumed to be a member of the train he spent most of the time reading a valuable Bible, which he carried in his valise, and talked long with an old friend, reading and explaining the third chapter of John, to prove that one could live a holy life without sin. His favorite theme was sanctification, and had been for seven years. He preached it, talked it and proved it, and his wife never knew he was so prominent, but surely it was a splendid hobby for such a death.

 LYON AND OSCEOLA
 Counties in Northwest Iowa, are conceded to be the most beautiful and fertile in the State. This summer we have opened upwards of 300 new farms, sinking a well, building a convenient house and roomy barn, and breaking from 60 to 100 acres on each farm. These farms are to let on terms that no industrious man can fail to make profitable. Immediate possession given. We will, if needed, furnish seed for next year's crop. We will also furnish breaking to be done, for which we will pay the regular prices. Tenants not having teams enough to break with, will be supplied with a horse or horses for that purpose, at market price, and the pay taken in breaking. These farms are situated within a few miles of the railroad. Apply personally or by letter to CLOSE BROS. & CO., Sibley, Osceola County, Iowa.
