A BEEF CASE

General Bullock was called on this morning to try an important case of larceny. J. F. Miller was the complainant and C. F. Counts, the market man, the defendant. It appears a negro named Corus Owens sold a beef to Counts, who sent Henry Brown for the animal. Counts had bargained for a large animal, but a small one was brought in. When Mr. Counts made party give him bill of sale. The only thing wrong in the bill of sale was the brand. But as larceny could not be proved against Mr. Counts, the case was dismissed. Ed. W. Davis represented the state and Ray Bullock the defense. The negro was discharged.

THE EAST COAST

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Carroll, on their way to Miami, stopped at Daytona, intending to stay over night only, but found Daytona so pleasant and the wheeling on the beach so good that they remained two days. Mr. Carroll says the Atlantic beach from Ormond to Mosquito Inlet is the finest bicycle track in the world, and he is probably right.

Mr. Carroll writes of Miami:

Miami is a great place and has a bright future; with the exception of Daytona it is the best place on the East Coast and has the finest streets of any town in the state, but good streets are characteristic of this coast. The town is making great preparations for the Fourth and will have to open the Royal Palm to accommodate the crowd. A wire from Sanford yesterday asked for accommodations for 1000 from that section. In places the woods are full of wild times. My brother has an elegant little yacht and we are making good use of it on the bay. A bicycle is worth $10 per day here. You can get that much use out of it.
