What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhea and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea-The Mother's Friend.

The period immediately following child-birth is fraught with many dangers. The strength has been used in the painful ordeal through which the mother has passed and she finds herself helpless and weakened. Many mothers, like Mrs. Ford, date the beginning of their illness from the birth of their child. Indeed the frequent spectacle of a healthy young woman becoming a chronic invalid after motherhood is one of the tragedies of life. All this is unnecessary, when Wine of Cardui is obtainable. It rehabilitates the shattered nervous system, strengthens the organs and ligaments, and re-establishes a healthy, natural condition, saving years of chronic sickness and suffering. Wine of Cardui taken just before confinement will render the ordeal comparatively painless. It will re-enforce and strengthen the organs for their work. For every trying crisis in a woman's life, Wine of Cardui is the medicine to take. Ask your druggist for Wine of Cardui and take no substitute. If one is offered send $1.00 for a bottle to the Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, Tenn.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL

There are homes, and homes that are not homes. In one place you feel a sense of restfulness. There is no fret, no worry there. The impression comes to you that in some way you have got out of the whirl of the stream of life, and are becalmed in a pleasa it land-locked bay, where there is nothing but peace. The next place you go into may produce an entirely opposite impression on you. You feel the restlessness, the uneasiness that comes of contact with those who seem to have missed the true home spirit. This is not home in any real sense of the word -simply a place to stay in over night and eat one's meals in, and to get away from as soon as possble after that.

These homeless homes are what they are because of divers reasons. In one there is dominant a desire to make the home a sort of show place. The parlor and the sitting room are not for family use, but are reserved for visitors to look at, and feel uncomfortable in. The children are seldom allowed to cross their thesholds. If by chance they do so, they feel as much out of place as the proverbial "cat in a strange garret," and they are glad to get away from the place as soon as possible, and stay away as long as they can. What meaning has the word home for them? Is it strange that they fail to understand what the true home feeling is in others, and wonder that there can be such a thing as home sickness?

In another place, a spirit of most condemnable neatness prevails. The books and papers must be put away primily as soon as done with. The chairs must be kept in the places the mistress of the house has assigned them, and woe to the child who forgets that system prevails in that household, and disarranges the order of things. The carpet sweeper, the broom, and the dusting cloth are brought into use a dozen times daily, and the members of the household are always made to feel that they are directly responsible for the drudgery which the housewife makes for herself. "I don't see as we're any dirtier then any other children," I heard a boy say, not long ago, in one of these homes; "but I guess we must be, for mother's always sweeping and dusting after us, and she says that it takes all of her time to keep things looking decent when we're around. She says she'll be glad when school begins, so she can get rid of us, and I'll bet she won't be any gladder than we shall

What pleasant memory of home will these children take away with them when they go out into the world to begin the work of life? Ah, none at all! I wish the mothers who think more of cheerless, but elegant, parlors, and of rooms so orderly that one never dares stir in them for fear of disarranging something, could realize the dangerous work they are doing. They give their time to the house, but the home is neglected. The parlor and the sitting room may be models of neatness and systemate arrangements, but the hearts of the children God has given into their care are allowed to go unswept, and the dust and disorder of neglect prevail there. What poor foundations for the structure of a successful and symmetrical life these mistaken mothers are laying. I sometimes wonder which is to be pitied more-the mother or the children. By and by the truth may come home to her, when it is too late to set mistakes right, and she may realize her lost opportunities, her overlooked or ignored duties, and then, I know, her heart will accuse her, as well as her children, and she will wish it might all be done over again; but the wish will not ava l. The mischief will have been done, and the consequences of it will be only too apparent in the lives of her boys and girls. God help these poor, blind motaers to see the truth before it is too late. No truer words were ever said than these: "The home is the safeguard of the nation." The true home of earth is an anticipation of the heavenly home. I sometimes wonder if the home which is to be can be a dearer place than that in which mother and children and meet and enjoy life and each other to the full. I now and then am privileged to look upon such a home. It is not a place where things run in grooves. It is not a place where neatness and orderliness are considered as of more importance than the happiness or the comfort of the family. It is a place made on purpose to enjoy, to live in, and to love, and it is only a means to an end. The woman who rules it in gentleness cares very little about the rigid system which makes other homes as unpleasant as the boy's "suit of Sunday clothes" used to be in the early days of the century. The papers or books which the children leave scattered about are never thought of as littering the room. The chief idea is, How have they enjoyed them? How much good have they got out of them? And the mother, instead of scolding them for carelessness, encourages them to make good books and papers their daily companions, and this without standing on ceremony with them. She knows that nothing gives a more home-like look to a room than such a disposition of its contents as goes to show that it is used by those who are

We have Martha-mothers and Marymothers. The Martha-mothers magnify the secondary features of the home and put them in the foreground. What time is left after caring for these things they devote to the children; but the children never get over the feeling that they are of less account than the household machinery. Such mothers never succeed in making home beautiful. In one sense, they make failures of themselves, and fortunate are they if they do not make Mary-mothers-these are the ones who make the home beautiful, because they give to love the first, best place, and teach their children to feel that home, in order to be a real home, must be a itual welfare are of vastly more mportance than material things.-Eben E. # WINE OF CARDUI

Clarkson, Ark., July 20, 1899. After my baby was born I took the whites and falling of the womb, and was in a very dangerous condition. I read one of your home treatment books, and commenced to treat myself with Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught. I am thankful for what the medicine did for me, and I am now in better health than I have been for a long time. Mrs. MARGARET FORD.

How Catarrh Robs Its Victims of Health and Life.

Catarrh is the most insidious of diseases. Ifneglected, it invariably reaches the bronchial tubes and lungs, rendering them weak and Susceptible to consumption.

is the only logical treatment for this loathsome disease. Catarrh is now recognized as an affection of the blood, and not a mere local trouble. The best blood purifier is therefore the best remedy, and the best blood purifier is acknowledged to be P. P. P. Under treatment with P. P. P. the sickening discharges, with hawking and spitting and offensive odor, quickly disappear and permanent and radical recovery soon results.

Messrs. LIPPMAN BROTHERS, Savannah, Ga. Gents-I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded : see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night. I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally. Yours respectfully, A. M. RAMSEY. THE STATE OF TEXAS—County of Comanche.—Before the undersigned authority on this day my friends and the public generally. You THE STATE OF TEXAS—County of Comanche

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blot-hes, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin. rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at Garrett & Gerig's Drugstore.
