CONSTIPATION

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. Having no other means before I tried Cascarets, I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you I am free from all this suffering. You can see this in behalf of suffering humanity." D. F. Fisher, Honolulu, Ill.

GROVER HAS A GROUCH

Ex-President Cleveland Comes Out of His Shell Long Enough to Make a Snap at Hearst.

New York, October 12.—The World prints a statement by ex-President Grover Cleveland on the present New York political campaign, which has attracted widespread attention. During the course of the statement Mr. Cleveland says: "I confess that I am exceedingly surprised at the outcome of the recent Democratic convention. Though not near enough to be in touch with the incidents leading to this result, and devoting little attention to political occurrences, my estimate of the conservative good judgment of the Democracy of my State and my conception of Democratic principles and purposes is such that I am profoundly startled at the selection which has been made." "I am open and bold attack upon the nominees of the Democratic party of the State has aroused much interest, coming as it does from the only living Democratic ex-president.

Mr. Hearst's friends bitterly resent the attack made by Mr. Cleveland and his enemies are rejoiced on the other hand, that a man of such standing has made a bold attack on the nominee of the party.

The incident lends additional interest to the campaign which is growing to be a very warm one, as such affairs as this but add fuel to the flames of each faction engaged in the struggle.

A. J. BRIGANCE

Chief of the Ocala Fire Department

This is a short sketch of my past life. I was born in Sumner county, Tenn. July 27, 1872. In 1883 I moved to Logan county, Ky., and lived there until 1892, when I enlisted in the U. S. army. I served three years and three months in Troop B, 3rd Cavalry, which was stationed at Brownsville, Texas, at that time. In 1893 we broke camp and marched overland to Fort Reno, Oklahoma Territory, where I served under Uncle Sam until 1895. I was then honorably discharged and made a visit back to my old home in Kentucky and stayed there one year and eight months. From there I went to St. Louis and again enlisted in the army to serve three years. I was sent from St. Louis to Fort Sill, Ok., and joined Company E, 10th Infantry. I was at Fort Sill when the Spanish-American war broke out in 1898. I left Fort Sill for Tampa, Fla., where we embarked for Cuba and landed at Daiquiri, Cuba, June 28, 1898, twelve miles from Santiago.

July 1st call to arms was sounded and we were off to war. My regiment was ordered to take certain portions of San Juan Hill, which was located directly in front of Santiago. Up to this time we engaged in a few small skirmishes, but when we reached San Juan Hill we found the bullets flying thick and fast. My captain was the first to fall, so our company was withdrawing. Then we fought through shot and shell until 3:20 o'clock, July 2nd, 1898, when I was wounded and was sent back to the hospital.

July 8th I sailed for Newport News, Va., and found the hospital filled to overflowing. When the transport was ordered to New York and reached that place on July 17th. I was in the hospital in New York three months, when I was able to leave. I then returned to my home in Kentucky and spent two months there. When I joined my regiment in November they were in Alabama. In December, 1898, we were embarked once more for Havana, Cuba. We landed in Havana, Dec. 25th (Christmas day) and pitched camp. Had for our Christmas dinner fried bacon, coffee, Irish potatoes with jackets on and hard tack, and we really enjoyed it. We were in Cuba until the following October, 1899, when I was discharged and again sailed for my Kentucky home, arriving there Dec. 23, 1899.

On the 25th of January, 1900, I was married to Miss Annie B. Herndon, Russellville, Ky., and lived there until Dec. 27, 1902.

I moved to Ocala, Fla., Dec. 30th, 1902, accepted a position as dry goods clerk for C. L. Brown, Feb. 1, 1903, where I worked until June 1st, when I accepted the position of night policeman. I served in this capacity until Oct. 5, 1904, when I accepted the position of fire chief. A. J. Brigance.

It need only be added that Mr. Brigance, in the position of fire chief, has made the best record for interest and efficiency ever recorded in Ocala. The vigilance and energy he displays in the management of the department stands as a guardian over the homes, lives and property of the citizens of Ocala, has won the confidence of our people to a degree that is an honor to any man. Mr. Brigance needs no commendation at our hands, and his brilliant and efficient record he has made in the responsible position he has held for two years is his certificate of honor.

CUPID DROVE HIM CRAZY

Harry Smith of Cleveland, Ohio, Murdered Miss Mary Shepard and Then Killed Himself.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—In the presence of sixty pupils in the South Euclid School, Harry Smith, 25 years old, shot to death Miss Mary Shepard, a teacher, 22 years old, yesterday afternoon. Going behind the barn in the rear of his home in Warrensville two hours later, Smith shot himself through the head, dying instantly.

Disappointment in love is said to have been the motive for the cold-blooded murder. Smith, who was a fourth cousin to Miss Shepard, had wooed her for some time and had been rejected. He brooded over this unhappy ending of his courtship and this afternoon, first quitting his position, bought a revolver and went to the South Euclid school. Miss Shepard responded to his knock at the door. He spindled to his knock at the door. He walked in and for a few moments talked to her in the hall. Suddenly he pulled out his revolver, shoved it against her head and fired twice in rapid succession, both bullets crashing through her brain.

Panic spread among the pupils, who rushed out of the building screaming. Some of the girls fainted.

Smith leisurely walked out and boarded a car bound for Warrensville. The news of the crime went like wild fire and in less than half an hour an armed posse was in pursuit. The identity of the murderer was quickly established.

Chief of Police Kohler was notified and he dispatched four policemen to Smith's home in Warrensville, a short distance from the scene. On the suburban car Smith confessed to the conductor, and remarked that "they will have to kill me to get me."

Reaching home about a few minutes before the arrival of the posse and police, Smith told his father of the crime. When his pursuers came in sight the young man became highly nervous and ran from the house to the rear of the barn. A loaded double-barreled shotgun was leaning against one side of the house, but was passed by Smith, who evidently had determined not to put up a fight, but to end his life as soon as surrounded. When the posse got within a few feet of him, calling for his surrender, and as the four officers were rushing to effect his capture, he placed the revolver against his head and blew out his brains.

THOMAS E. PASTEUR.

Treasurer of Marion County.

Tom Pasteur is a Marion county boy who by his desire and thirst for knowledge, secured a good education, not so much by his attendance at school and what he acquired thereby, though an apt scholar, but by his constant desire to be among the earth's best brains—good books. He was a quiet, studious young man, and in time became one of Marion's best and most accomplished teachers, which occupation he relinquished to enter the mercantile world, conducting a successful business at Eureka for several years, when the many steadfast friends he made in that section during his unassuming relations with them, and who learned to respect his sterling character and attainments, brought him out as a candidate six years ago for county treasurer, and although, in his first canvass, he had two of the most popular men in the county to oppose him, he won by a handsome majority, and made such an efficient and capable official that all opposition has vanished, and at the late primary, when he was a candidate for the fourth term, he had no opponent.

Mr. Pasteur is not only capable and efficient, but is methodical and systematic in all his business relations, writes a very legible hand and keeps as clean and accurate a set of books as can be found in the State.

Mr. Pasteur is the honored son of Mr. George Pasteur of Anthony, one of the substantial and pioneer settlers of his section, and at one time a member of Marion's Board of County Commissioners.

There are few men in Marion who have so completely won the confidence and respect of the people as has the subject of this sketch. In this connection it will not be out of place to refer to his grandfather, who was one of the marked men of his day in Marion, and for whom the "old timers" of the county still have tender recollections. He was a man of kindly, knightly character. We refer to

Thos. J. Pasteur.

Thomas Jefferson Pasteur came to Florida from Fairburn, N. C., in the year 1852.

Located at Silver Springs, which property he bought and upon which he for many years resided. At the same time he purchased and put into cultivation a sugar plantation two miles down the Silver Springs river, and this with the aid of slave labor, he successfully operated down to the close of the Civil War. After the war he moved onto a small farm six miles north of Silver Springs, where he resided until 1887, the year of his death. He was educated at Chapel Hill, N. C., and of his classmates many of them were now among the least conspicuous of the great names of that State.

While in Carolina he had taken an active part in the politics of that State, having alternately served as sheriff and as representative of Craven county, and during President Polk's administration was collector of the port of Portsmouth on Ocracoke Sound. While a lifelong Democrat his only political service in Florida was in his election in 1866, he being one of the two delegates from Marion county whose duties it was to accept and ratify the constitutional amendment necessary for the restoration of the State to its former place in the Union.

Of his family of nine children only three are living. Mrs. Dr. Holmes of Spartanburg, S. C., and two sons, George and John Pasteur, both worthy citizens and residents of this county.
