STRANGE DISHES.

Lion's Flesh, Tiger's Meat and Baked Elephant's Foot.

Lion's flesh is said to furnish a very good meal. Tiger meat is not so palatable, for it is tough and sinewy. In India nevertheless it is esteemed, because there is a superstition that it imparts to the eater some of the strength and cunning that characterizes the animal. This notion is not, of course, held by the followers of Brahma and Buddha, whose religion forbids the eating of flesh.

There appears to be considerable difference of opinion among authorities on the subject as to the merits of elephant's flesh as an article of diet. By some it is considered a dainty, but there is the authority of at least one European against it. Stanley said that he frequently tasted elephant's flesh and that it was more like soft leather and glue than anything else with which he could compare it. Another explorer, however, declares that he cannot imagine how an animal so coarse and heavy as the elephant could produce such delicate and tender flesh. All authorities agree in commending the elephant's foot. Even Stanley admitted that baked elephant's foot was a dish fit for a king. It is the greatest delicacy that can be given to a Kaffir.—St. Louis Republic.

Sincerity.

In life sincerity is the sure touchstone of character. The good and valuable man is he who strives to realize day by day his own sincere conceptions of true manhood. Thousands are struggling to exhibit what some one else admires to reach the popular standard, to be or appear to be respectable and honorable, but few make it their aim to live thoroughly up to their own individual convictions of what is right and good.

Carlyle well says: "At all turns a man who will do faithfully needs to believe firmly. If he have to ask at every turn the world's suffrage, if he cannot dispense with the world's suffrage and make his own suffrage serve, he is a poor eye servant, and the work committed to him will be misdone."

A Historic Golfer.

The following entries in the accounts of James Graham, marquis of Montrose, when he was a student at the University of St. Andrews are quite in Galatstian vein:

"Item: for two golf balls, 10sh.
"Item: my Lord taking me drink in Jhone Gains before he went out and after he came from the golfe, 45sh. 4d.
"Item: to the boy who carried my Lord's clubs to the field, 3sh."
With every allowance for change of tariff, the most completely refreshed glabbs of modern gold dwindle into abstemiousness beside that "ane drink."

MID-WINTER FAIR

With ceremonies of the most elaborate nature, the great Florida Mid-Winter International Exposition, of Jacksonville, Fla., will be opened to the public, Saturday, January 25th, 1908.

The building is now full of very fine exhibits. The grounds have been placed in first-class order. Thirty-five-foot board walks have been laid all over the grounds. All lighting apparatus has been placed, and when the big cannon fires the salute of 21, on the above date, the visitors will find everything in first-class shape. In order that everything might be in readiness the management postponed the opening from the 15th of January to the 25th.

The governor of the state, the governor of Georgia, several congressmen, the mayor of Jacksonville and other prominent people will be present and deliver addresses on the above date.

President Roosevelt will send a telegraphic message of congratulation on the successful opening and this will be received on a special wire in the building.

The exposition will be open daily after the opening day, from 10 a. m. until 11 p. m. and the low admission of 25 cents will be charged.

The exhibits are extensive, comprehensive and costly. The products and resources of Florida will be shown in large space. In addition, there will be a number of national exhibits, including Japanese displays, Swiss government displays, etc. The building in which these exhibits will be houses is known as the Palace of Industry, and costs a considerable amount of money. It is built with a staff front, lighted with acetylene gas and electricity, and the interior will be decorated with bunting, flags, Florida moss and palms.

A special feature of the opening two weeks will be the marvellous Beachey airships, with its magnificent flights and competitive racing. A number of other free acts and attractions have been engaged for the opening also.

The railroads have granted a rate of one first-class fare plus 25 cents for the round trip, with three day's limit, and this will bring people from all over the state to the exposition.

WILL CONTINUE BUSINESS

The Florida Electrical & Plumbing Company has decided to continue their business in Ocala and will be pleased to bid on all work in their line. Persons entrusting business to this company will be assured of prompt service, good work and reasonable prices. Office at the Ocala Music Co's. store.

SHADY

Our little town of Shady did not get very much excited over the wet or dry election. We seem to take things as they come.

Mr. Jones, our merchant, has treated his store building to a coat of white-wash, which is quite an improvement. We are sorry to say that our school term of six months will close next week, when Miss Liddon will return to her home in Ocala. She will be very much missed in our social circles.

Several children in the neighborhood are suffering from the whooping-cough.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith will entertain their friends with a dance Friday evening.

Mr. John Knoblock, of Martin, was a pleasant visitor here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Goin and children and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Goin attended the temperance rally in Ocala last Saturday.

Mr. F. C. Barnes is supplying L. Horne & Co. with some of his fine hay.

Mr. J. H. Martin, of Ocala, was here surveying land for Mr. W. H. Douglas last Thursday.

Shady was well represented at the Culpepper meetings Sunday.

Mrs. A. R. Douglas spent a few days last week with relatives in Ocala.

Mr. Leon Simpson returned last Saturday to his home at Weirsdale, after a week's stay with his sister here.

Mr. James Freeman enjoyed a visit from his relatives of Bellevue Sunday.

Our farmers have finished planting oats and most of them are turning their hands towards preparing corn land. Charles.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Safe Medicine for Children

In buying a cough medicine for children, never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is always sure to follow. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and there is no better medicine in the world for these diseases. It is not only a certain cure for croup, but, when given as soon as the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given as directed. It contains no opium or other harmful drugs, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

HE SAW THE SIGN.

Cause of the Smashup as Told by the Old Darky Driver.

The old darky was suing the railroad company for damages. The man contended that, not being warned by whistle or engine bell, he had started to drive his rig across the company's track when a shunted box car of said company crashed into his outfit, causing the death of the horse, loss of the wagon and minor injuries to himself. After the prosecution had closed its side of the case the company's lawyer called the old darky to the stand and went at him.

"Mr. Lamson," he began, "your rig was struck by the box car in full day light, was it not?"

"I fink dar was some clouds ovahead, suh," answered the caviling witness.

"Never mind the clouds! And only a few days before this accident the railroad company had put a new sign at that crossing?"

"Dar was a sign dar; yaas, suh!"

"And didn't that sign say: 'Stop! Look! Listen?'"

"Now, dar am de whole accusation ub de trouble!" declared the darky, with animation. "If dat 'Stop' sign hadn't caught dis chile's eye jes' s Ah war square on dat track, dar would n't 'a' been no smashup!"—Bohemian

THE DEADLY UNDERTOW.

What to Do When Caught In the Treacherous Currents.

Those deadly undertows which so often prove fatal to swimmers are produced by tides and coast currents. The former only carry out at ebb tide; the latter usually zigzag along the shore.

"If you are a robust swimmer," said a professor of the art, "you can generally overcome them by quick, alert strokes. If, however, you do not at once succeed don't persevere, for this is one of the exceptions to the rule about perseverance. Stop fighting before exhaustion comes and go with the tide or current. By resting a short time, floating or swimming leisurely, you will have time to take your bearings and either make another attempt or call for assistance.

"Sometimes you will find the undertow runs parallel to the shore. You may then let yourself be carried along with the certainty that before long it will twist inshore, when a short spurt will bring you to safety."—Cassell's Journal.

One Way to Judge.

"Do you know," said the head waiter at a fashionable restaurant, "that an experienced waiter can usually tell whether a diner is wealthy or not by the way he handles his meal check? If a man carelessly pitches out his money for the waiter to pay the bill without looking over his check we know the chances are that he isn't wealthy. He is indulging in a luxury and fears he might be ridiculed if he examined the check. On the other hand, the man who has plenty of money examines his check closely, as a rule. If he finds an item which he thinks is wrong he tells the waiter about it. It was probably just such care as that that made him rich. Is he laughed at? Well, I guess not. In fact, the waiters admire him for his carefulness, and the result is they are doubly particular about how he is charged."—New York Press.

Shakespeare and His Plays.

The Shakespeare-Bacon controversy is right where it began many years ago. The man from Stratford is still in possession, though there are many learned men who seriously question his rights. It has not been proved that Bacon wrote the plays or that Shakespeare did not write them. One thing the controversy has done, however—it has immeasurably heightened the mystery of the fact, if it is a fact, that the plays were written by the historical Shakespeare. Between the Shakespeare we know in history and the man who wrote "Lear," "Hamlet" and "Macbeth" there would seem to be an unbridged distance.—New York American.

The Way of New York.

In New York you buy your theater tickets from a speculator for two prices, and after the show you bribe a waiter to bring you food for which you pay the jolly innkeeper two and one-half prices, after which you may be hauled home by a rheumatic horse if you pay the driver once for hauling you home and once for not getting down from his perch and booting you out of the hansom.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Man With Tact.

Casual Caller (to one next him)—I was introduced to that quaint eyed, red haired woman over there as Mrs. Somebody or other. Don't you think the man was an idiot that married her? Next One (meekly)—I can't just say, I'm the man.—Baltimore American.

Not So Rash After All.

"Are you sure the mine is going to pay?" "Well, the manager said he would cut off his right arm if it didn't." "But that doesn't count for much, because the manager has a wooden arm."—New York Mail.

THE MEANEST MAN IN TOWN

Is the one who always wears a frown, is cross and disagreeable, and is short and sharp in his answers. Nine cases out of ten it's not the poor fellow's fault, it's his liver and digestion that make him feel so miserable, he can't help being disagreeable. Are you in danger of getting into the condition? Then start at once taking Ballard's Herbine for your liver—the safe, sure and reliable vegetable regulator. Sold by the Anti-Monopoly Drugstore.
