Commences Saturday, June 20th, 1908, at 8 A. M.

The old adage of "A Confession is good for the Soul," holds good with The Globe.

The Globe confesses to its customers, and to the public, that in buying the entire stock of Gentlemen's Haberdashery of Mr. Seligman we found ourselves overstocked with goods, and as we have crossed the Rubicon, our only chance of succeeding to unload our Stock is by making and to the Shrine of the Mighty Dollar we must bow, and to it sacrifice our large and elegant stock, complete in all its departments. In order to make assurance doubly sure to make this sale a sale to be spoken of and remembered by our customers and patrons, we have entered into this sale with our minds fully made up to Sacrifice Values unheard of before in this city.

To this sale we have put our vast experience and our great tact and talent for the benefit of our customers and the public at large, in order to get hold of the Mighty Dollar.
