AT THE ARMORY THIS EVENING

The armory will have a specially fine program this evening. "The King and the Sward," a high art Viagraph, is something extra, and "The Servant of the Lord" (hand-painted) is an old English story worth taking special pains to see. "Little Busy-body" is a procession of smiles, and "The Wild Man of Borneo" and "The Badger Hunt" are replete with information. This evening will be the last appearance of Larner, the impersonator, and those who haven't seen him shouldn't miss this last chance, for his performance, are really, truly excellent.

There will be no moving pictures Monday night. The program entertainment will be given in the armory, but a fine attraction has been secured for the remainder of the week.

MONTHLY WOODMEN MEETING

The meeting of Fort King Camp at Yonge's hall last night was well attended, some thirty members being present, besides three or four visitors. Messrs. Fred L. Weihe and W. L. McLain were initiated, with the usual ceremonies. Both proved good timber, and it was prophesied they would neither warp nor split.

Three applicants for membership were favorably balloted on and other important business was transacted.

After the business of the evening was attended to the camp enjoyed an oyster supper which, though rather of an impromptu order, was none the less delectable.

The next meeting of the camp will be held Friday evening, Dec. 19, on which occasion officers will be elected for next year.

MARION COUNTY AUTO ASSOCIATION

Editor Star: As agreed at our first meeting our club desires that each owner of an automobile enter his machine in the automobile parade to be held on the county fair grounds. By decorating the machines we should make a brave showing and present one of the most attractive features of the day. If you have no machine, help your neighbor who has one to decorate and join the parade. The fair association expects a large number of visitors on this day, and Marion county must put up a good show for them. Be sure to help. Yours very truly,
George C. Cron.
George T. Maughlin.
