

THE 1911 CADILAC THIRTY

THE BEAUTIFUL NEW MODEL "THIRTY" TOURING OR DEMI-TONNEAU PRICE $1700 WITH STANDARD EQUIPMENT, F. O. B. DETROIT.

If you want to get the best automobile for the price you will pay that has ever been manufactured, get a 1911 Cadillac "Thirty." It is the easiest riding, best looking, most durable automobile on the market for anything like its cost. It is the car that needs no repairs, the despair of the garage man and the joy and pride of its owner. Easiest on up-keep, most economical on fuel and oil, most comfortable riding and the most silent motor of them all. Will run five or 50 miles an hour on high gear. High clearance, elegantly appointed—it is pre-eminently the car.

How is it that the Cadillac will Out Live and Out Wear any other car?

Do you realize that this question is being asked wherever automobiles are sold? Do you realize that the true test of automobile construction is: "How long will this car last?" Do you know that buyers are pointing to the experience of 40,000 Cadillac owners and demanding to know why other cars do not last so long? Do you know they are no longer satisfied with mere speed and "looks," but want the long life of the Cadillac as well? The Cadillac Company began preparing for this public demand the first year of its existence. It insisted then that no car could last more than a butterfly life which was not standardized in every essential part—down to one one-thousandth of an inch, and to even closer limits if need be. It insisted that no such perfect fit and balance could possibly be secured in any assembled car. It insisted that nothing short of the enormous expenditure for special machinery represented in the Cadillac plant could build a car, which, like the Cadillac, would keep going year in and year out. The Cadillac Company proved that this was true by building 40,000 cars, not one of which has ever gone out of commission; and it is proving it again by building a 4-cylinder car which has no equal in the world for endurance, long life and low cost of up-keep. All these points which are vital to you as a possible buyer we can only hint at here. But mark our words—the day of the one-season car has gone, and the day of the long-lived, economical car has come with the Cadillac.

If you want to get a car that will last you for years, ask for a demonstration

Agricultural and Live Stock Exhibits Show What Can Be Done in Florida (Gainesville Sun)

Friday closed the Marion County Fair at Ocala after a successful week. The Marion County Fair Association, having determined to make the agricultural exhibits the main attraction, succeeded to a remarkable degree.

In the live stock department several breeds of hogs, dairy cattle and beef cattle were represented, all of which came from Marion county or very close to its borders.

On Tuesday, the opening day, the exhibitors were busy, preparing for competition in the respective classes. The association had made ample provision as to space for the animals, even more so than was actually needed to exhibit the animals to the best advantage. Some improvement in this line might be made, that every visitor to the fair might see the animals individually, thereby making a fair comparison in their own mind leading to instruction of the proper kind as to higher ideals and better quality of stock that can be grown in Florida. The entries were not large, but the quality was good.

A Good Hog Exhibit

J. M. Scott, of the Florida Experiment Station, judged the hogs. It was gratifying to see four of the principal breeds represented. The Berkshires were the strongest class, and in it were some splendid individuals. Some splendid thick-fleshed, true-to-type animals of all ages were there for competition. In a few classes the exhibits were such that it required considerable thought and close observation to place the awards. The Dutch-Jersey, while only a few in number, were also excellent in quality. This breed of hogs is rapidly becoming popular in the South. The Poland China hogs were as good specimens as could be found at many of our Western shows. The Belted Hampshire, sometimes called Thin Rind hog, so seldom found in the South, was represented by some excellent specimens.

The Dairy Exhibit

Prof. R. D. Maltby of the University of Florida, judged the dairy breeds, and found considerable difficulty in placing the awards in the Jersey heifer class. Mr. J. B. Simonton and Mr. G. K. Robinson were strong competitors for the best awards. These herds, grown and developed in Florida, prove conclusively that Florida can grow her own dairy cattle equal in quality to those raised in the dairy states of the North.

Beef Cattle Exhibit

Prof. Scott also judged the beef cattle. The herds of Shorthorns and one herd of Angus, constituted the exhibit. While these animals were only in field condition, and not fitted for show purposes, they indicated a good deal of quality. The foundation stock of these animals was purchased outside of Florida, but the young animals developed right here in the state showed no lack of vitality or reduced quality. The adaptability of the Aberdeen Angus to Florida conditions was in evidence with the herd exhibited. This breed of cattle, so favorable for baby feed production, whose native home is in a cold country, can be reared and developed successfully on the forage crops that grow in Florida.

Some Good Mules

Three exhibits of mules, numbering in total 17 head, are worthy of special mention. Yearlings, weighing from 850 to 400 pounds, two-year-olds, 800 to 1000 pounds, and draft mules from 1200 to 1400 pounds, indicates to us that Florida farms can raise mules so much needed on the Southern farms and in the cities. Considerable quality may be emphasized in this exhibit. Prof. A. P. Spencer placed the awards in these classes. The draft mule, with good bone, showed evidence of good breeding, is the kind most needed in Florida, and are those for which large prices are paid in the Northern states, then shipped here for use.

The Corn Show

Prof. Rolfe judged the corn. His report is especially gratifying. Some of the best corn shown in the state this year was found in this exhibit. Owing to continued rains during the ripening season it was with a great deal of difficulty that collective exhibits could be secured absolutely free from mold. In view of this fact, Marion county can boast of her soils as to the production of corn.

Mr. C. K. McQuarrie judged forage and vegetable crops. About his only complaint was with the order of arrangement. Exhibits under one class should be carefully marked and placed together. It not only facilitates the judging, but adds a great deal to the appearance of the educational feature of the fair.

University Extension Division

The University of Florida was represented not only by the judges from the various departments, but with the Farmers' Institute equipment of enlarged charts, giving information on fertility, forage crops, feeds, dairy cattle, beef cattle, hogs, poultry and plant diseases. The fair authorities placed this exhibit in the woman's rest room. No Farmers' Institute lectures were given, and although visitors to fairs seldom attend to discuss such matters, these charts and photographs were in constant use by those seeking the proper information on the various crops and methods of harvesting suited to Florida. Many new comers availed themselves of this splendid opportunity to see what the university is doing to put farming on a better basis. The work of the Farmers' Institute staff to bring the results of the investigations conducted in the Florida Experiment Station right to the farmer at his home. Already about forty institutes have been held since July 1st, with a total attendance of over 5000. The plan is to emphasize the greatest needs and to make the work most effective in every particular. The University of Florida is anxious and ready to promote the best interests of the farmer whenever occasion offers itself. The officials stand in readiness to offer suggestions or answers in regard to Florida as an agricultural state, and its future prosperity depends on the advancement of its agricultural interests.

A WIDE-AWAKE BLIND TIGER

Worked on the Sympathies of a Georgia Grand Jury

Valdosta, Ga., Nov. 29.—About the smoothest blind tiger that has been created in this section of the state in a long time was hauled up before the grand jury yesterday to tell all he knew about the business, "without incriminating himself." This particular tiger is one whom, it is said, some time ago made claims on the express company for whisky that was lost in transit. He wanted $1.50 a quart. The express agent is said to have told him that it was not worth that much, and he is said to have remarked that it was worth that much to him because "he got that for it." Yesterday this same tiger confessed his sins before the grand jury and went as far as to read them a chapter from the Bible of where Christ was confronted with the sinful woman, whom he dismissed with the injunction to "go in peace and sin no more." This Valdosta tiger applied these things to himself. Then he went on to tell how hard he had worked to make an honest living to support his wife and children and that what whisky he had sold was purely to raise money for an honest purpose and in order to avoid begging for a living.

The man's physical condition, as well as his sincerity evidently appealed to the members of the grand jury, for they refused to find a true bill against him, and instead of that they took a collection and gave him about $15 in money.

It was the most complete triumph that has yet been registered by a tiger of the blind variety of this community.
