Teutons and Bulgars Taking Serbian Towns

FRENCH AND GERMANS CLAIM VICTORIES ON WEST AND EAST FRONTS

(Associated Press)

London, Nov. 6.—Field Marshal Kitchener has been "entrusted with an important mission to the near east," the Evening Post asserts, and has already departed. Whether he is bound for the Balkans, the Dardanelles or elsewhere isn't made clear.

TAKING SERBIAN TOWNS

Nish has been captured by the Bulgarians. The city fell after three days' fighting, says a Berlin official report. It was the capital of Serbia for most of the war. The Teutonic armies are crowding down on the Serbians from the north, having taken Varvarin. Kraljeve, where the Serbians were desperately resisting the Teutons, has also fallen. Three thousand prisoners were taken in the fall of Varvarin and several hundred at Nish.

FRENCH AND GERMANS CLAIM VICTORIES

The French report a German attack at Lacourtnie repulsed. The Germans claim they have won a further victory over the Russians along the Stripa in Galicia, the Russians being thrown back on the east bank of the river. Six thousand prisoners are reported to have been taken.

UNCERTAINTY ABOUT WHAT GREECE WILL DO

The Greek cabinet situation is still unsettled. The king is reported to have prevailed on Zaimas to retain the premiership, although Paris says his resignation has been accepted. It is possible the reported acceptance of the cabinet's resignation is preliminary to a reconstruction of the cabinet under Zaimas.

DETAILS OF THE PLAN FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

GIVEN THE PUBLIC IN FULL BY SEC'Y GARRISON

IT WILL REQUIRE PATRIOTIC ASSISTANCE FROM THE PEOPLE TO SUCCESSFULLY CARRY IT OUT

(Associated Press)

Washington, Nov. 6.—An outline of the army's part in the national defense program to be submitted to Congress in December by the administration was made public last night by Secretary Garrison disclosing officially for the first time details of the plan to raise a great continental or citizen army to supplement the regular establishment.

In brief, it is proposed to increase the regular army from 108,008 to 141,843 officers and men (changing the term of enlistment from four years with the colors and three years on furlough to two years with the colors and four years on furlough); to organize a federal citizen army of 400,000 (to be enlisted 133,000 a year for three years); to strengthen the state militia by increased appropriations and closer co-operation; and to spend $20,000,000 a year for four years on coast defenses and $26,000,000 a year for four years in the accumulation of reserve material for use by a force of 500,000 men.

Mr. Garrison says that the framers of the new policy are fully conscious of the possibility of formulating military policies much better in theory, but that "after concentrated consideration of existing legal and other conditions they think it will be found that almost insuperable objections and difficulties arise in carrying into practical operation suggestions that from the military standpoint might otherwise be very acceptable.

The statement reveals that in the preparation of their plans, war department officials have called into consultation specialists in various lines of private industry.

"It has been proposed," it says, "to make available in time of need the services of those in certain kinds of employment requiring special knowledge and skill, such as railroad men, bridge builders, engineers of all descriptions, etc., and leading men in these lines and professions have been collaborating with the war department in an endeavor to formulate, by legislation or administrative action, an acceptable and useful plan with respect thereto.

"In this connection, and because of the patriotic spirit thus displayed it seems desirable to say that if those who are the employers of the young men of the country cannot by reason of age or situation in life, give their personal service, they can do that which will be equally useful by encouraging in every way the participation of those in their employ in the plan of national defense. If they would so arrange their business that a certain proportion of those whom they engage could undertake this national service without sacrificing their personal interests, those who did this thing would be acting in the most public-spirited and patriotic manner possible."

The citizen army would be recruited throughout the entire country and organized in geographical divisions. Its members, though enlisted for six-year terms, would be required to report for intensive training only for short periods each year for three years and during the remaining three years would be furloughed subject to call to the colors in time of war. In addition to officers who may be developed in the course of its operation, Mr. Garrison proposed to draw officers for this force from men who have served in the national guard or the regular army or who have been trained in private military schools. Individuals or organizations in the existing national guard free to do so would be permitted to come into the citizen army without change of rank.

For the next fiscal year, when it is proposed to put this new policy into operation, Congress will be asked to appropriate $182,717,036; the second year the amount will be $212,815,879; the third year $228,315,879, and annually thereafter if the policy were continued without change the army budget would be $182,234,559.

The additions to the regular army contemplated are ten regiments of infantry, four regiments of field artillery, fifty-two companies of coast artillery, fifteen companies of engineers and four aero squadrons, to be brought in half next year and half the following year.

This plan when completed would place in the Panama canal zone, Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, and Alaska, 1,453 officers and 47,456 enlisted men. In the continental United States, there would be in the regular establishment 2,956 officers and 66,968 men including eleven and two-thirds regiments of cavalry, twenty-six and two-thirds regiments of infantry, seven regiments of field artillery, 170 companies of coast artillery and about four thousand officers and men in engineer and signal corps.

SOME UNPLEASANT TRUTHS FOR GERMANY IN WILSON'S SPEECH

(Associated Press)

Berlin, Nov. 6.—The Morgen Post attacks President Wilson sharply for the remarks in his New York speech Thursday night before the Manhattan Club regarding persons in the United States who are partisans of other causes than that of America. The Post declares Wilson met a moral defeat in the elections held in different states Tuesday and his speech was in retaliation. This punishment is obviously directed against German-Americans.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST

The Temple program of this afternoon and evening is of special interest to the ladies, as the Pathe News reel will show the latest steps in the newest dances, and the latest styles in evening wraps. Fashion plates cannot equal the moving picture film, taken from living subjects, in giving the styles.

Besides the Pathe News will be "The King of the Wire," a three-reel Edison drama; also Ham and Bud, in one of their funny stunts.

London, Nov. 6.—A semi-official statement issued at Bucharest and received from Berlin by wireless says the Rumanian authorities have taken steps to bring into Rumanian harbors and disarm all vessels flying the Russian flag, loaded with munitions for Serbia. A PECULIAR PLANT

Mr. Claude McCully, the 18-year-old son of Mr. Jack McCully of Berlin, came into the Star office today with one of the most peculiar leaves and blossoms that we have ever seen. He called the plant that they came off a rice plant, but nothing could look less like rice than either the leaves or bloom. The leaves are three feet across, and have so many pleats or gathers in them that they would make a surface almost as large again if they could be spread out. The bloom is something like a miniature century plant's bloom, about three feet long, a cross between an artichoke and a night blooming cerise. Mr. McCully said the plant was over six feet high and was a year and a half old.

Mr. S. N. Igou left this morning through the country for Gainesville to remain until after the Alachua fair, taking "Watermelon," his fine race horse, to enter in the races. Going up today by rail were two horses of Mr. Pedrick, one of Mr. Malcolm Williams' and one of Mr. Fausett. All are booked for the races.
