The Saxon Tonic and Nervine is a Royal invigorating tonic, a soothing and strengthening nerve, a perfectly legitimate medicine, purely vegetable, harmless, compounded and carefully adapted to women's needs. This medicine is not a cure-all chronic diseases of the sexual system of women. Saxon Medicine Co., room 9 Guth block, Akron, O.

SOME WOMEN DOUBT
Many women think the bearing of children is a necessary period of great pain and distress. They doubt whether any medicine can relieve their sufferings. Well may they hesitate about taking those injurious internal mixtures so widely sold. But they may place implicit faith in MOTHER'S FRIEND which is a softening, relaxing and soothing liniment for external use. Doubling women should get a bottle at the drug store for $1, and test it. There is no possibility of its doing harm, and there is every likelihood of its saving them many hours of pain.

WINE OF CARDUI

Something Unusual.

I have been afflicted for years with female trouble and a pain in my left side. My home doctors could not help me, so I went to Springfield for treatment. The physician said I had enlargement and ulceration of the womb. I got so weak and poorly the doctor told me I had better go home. He advised me to get some Wine of Cardui to take at home. I bought two bottles, and am surprised at the result. It helped me more than anything I ever took and I am up doing my household work.

[Special Correspondence.]
SEATTLE, Wash., May 24.—The attention of the ever alert and watchful mining prospector is now directed toward the lately discovered western Washington copper belt, about 50 miles northwest of this city. The principal lode thus far discovered is near Index, on the Sultan river, in Snohomish county. The ore averages 35 per cent copper, and besides being remarkably rich it is believed that the deposits will be found to be extensive when the field has been more definitely defined. While a considerable quantity of ore has been taken out, enough at least to demonstrate the richness of the find, the district is in its infancy. A number of smelters have been erected, though the work of reducing the ore has not progressed far. The Index district is on the line of the Great Northern railroad, and a score of productive mines could be made shippers in a few months.

How the Animals Managed to Get Admitted to the Show.

THE POOR SALESMAN.
The shelves of nearly every dry goods store in the city are rolls of goods which have been hauled off the shelves from one to a dozen times a day to be exhibited to possible purchasers. The exacting shoppers have become firmly convinced that such exhibitions of the open ends of rolls cause them to become sheepish. The result is they ask the clerk to cut their order from the inside roll. This means the unrolling of the entire roll for a possible three-quarter yard purchase, but it has to be done.

THE POOR SALESMAN.
A fashionably dressed woman stepped into one of the Nicollet avenue stores the other day and asked to be shown some gingham. On the shelves was a brand new stock of gingham which had just the night before been taken from the boxes in which they were shipped from the factory. They hadn't been shown to any one except possibly the buyers down east, and then these particular pieces had not been exhibited. Bolt after bolt was shown to the shopper, and finally she picked upon a particularly nice new piece of pink gingham at 20 cents a yard.

THE POOR SALESMAN.
"It looks like a little sheepskin," she remarked as she began to fumble with her purse catch.

THE POOR SALESMAN.
"It can't be," replied the obliging clerk. "It just last night came out of the box from which it came from the factory."

THE POOR SALESMAN.
The clerk grinned inwardly, but proceeded to unroll the 30 or 40 yards of gingham.

THE POOR SALESMAN.
"How much?" he asked as he took his scissors from his vest pocket.

THE POOR SALESMAN.
"His scissors snapped viciously as they clipped off the goods, and the tone in which he called the cashboy was not of the gentlest, but the shopper, at least, was satisfied.—Minneapolis Journal.

An odd contrivance is used in China to protect the carrier pigeons from the attacks of birds of prey. Tiny bamboo tubes are fastened under their wings, and as they fly the air passing whistly through the tubes makes a shrill whistle, which serves to frighten off the other birds.

The spoolbill is probably the largest fish that swims the Ohio river. He is anywhere from a foot long to six feet, but also half of him is bill. The bill is spoon shaped, but is a single one. The lower lip is short, the bill being used much like a spade. The spoolbill has no scales, but is covered with a tough hide. Altogether he is an uncanny object and far from a delicacy in appearance. He is also called by some "spoolnose cat."

THE POOR SALESMAN.
Every spring spoolbills in schools visit the falls of the Ohio. It is a tradition that they come up all the way from the gulf of Mexico every spring to spawn at the falls, but more credit is given the theory that they live scattered in the river right along and only congregate in the spawning season.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The importance of the Western Washington mines is shown in the fact that the great copper kings are anxious to secure holdings here. Both Marcus Daly and Senator Elect W. A. Clarke, the rival Montana millionaires and their agents have been scouring the district for desirable claims. The rival investors have clashed several times, and as a result the miners have raised the prices on their properties, though a number of valuable mines have been picked up by Clarke and
