HYDRAULIC FILTER.

Pure Water Used by E. J. Alderfer For Soda Fountain, Baking and Drinking Purposes.

Owing to the extremely warm and sultry condition of the weather during the past few days the soda fountain throughout the city have been sizzling and fizzing busily. A popular place at which cool, delightful and refreshing drinks are dispensed under an entirely new system is at E. J. Alderfer's confectionary and catering establishment, 160 Main st.

About three months ago, Mr. Alderfer secured from Crandall & Godley, New York, at a cost of $400, an hydraulic filter and soda water charging apparatus. This is the only device of the kind in operation in the State. It is giving excellent satisfaction, and not only produces a superb quality of soda with phosphates and fruit juices, but also filters and purifies all the water used in the restaurant. There is nothing finer than a glass of soda drawn from this fountain. During its use Mr. Alderfer's business has increased about one-third and is still growing.

The hydraulic filter, in fact, the whole apparatus is a fine combination of technical mechanism. The drinks produced by it are purer and more delicious than those produced by the fountain.

The Alderfer establishment is also headquarters for the famous Verner ginger ale. There is no pepper in the drink to burn the throat—only the purest ginger.

Mr. Alderfer uses nothing but rock candy syrup and fruit juices in the dispensing of soda water.

EMBRACED

Opportunity of Winning His Heart's Choice.

Wooster Youth and His Only Own Will Soon Wed.

Pretty, vivacious and loving, it seems that nature really intended Wooster girls should have lovers. One of these counterparts of Venus was at Akron Thursday afternoon. So also was her lover. He preceded her here—and at the local recruiting office the two were actor and actress in a little performance that had in it both pathos and comedy.

The first scene was the young man's entering the office hastily, making application for enlistment, preparing for examination, vociferously declaring his attention of decreasing the Philippine population, all the while displaying good humor, being jolly and glad that he was going to war.

Scene two was different. A young lady entered. She was sorrowful and ever and anon wept into a dainty little handkerchief. At once she grasped the situation and also the young man by the neck. Taking him aside she talked tenderly to him, also expostulating a great deal. Finally she kissed him, next she embraced him—a victory was won, and it was hers.

Then the reunited young couple bade adieu to Officer Turner, and as they sauntered leisurely up Market street the sun really blushed as it smiled bashfully at their happiness. But they cared not; they saw no one. The lovers' quarrel was settled, and as the young man occasionally winked a cunning little wink, it was quite evident that his play was a neat little game of bluff, and by it he had triumphed over the coquetry of his sweetheart.

Some day in this month of roses, wedding bells will ring joyously at Wooster, and the little episode of Thursday afternoon will no doubt be soon forgotten in the happiness that'll follow.

Only one remedy in the world that will at once stop itchiness of the skin in any part of the body; Doan's Ointment. At any drug store, 50c.
