HILL-KIRK.

Two Young People Married a Month Ago.

Matter Has Been Kept a Secret—Will Live in Canada.
Saturday, May 29, five weeks ago today, Miss Grace Gertrude Kirk, of 556 West Market st., and Mr. Chas. R. Hill, corner of Crozier and Miami sts., were secretly united in marriage. Both held positions at the Boston store, Mr. Hill being a window trimmer and Miss Kirk, a clerk.
No record of a license could be found at the Probate office, neither were the bans of marriage read in St. Vincent de Paul's church. Judge Anderson and three others were the only ones that knew positively of the affair. Miss Kirk was a neighbor of Judge Anderson's and knew him quite well. The license was procured on May 17 and the Judge kept it to himself, not even letting the employees in the office know of it. On the following Saturday at noon the pair were united as husband and wife.

Monday, June 12, Mr. Hill left for Montreal, Canada, where he has a position with E. Lepage & Co. The Thursday following Mrs. Hill resigned her position.
Mr. and Mrs. Hill are very popular and scores of friends wish them success and happiness, only regretting that they will not make their home here. Montreal, Canada, at 145 St. Dennis st., will be their home. Mrs. Hill will leave next Thursday for Montreal.

CLERKS' OUTING.

Employees of B. L. Dodge Enjoyed Themselves Friday Evening.
The employees of B. L. Dodge's furniture store, 124 and 126 South Howard st., are voting their employer the best man in the city. Friday evening Mr. Dodge tendered his clerks and their wives an outing to Silver Lake park. About 20 persons were in the party. The journey to and from the lake was made in a special car. The party left the city at 5:30 and returned at 11.
An elaborate banquet was served from 7 to 8:20. Following these were such amusements as boating, bathing, dancing and singing. The clerks are very grateful to Mr. Dodge for his kind consideration of their pleasure, and are profuse in their thanks to him.

He Sent the Pork.
Professor Comstock of Cornell in speaking to his class on the trials of scientists told this authentic tale of the experience of a professor of invertebrate zoology in a sister institution, which had better be left nameless.
Trichina in pork, the cause of the frightful disease trichinosis in human consumers, give a peculiar appearance to meat, which is studded with little cysts. It is then known to the trade as "measly pork." The learned scientist, wishing some for study, went to the butcher and asked if he ever got any measly pork.
"Sometimes," said the butcher cautiously, "but I always throw it away."
"Well," said the professor, "the next time you have any I wish you'd send me up some," meaning, of course, to his laboratory.
The butcher stared at him, but said he would. Three weeks passed when the professor, growing impatient, again dropped in.
"Haven't you found any measly pork yet?"
"Why, yes," said the butcher. "I sent up two pounds a week ago."
A sickly grin broke over the professor's face.
"Where did you send it?" said he.
"Why, to your house, of course," said the butcher.—Kansas City Times.

Jerry's Version of It.
A prominent Detroit woman with a great interest in juvenile mission work has this excellent anecdote to tell:
One of her classes in a certain mission is composed of little street children to the number of 20 or more whose ages range from 3 to 6. Most of the scholars are boys, though now and then one notices the pinched face of a little daughter of poverty in the ranks.
The other day the lesson was on the peculiarities of English. Words that are pronounced alike and spelled differently but spelled alike were discussed at length. She explained the difference between lead the metal and lead the verb, and the children grasped the point instantly. Then she took the two words "week" and "weak." She explained the difference in the meaning and use of the two, and then called up a little fellow, aged 5, to use the word "week" in a phrase. The little fellow thought a moment, then answered, "A weak old woman." The teacher nodded her approval, and smiled into the eyes upturned to hers.
"Now, Jerry Ryan," she said, turning to another little boy, "you take the word 'week' and use it in a phrase."
Jerry thought a minute, and then, be, too, replied, "A week old baby."—Detroit Free Press.

His Final Request.
A Scotch farmer, celebrated in his neighborhood for his immense strength and skill in athletic exercises, very frequently had the pleasure of contending with people who came to try their strength against him. Lord D., a great pugilistic amateur, went from London on purpose to fight the athletic Scot. The latter was working in an inclosure at a little distance from his house when the noble lord arrived. His lordship tied his horse to a tree and addressed the farmer. "Friend, I have heard marvelous reports of your skill and have come a long way to see which of us two is the better wrestler."
The Scotchman, without answering, seized the nobleman, pitched him over the hedge and then set about working again. When Lord D. got up, "Well," said the farmer, "have you anything to say to me?"
"No," replied his lordship, "but perhaps you'd be good enough to throw me my horse."—Public Opinion.

Pooled the Passengers.
A man sitting in an electric car the other day pulled out of his pocket his handkerchief, when out sprang what seemed to be a snake. It wriggled and jumped around on the floor at a great rate. The ladies screamed and huddled together, the men made for it, and one stamped his foot on it, but upon examination it proved to be a copper round bass piano wire, which the man with the handkerchief had coiled up in his pocket and, having become uncoiled, jumped to the floor. How the women looked daggers at him after they became quieted down was a caution. He soon got off, we presume to put it in the piano that needed it, not because of the looks of the women.—Salem Gazette.

The First Thought.
"That Italian author travels with 14 trunks."
"Fourteen trunks? Well, I'd be ashamed to make such an expose of my unaccepted manuscripts."—Chicago Record.

An Old Jest Revamped.
Mrs. Styles—Do you suppose that bird on your bonnet ever whistled?
Mrs. Fussanfeather—Well, I know I heard something whistle when it came home with the bill.—Yonkers Statesman.
