The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. HENRY & Co., Toledo, O. A Mother Tells How She Saved Her Little Daughter's Life.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines. Last summer my little daughter had the dysentery in its worst form. We thought she would die. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good. I saw by an advertisement in our paper that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was highly recommended and sent and got a bottle at once. It proved to be one of the very best medicines we ever had in the house. I saved my little daughter's life. I am anxious for every mother to know what an excellent medicine it is. I have had a great deal of anxiety and worry from my little daughter much suffering. Yours truly, Mrs. Geo. F. Burdick, Liberty, R. I. For sale by all druggists. E. LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 34,757

"I am so grateful to you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me that I feel as though I must tell about it. A year ago I was taken very sick. Doctors could do me no good only to deaden the pain which I had almost constantly. I got some of your Compound and took one bottle and received benefit from it at once. I have taken it ever since and now have no backache, no pain in my side and my stomach and bowels are perfectly well. I can honestly say that there is nothing like it. If I could only tell every woman how much good your medicine has done for me, they would surely try it."—MARTHA M. KING, NORTH ATTLEBORO, MASS.

The way women trifle with health shows a degree of indifference that is unwarranted. Happiness and usefulness depend on physical health, so does a good disposition. Disease makes women nervous, irritable and snappish. The very effort of ailing women to be good-natured makes them nervous. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, she will help you to health and happiness. It costs nothing to get Mrs. Pinkham's advice. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

SECRET SOCIETIES

UNITED WORKMEN.

Supreme Master Workmen of the Order—Workshop Cleanings.

The reports of the supreme officers at the last session of the supreme lodge indicate that the order is in fine condition and rapidly moving on to the 400,000 mark. The years 1896 and 1897 were hard on all fraternal orders, and the A. O. U. W. suffered with the rest. But last year changed the complexion of affairs, and most of the grand jurisdictions show substantial gains.

Mr. J. C. Bickford, of Manchester, N. H., who was advanced to the high rank of supreme master workman, takes up the reins of office under the most favorable conditions, and it is safe to predict that when he lays them down neither his successor nor the order at large will have cause to regret his year of administration.

The first relief call has been made, and it is believed that one call will suffice, as the recent war fund of $300,000 has been turned into the general relief fund, from which all soldier claims will be paid.

Reports from the lodges throughout the state show that the order in Kentucky is prosperous.

In the future all claims of persons who disappear must be filed within two years of the date of their disappearance, and will be allowed only after a seven years' absence.

The supreme lodge has decided to enlarge the limit of the beneficiary department in order to include an affianced wife. Hereafter only the relatives have been accepted as beneficiaries.

It is said that since the classified rate was adopted three years ago the relief fund has saved $1,000,000.

Only eight assessments for the first year in Kansas under the classified plan.

RED MEN.

Live Up to the Teachings of the Order—Along the Trail.

From the time a member enters the ranks of a warrior or tope he or she is taught to obey the rules of true friendship, and while none are bound by a sacred tie kneeling at an altar or with open hands placed upon the sacred word of the Great Spirit, yet every member takes upon himself or herself a sacred pledge of honor to stand by a member of the order and to keep his secrets and to defend his name. All of us who have stood before the prophet or prophetess would carry out the sentiments of the obligation or pledge of honor they have taken, what a happy family the Improved Order of Red Men would be!

The Red Men of Indianapolis are considering the giving of a joint open air demonstration and entertainment, to run several days, some time this summer or during the state fair week in September.

Hiawatha bids to become one of the best in town.

Redmanship is growing in the Delaware reservation. Another new tribe has been instituted at Wilmington.

At a recent session the grand council of Missouri conferred the honor of past grand upon a brother for "meritorious services," and we are wondering where they found the law which permitted this act, says the Indianapolis Bulletin.

ODD FELLOWS.

Tennessee Lodge Meets in a Cave.

The lodgroom of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at Gap Run, Tenn., is a natural cave. It is distinctively unique. The entrance to the cave is sufficient to admit a man of ordinary size to walk in without bending. The lodge room is 39.5 feet high, 57.4 feet long and 20 feet high. Seats are arranged on either side. The lodgroom will seat 200 or more. The members take service or entertainment. Dr. H. H. Jones whose place the cave is located, has given the lodge a 99 year lease on the cave. In winter there is no need of fire in the lodgroom; in summer it is remarkably cool at all times.

Every lodge having enthusiastic and willing workers is like the dealer in honey—on a bee line to prosperity.

The regular annual convention of the sovereign grand lodge, which is the governing body of the Odd Fellows, will be held in Detroit, Sept. 18, remaining in session for one week.

All officers immediately after installation should be able to take their respective parts in opening and closing the meeting without referring to the book.

Are you an Odd Fellow simply for the sick benefits you may get out of it, or do you believe that its mission is to bring men together as brothers?

A cow and a calf were presented to the Odd Fellows' home in Illinois, and the milk sold at a fair for 25 cents a gallon. The name given the cow was "Danville" and the calf "Danville, Jr."

See that the candidates have good health as well as good character.

No sick benefits are paid for the fractional part of a week.

A dropped member is not entitled to burial as an Odd Fellow nor to any of the honors of the order.

The management of the Ohio homes, by action of the recent grand lodge, was placed under the control of the grand lodge trustees.

The grand encampment of Virginia at its recent session elected Manly B. Prynnon of Orange home grounds. The sum set aside for the purpose approximates $4,000. The cottage will be designed as a hospital for the home.

It is evident that the present method of securing a working knowledge of the ritual is so inconvenient and difficult that a very small proportion of the membership ever gets more of a knowledge of it than can be gained by hearing it repeated as used in the actual work.

Knights of Zion.

The Knights of Zion, whose object is to promote fellowship among the distressed worthy brother members and to inculcate a love for the Jewish faith, has been formed in Albany.

It Was Love.

"It was a marriage for love, I suppose."

"I suppose so. Love has been described as an inexplicable yearning, hasn't it?"

"I believe so."

"Then it was love all right, though. She yearned for a life."—Chicago Post.

A Romance of Fifty Years Ago.

By Triskery. He Got a Wife and Lost a Century Later Got His Deserts.

"It was in the year 1830" said the old settler who came to Cleveland. I became acquainted with a widow who kept a few boarders on what is now known as Euclid avenue.

"My landlady had two daughters, both lively, intelligent and possessed of graces that only come from association with the better class of society. They were of extremely gay disposition, and I had not been at the house a month before I was hopelessly in love with Fanny, the elder, and though at times her manner toward me was tender and encouraging she carefully avoided giving me an opportunity to be alone with her long enough to declare my passion.

"The winter had nearly passed, without finding me any further advanced in my suit, until one night in February, after a heavy fall of snow, I asked Fanny to take a sleigh ride with me to which she consented, and after tea I pronounced as high stepping a pair of horses as could be found in the city, drove up to the house of my affinity, and in a few minutes we were whirling away out on the Cleveland and Medina turnpike.

"The night was just cool enough to make it necessary to place my arm around my companion, the horses were frisky, and the moon shone with that peculiar light which is preferred by lovers to all others, unless it be that of a parlor lamp turned down so low that it is an illumination it is nearly useless.

"Through Brooklyn township we whirled out into the country, where the lights from the farmhouses became more scattered, and the buying of a watchdog was the only sound heard. Fanny, who had previously sung, laughed and chatted merrily on our ride, now became quiet.

"As we came to a rise in the road that disclosed a level strip of two or three miles in length before us, I said to my companion, 'Before we have traveled the road now in view I will settle my fate and go home a happier or more miserable man.'

"Hardly had I come to this conclusion when I heard a peculiar pushing sound behind us, and looking around, could see a flock of sheep coming at full speed toward us, and behind them were two or three dogs, which accounted for the fright of the sheep, which were running full run for miles before stopping and cause their owner much trouble in hunting them up. But a bright thought came to me. Fanny was a city girl and had never seen a sheep save in the shape of cutlets or roast at her mother's table. I would indulge in a strategy of the kind which is considered fair in love or war.

Lowering my voice to the note of the stage gibberish where he speaks of the death of his parents, wife and friends, I said: 'Fanny, my girl, are you brave? Can you bear terrible news?'

"Why, Henry, what is the matter? What makes you so pale?'

"I am, my dear, I replied: 'Be firm, dearest, rely on me. We are followed by wolves. Look behind you, and you can see the monsters, who are already thirsting for our blood.'

"She gave a hurried glance backward, heard the rushing sound of many feet, the deep breathing, which when heard in the forests of the north, cause the wildest dismay, then, drawing nearer to me, said, 'I did not think there were any wolves so near the city, Henry.' 'Neither did I think there were any,' I replied, 'but it seems we were mistaken, for the monster behind us are of the gray species and most dangerous of any to meet. Driven by hunger, they have approached the settlement, and unless our horses can go to the stone tavern in Parma before we are overtaken we are lost.'

"At this juncture the old wild horned leader, tired and out of wind from the long run, gave vent to a prolonged bleat which was fearful enough to scare a girl less timid than Fanny. I sawed on the horses' bits, flourished my whip frantically around them until they were excited and apparently doing their best to escape the fate behind them, but I was secretly holding them back to allow the wolves to get closer. On came the bloody hordes, panting for breath, nearer and nearer, until I began to throw out robes and blankets. 'These will keep them chewing a few minutes,' I said, 'and we may escape.' But the sheep had no appetite for the robes and were close behind us.

"I arose in the sleigh, gave the reins to Fanny, saying: 'Drive for your life! I will sacrifice myself for you!' and made a movement as if to jump out of the sleigh. 'Never, never!' she screamed. 'We will die together! And she put me down beside her to await her fate. While thus employed I succeeded in obtaining a hasty avowal of Fanny; at the same time I was holding back the horses which let the pursuers go by. They caught the monsters separated and passed us on the other side, while I held my hat over her face that she might not see the dreadful deception I had played upon her.

"She fainted the moment we were overtaken by the wolves, and without trying to revive her, I turned the horses homeward and only stopped to pick up the robes which had been thrown out to check the ferocious animals. After driving to my home, I never saw Fanny again.

Knights of Pythias.

The law is specifically that no thing shall be nothing taken from or nothing added to the ritualistic work of the order, that it shall be preserved from innovation and change, and yet there are hundreds of lodges which violate this law at the conferring of every rank.

In Ohio the law has been so amended that hereafter one black ball will reject instead of two.

Highland lodge of Cincinnati has done much to build fellowship among the Pythian Order home grounds. The sum set aside for the purpose approximates $4,000. The cottage will be designed as a hospital for the home.
