Takes a High Place.

Stands Well in the Estimation of the People.

Attention is Naturally Excited When Anything is Praised by People Whom We Know.

A thing that stands high in the estimation of the public, and which is especially recommended by Ohio people naturally excites our attention more than if our own people did not praise the article. Such a thing is going on right here in this State every day, people are praising Morrow's Kid-ne-oids because they cure. There is no deception, no humbug, they do positively cure, and we furnish the evidence.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Remby, 534 Short street, Cambridge, Ohio, says: "Our four-year-old son was troubled with weak kidneys all his life, and we were never able to get anything that would cure him until we heard about Morrow's Kid-ne-oids, and they have completely cured him of his trouble. Mr. Remby was also cured of kidney disorder by the use of Morrow's Kid-ne-oids in a very short time."

Morrow's Kid-ne-oids are not pills, but yellow tablets and sell at 50 cents, a box at all drug stores and at John Lamparter & Co.'s drug store, 1000 Broadway, New York. Manufactured by John Morrow & Co., chemists, Springfield, O.

It was impossible, according to M. Cavaigne, to credit that Esterhazy was a traitor, even admitting the bordereau written by him. Esterhazy, he insisted, could only have acted as the intermediary of an accomplice. The inquiry of the court of cassation proved treason was really committed, and he, M. Cavaigne, had not been a conviction of the culpability of Dreyfus solely on the handwriting of the bordereau. In the secret dossier, he pointed out, was one point Colonel Jouanast asked: "What do you think of the Henry forgery in relation to the facts now occupying our attention?" "The Henry forgery," replied M. Cavaigne, "as alleged, was in order to secure a revision of the case by the court of cassation and was not even alluded to. This forgery, therefore, should remain outside the scope of the questions submitted to his court martial. That is my opinion."

He reiterated a statement that General Zurlinden was absent from Paris on the day of the trial.

Further along Colonel Jouanast told Dreyfus to rise and asked him if he had any remarks to make upon the evidence. The prisoner, who had been Cavaigne's arrangement of him had seemed nervous and agitated, replied in a low voice: "I am astounded that the man who produced in the tribunal of the chamber the Henry forgery can come here and base his convictions of my culpability on matters which the court of cassation has so entirely in agreement in their testimony."

The witness also said he found additional proofs of the prisoner's guilt in the technical character of the bordereau and of the bordereau alone, and established the fact that treason had emanated from the bureau of the general staff and from an officer who was able to secure all information desired.

According to M. Cavaigne, even in his attempts to hide his crime the accused had allowed words to escape him which had established his guilt. Everything, according to this witness, condemned Dreyfus.

the sixth of the month and the latter could testify to orders given.

M. Casimir-Perier, in reply to a question, said that before his interview with the minister on the sixth the question of the telegram was given him as he understood it from the report of the general staff and that he had not been asked to cross-examine him and, as he believed, that Dreyfus was guilty.

M. Demange asked General Mercier why he had not included in the dossier of 1884 the doubtful translation of the telegram of agent "B" to his government, under the date of Nov. 2.

In reply General Mercier said not one of the translations of the telegram was communicated to the judges because there still existed doubts in his mind. M. Demange remarked that the text was communicated to Sandherr as official, and therefore doubts were impossible.

M. Demange then asked that M. Palcouque of the foreign office be recalled in order to state that only a single version of the telegram was given him, as he understood it from the report of the general staff and that he had not been asked to cross-examine him and, as he believed, that Dreyfus was guilty.

At this point Major Carrere, the representative of the government, asked that it be clearly shown that two versions of the telegram were given, one official and one semi-official.

M. Demange said that in communicating the official text Nov. 2, Sandherr emphasized its official character.

Colonel next asked General Mercier why the colonel of the secret dossier were so entirely in agreement in their testimony.

The general replied that he considered these explanations were given for the act of the then minister of war (Mercier) in moving 60,000 troops to the frontier without consulting him.

When General Mercier was recalled, in reply to the president of the court, he reiterated his belief that Major Count Esterhazy, in spite of the latter's own declaration, was not the author of the bordereau which, the witness claimed, was written on tracing paper and was found in an embassy.

The president asked M. Casimir-Perier to explain the circumstances of the confession Dreyfus is alleged to have made to Captain Lebrun-Renaud. M. Casimir-Perier persisted in his statement of Saturday that he had never received any confidences of this character from Captain Lebrun-Renaud. He added that M. Dupuy, the then president, was present when Captain Lebrun-Renaud called at the Elysee palace.

"Moreover," said M. Perier, "there is a letter from M. Dupuy, which I ask may be read." The letter asserted that Renault, when questioned by M. Dupuy, replied that General Mercier had sent him to the president to receive a dressing down for his indiscreet disclosures to The Figaro.

General Mercier here interposed, saying: "Captain Lebrun-Renaud spoke to me in regard to the confessions in the presence of General Gouze, who will testify thereto. It was then that I ordered him to go to the president of the republic."

Mercier declared he had given orders for mobilization to General Boislaure on Aug. 14.
