A MISTAKE, SAYS ORVIS.

The Oil Operator Claims He Was Not GUILTY of Forgery—Ellis Held For a Further Hearing Without Bail.

New York, Oct. 31.—William F. Ellis, a Boston promoter, accused of complicity in the larceny on Oct. 5 of $45,000 from the First National bank of Washington, Pa., was arraigned in police court and committed without bail until today. Cashier C. S. Ritchie of the First National bank, Washington, Pa., and James S. Hammond, a borough policeman of the same place, appeared in court against Ellis. Cashier Ritchie testified that the $45,000 had been given to T. J. Vandergrift, who has an office in the building of that name in Pittsburgh. The witness testified further that after forgeries had been discovered and bogus promissory notes had been repudiated by E. L. Parker & Co., bankers, of Baltimore, whose signature was attached, Vandergrift, in the presence of Ellis and at the office of the former, claimed to have sent Ellis certain drafts.

Since this statement was made, on the 19th inst., Mr. Ritchie admitted the bank with which he is connected had received all of the money back with the exception of about $13,000. The attorneys for Ellis made a strenuous effort to secure the discharge of the prisoner. Magistrate Deuel, though expressing the opinion that the case against Ellis was not very strong, decided to hold him for a time for the purpose of allowing the complaining witnesses further opportunity to produce additional evidence.

KILLED A WOMAN SPECTATOR.
Bullet Went Wild Fired by a Fugitive From Justice.

BRONX, Oct. 31.—C. P. Moore of Green River, Ky., resisted arrest for disorderly conduct and a running fight with the officers ensued. Moore emptied a .38-caliber revolver and one bullet, which went wild, passed through the window of a residence, killing Mrs. Lot Henthorn, wife of a clothing salesman, who was watching the fight.

Moore was finally captured after he had received slight wounds in the head and legs. Threats of lynching were made and Moore pleaded piteously for protection. The excitement quickly subsided when Moore had been lodged in jail.

PLACED IN THE TOMB.
Remains of General Henry Rest Near Those of His Old Chief—President at the Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—General Guy V. Henry was given military burial at Arlington, his grave being close to that of his old commander, General Crook. The president and secretary of war and other members of the cabinet attended the services both at the church and at the cemetery. The military escort consisted of a battery of artillery, Troop I of the Third cavalry, now stationed at Fort Myer, where General Henry was once in command, and the members of the Guy V. Henry garrison, a colored veterans' association comprising many of the old troopers of the Tenth cavalry who served under Henry in the west.

St. John's church, where the first service was held, was crowded and the chancel was filled with flowers, conspicuous among them was a great wreath from the executive mansion. The president and Secretary Root came together to the church. There were present also Secretary Hay, Assistant Postmaster General, John L. Hand, M. General Corbin, General Fitzhugh Lee and many other of General Henry's old friends in the service. The pallbearers were General J. M. Wilson, chief of engineers; Judge Advocate General Lieber, General A. W. Greely, chief signal officer, and Generals Frank, Ruggles and Bernard.

FRIARS ORDERED FROM GUAM.
Captain Leary Would Allow Only One to Remain.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The navy department received a report from Captain Leary, the naval governor of the island of Guam, in the Ladrones. The president himself has read the report.

Captain Leary soon learned that his authority as governor was being subverted and every one of the measures of reform which he proposed was being defeated by the hostile influence of the friars. He ordered them out of the island, saying he would give them transportation.

This left but one friar on the island and he was a man whose character and reputation was such as to convince Captain Leary of his fitness to remain.
