

LABOR DAY

Will Have Big Celebration In Akron Monday.

Three Thousand Men to be In Line In the Parade---Good Speaking at Silver Lake---Everybody Turn Out.

Monday will witness the greatest Labor Day celebration in the history of Akron. All the local unions have made extensive preparations for the occasion. The manufacturers and business men generally have joined with the unions in celebrating the day, and a large number of business houses will be represented in the parade.

After the parade, which will move promptly at 9:30, the workingmen will go to Silver lake, where speaking will be held. It had not been decided at the time the Democrat went to press who would deliver the address at the park. The fare to Silver Lake and return will be 15 cents round trip.

In connection with the Labor Day celebration is the big reunion of the C. M. B. A. societies.

The people are invited to decorate their homes and yards and business places along the line of march.

The officers of the day, formation of parade, and line of march follow:

THE PARADE.

The committee on arrangements have given much time and attention to the parade. Every labor organization in Akron, Barberton and Cuyahoga Falls, which contemplates marching has submitted a list of members who will be in line. This list has been furnished the Democrat and is not a mere guess as to probable numbers. This does not include the members of bands, or individuals in the industrial display of floats by merchants and business men.

The unions and laboring men who will be in line will represent all the industries in the city that require skilled, intelligent men. They represent the very bone and sinew of the hundreds of industries in this busy manufacturing center. And to these industrial workers everywhere should be given the credit for maintaining fair wages, obtaining a shorter work day and protecting American labor from the depressing influences of trusts.

Promptly at 9 a.m. Foster's band, the Akron Central Labor union and invited guests in carriages, will form line on east side of Bowery st., south of Exchange, right of line resting on Exchange.
