Mr. Al. Caldwell's production of "Spartacus" this season will be conspicuous alike for the elaborate scenic environment with which it will be invested, and Mr. John Griffith's splendid rendition of the titular role. In the former instance an entirely new effect in stage dressing is exemplified. In the arena scene in the Circo Massimo, or Coliseum, where Spartacus meets and conquers the greatest gladiators of Rome, the whole interior of the vast amphitheater is shown, the auditorium of the theater seemingly completing the arena in whose dust fell so many gallant warriors and heroic martyrs. This scene is, without question, one of the most realistic effects of the modern scene painter's art. Mr. Griffith's production of "Spartacus" is notable also for the arduous and magnificent costumes employed; the former was especially made by Facs and the latter by Herrmann, admittedly the most eminent authority and greatest producer of historical costumes in this country. Taken all in all the forthcoming engagement of Mr. Griffith in Dr. Baird's famous tragedy is to be regarded as one of the most interesting of the season's events. The date is fixed for Saturday Nov. 17th, and is to be for one night only, at the Grand Opera House.

... Its pastoral sentiment is so delicately and daintily woven, its simple little love story is so pure and true, and its environment is so fresh and picturesque that it has never lost the charm of its first production at the Comedie Francaise. It has been given a musical setting by Julian Edwards, making the whole exceedingly tuneful and pretty. Miss Marion Manola, who is thoroughly at home in pastoral-romantic comedy, played the role of Suzel and realized its girlish simplicity and ingenuousness. She sang several numbers, notably "The Legend of St. Clair," "The Nightingale Song," and "Twere Vain to Tell Thee All I Feel," with excellent method and sweetness. In the recitation of the story of Rebecca at the well she showed marked dramatic feeling. The remaining parts were well filled, and each member of the cast contributed to the musical dress of the play. At the Grand, Thursday, Nov. 15.

A Great Medicine.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says Mr. E. S. Phipps, of Poteau, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux. I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. The quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all druggists. E. Steinbacher & Co., wholesale agents.

WILL IT BECOME POPULAR?

How Do You Like This New Fad?

Vegetarians, anti-coffee drinkers and food cranks of every description must now take a back seat for a new fad has the floor.

A society has recently been formed, the members of which pledge themselves to eat no food whatever that has been cooked. They claim that uncooked food is the only rational healthful diet; our remote ancestors ate no cooked food and therefore if we do the same, vigor and health will be our reward.

Raw meat, raw potatoes, raw wheat, raw eggs, raw everything, is the enticing bill of fare held out to the enthusiastic food crank of the future and the society proposes to establish restaurants in the larger cities where this delightful menu may be served daily.

Modern cooking is often a dyspepsia producer, because we fry so many foods which should be baked, roasted, broiled or boiled; fried food is indigestible because each particle of food is incased in hot grease which the digestive juices of the stomach can not easily penetrate; but properly cooked food is more easily digested than the same food uncooked, and we predict for the new fad a very limited following.

The real cause of indigestion is the lack of Hydrochloric acid and pepsines in the stomach so that no matter how well cooked the food, it can not be well digested unless the gastric juice is abundant and contains the necessary amount of pepsines to dissolve the food.

Therefore the most sensible cure for poor digestion is to take after each meal some safe and reliable digestive like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which supply pepsines to digest the meat and eggs and diastase to digest the bread, potatoes and similar starchy foods.

Laxative medicines never cure indigestion because they have no digestive effect whatever upon the food; on the other hand if the food is properly digested there will be no need of laxatives; good digestion does away with constipation.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain pure aseptic pepsin (government test) diastase and the digestive elements which weak stomachs lack and they cure indigestion by assisting the over-worked, rundown stomach in its hard work, until it is restored to its normal condition, when the tablets are no longer needed, but there are thousands of robust men and women who never eat a meal without taking one or two of Stuart's Tablets, because by so doing they can eat what they please and when they please and be free from any bad after effects.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists every where in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

AN INDIAN

Attempted to Kill Former Lake Township Man.

(Special Correspondence.)

Lake, Nov. 14.—Lloyd Richards, son of Mr. Frank Richards, is suffering from the ravages of typhoid fever.

A great many carloads of potatoes have been shipped to Pittsburg from Hartville. The price paid varies from 30 to 35 cents per bushel delivered on track at Hartville.

John McPherson, a well known former citizen of Lake and Green townships, who has charge of a gang of bridge workers on a railroad running through the west line of Wisconsin and into Minnesota, came near being killed by a crazy half breed Indian two weeks ago. Mr. McPherson's wife writes the following account to your correspondent. She says that in passing from one point to another John and his men use a hand car and he had often been asked by a half crazy Indian to be allowed to ride. He accommodated the fellow several times and on one occasion asked him to take hold and help propel the car. The Indian refused point blank, and the next time he asked for a ride, was also promptly refused, which angered him. He appeared sullen and revengeful. A short time since Mr. McPherson had occasion to tighten some bolts on the top of a bridge spanning a creek and sent his men further up the road to do some work while he attended to that. As he was busily engaged, he heard a voice below remark: "Now me got you." On looking down he saw the Indian with a gun pointed at him. A bullet passed through the rim of his hat, close to the ear. In stopping around to get a better view the Indian's left leg went through between two ties of the bridge and he went down to his hip, at the same time his gun fell from his hands, into the creek below. Mr. McPherson now saw his chance, and hastily got down from his lofty position and as he did so the Indian went toward him with an open knife. Mr. McPherson raised the ponderous wrench used to tighten bolts and hurled it at his assailant. The weapon struck the Indian on the forehead and nearly killed him. Soon after, the bridge gang came back and the stricken Indian was taken to Marshfield and turned over to the authorities. He will recover and will be sent to an asylum for treatment.

The plank bridge around the north end of Springfield Lake has become dilapidated and unsafe. The Commissioners upon inspection, have decided to place gravel upon the old timber, obtaining the same from a nearby bank. O. J. Swinehart received the contract and will proceed at once to complete the job before winter. The neighborhood has feared that by placing such an immense weight upon the road it will sink out of sight as it did years ago when a like operation was performed on the old road within a few feet of the present road bed.

NO HIGHER.

Coal Dealers Claim Old Prices Will Prevail.

According to statements of leading coal dealers, the consumers of hard coal in this city will pay no more for coal this winter than they did a year ago.

At the present time the price is $5.75 per ton while during the winter of 1899-1900 the price ranged from $5.75 to $6.

In other cities the dealers are selling for $6.25 which they claim is the direct result of the strike of the anthracite miners. The local dealers were stocked up before the strike occurred and, unless they change their minds, they will not increase the price. It is estimated that there is nearly enough coal in Akron now to carry the city nearly through the winter.
