THE ALLIGATOR. He Is Always in Good Humor When Catching Flies. "The alligator is a funny beast," said the old circus man. "The old fellow we have in the menagerie is a cross tempered chap. Often at feeding time he won't open his mouth, and we tickle the top of his nose. An alligator's nose is very sensitive, and it always makes him very mad. He throws back his upper jaw like a cellar door on hinges. Then we throw in a chunk of beef, five pounds or so, and repeat the performance until we've filled him up with about twenty-five pounds, which it takes to give him a square meal."

THE STIRRUP CUP. My short and happy day is done; The long and lonely night comes on, And at my door the pale horse stands To carry me to unknown lands. His whiny shrill, his pawing hoof, Sound dreadful as a whirling storm, And I must leave this sheltering roof And joys of life go soft and warm. Tender and warm the joys of life; Good friends, the faithful and the true; My rosy children and my wife, So sweet to kiss, so fair to view. So sweet to kiss, so fair to view; The night comes on, the lights burn blue, And at my door the pale horse stands To bear me forth to unknown lands. —John Hay.

Flag at Half Mast For Rags, the Village Mascot

(Special Correspondence.) Cuyahoga Falls, March 6.—The flag is at half-mast over the Town Hall and the greater share of the inhabitants are mourning the death of "Rags Russell" the brightest, cheeriest little optimist in town.

Rags was a Scotch terrier, the village mascot, and was known by every one in the place. Mayor Russell was his legitimate owner, but Rags showed his independent disposition by dividing his love and his time equally between the Mayor and Attorney Orlando Wilcox. One night he would go home with the Mayor, and the next would be likely to find him at Mr. Wilcox's fire-side.

He was a clever little fellow, being termed by the Mayor "The smartest dog in town." He usually quick with his legs and was anything but awkward, and how he happened to let himself get in front of a railway train is an unexplained mystery to his friends. It was probably a moment of carelessness or forgetfulness on the part of Rags, but he was that as it may, as he was crossing the track the iron monster, with nostrils ablaze, came rushing down upon him, and the sun suddenly darkened for Rags, and the lovelight went out of his faithful, kindly eyes forever.

He was loved and welcomed by all, as he made his rounds of friendly visits, and the sorrow felt for him is genuine. May we all live as well and be mourned as sincerely as Rags, who was only a dog, but he did the best he knew.
