

Winter Costumes Will Carry Much Fur and Military Braid

The most popular of all trimmings for dresses suitable for street, motor-ing, or evening wear is fur, fur—and again fur. Fox, wolf, fitch, mink, car-nacul chinchilla and different kinds of lambs' wool, from the wide, fluffy kind to the tight, curly kind, are used for different costumes. But among the most popular of these furs is beaver, possibly because one or two of the famous Parisian courtiers were us-ing it when the war broke out.

A Coat Showing the lines of the Cossack Silhouette

Nutria is often used in place of beaver and so closely resembles it that only those very familiar with furs are able to tell them apart. The nutria is the fur of a South Amer-ican aquatic animal resembling the otter, and called a coypou. The North American otter is also being used for those who can afford such a luxury, a coat of otter costing a small fortune. As a novelty, African monkey fur con- tinues to rank first. It is a long- haired fur, and when finishing the bottom of a tunic, the edge of a hat, or the bottom of the sleeves looks like an irregular silk fringe.

The wide bands of fur which are used on the bottom of the full skirts, or tunics, are a strong reminder of the costumes of the Russian, the Pole and the Cossack. With this as a be- ginning, the designers have harked back for inspiration to costumes of Russians and Tartars of the Middle Ages. Wonderful evening coats are made like the costumes of bartering Tartar tribes. The material is a heavy brocade, almost of the texture of silk tapestry, while the figures scattered across its surface are very Oriental in design. The garment is cut very close-fitting at the shoulders, and with sleeves set in, which flare at the bottom where they are finished with a band of fur. A wide band of fur adds weight and richness at the bottom of the coat, which flares out in deep godet ripples.

Secondary only to fur come braid- ing. The popularity for this is no doubt due to the war abroad. For all we may talk of the barbarity of war our hearts go out to the soldier who is fighting for his country whether he be English, German, Russian, Austrian, or French. There is a glamour about war to the uninitiated which is reflect- ed in the trimming and cut of our clothes.

Wide braid is used on the bottoms of skirts and tunics in place of fur. Narrow braid binds the edges of the tailored costumes and soutache, Her- cules, and round braids are used for braiding dresses, belts, panels, col-lars and cuffs in attractive designs. Wider braid and cord are made into frogs and buttons for the closing of coats and down the front of dresses, giving the military effect. Even modified ep- aulets, made from black or blue braid, are seen on frocks.

Close in the wake of braiding comes beading. Many handsome frocks have belts which are beaded in some at- tractive designs in colors rich and dark, which adds snap and smartness to the entire frock. One blue dress made after the popular Moven Age style had a belt which widened in the front and dropped rather low. This was entirely covered with a beaded design in bronze beads, with now and then a red bead which served to ac- centuate the center of the convent- ionalized flowers. Color combinations of small beads may be used most effec- tively to add touch which tells upon an otherwise somber dress.

Embroidery is also used to a great extent this year. Not the fine small embroidery, but the large sprawly variety, which is done in more or less coarse silk or wool and is most effec- tive.

In the illustration of the coat the Cossack silhouette, which I have spok- en of in the fore part of this letter, may be noted. The closeness of the coat at the shoulders and the flare at the bottom show the latest cut for coats. Skunk fur is used for the roll- ing collar, the cuffs and the bottom of the coat. Frogs add the military note which is so popular on coats of many styles.

This same style may also be noted in coats of fur and fur-cloth, while the bands in this case are of contrast- ing fur. Along-haired fur on the short, close fur, or a fur of merely contrasting color, are combined into a coat of luxurious warmth and good style.

Although the dresses with the ex- aggerated waistline, or no waistline at all, are very much the rage, it has not taken away from the style of the more conservative frocks, whose waist lines remain normal. I have chosen for one of my illustrations a dress in style—unexaggerated, but cut on the latelines. The armhole is small, the shoulders close-fitting, the tunic flares in the latest manner, while the rather wide belt is at the normal waistline. The only trimming of this dress is a braided design which is applied to the belt, the cuffs, the collar and the bot- tom of the tunic. A jaunty little hat which bespeaks comfort in all kinds of weather is worn with the costume.

The small hat vies with the larger hats for the popularity of the majority and the honors seem to be pretty even- ly divided. The woman who finds comfort combined with jauntness in the small hat hesitate to change for the larger hats, but those who have made the change find that the larger hats are conservative enough in size not to cause the discomfort of those worn four or five years back and called the "Merry Widow" and "Peach Basket" hats. From such, Dame Fashion, please deliver us!

Simple, But Cut on the Correct Lines Is this Dress with Trimming of Braid

In winter hats the Cossack shape, as we'll see the Hussar are very smart. The latter are rather high and flat on top, made of cloth, velvet or fur and trimmed with jaunty fancy brush- es of black or white horse-hair. An ornament is usually placed there, as may be seen in the hat worn by the Kaiser's Death Head Hussars, which is a skull and cross-bones. Not cheer- ful, but certainly apropos to the re- sults of war.

The Cossack hats worn this season are made of fur, high and rounding at the top. In chinchilla, mink or beav- er they are most striking.

Mrs. Mackey visited relatives in Akron last week.

Mrs. R. Charlton entertained her sister, Mrs. Buvick of Medina, last week.

Frank Comstock was in town call- ing on friends last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Neubauer have been spending a few days in Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. White are en- joying a two weeks' auto trip in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Elder have moved to Akron. A number of their friends surprised them last Thursday evening.

An interesting meeting of Rich- field grange was held Saturday, with the usual dinner. Four candidates were received in the fourth degree.

Mrs. Moore, of Copley, and Mrs. Powers, of Osborn, O., were guests of Mrs. L. B. Buell last week.

Mrs. Emily B. Conger of Akron, worthy matron of Ellsworth chapter, attended grand chapter, O. E. S., at Toledo last week.

Mrs. H. B. Humphrey and children took dinner with her husband at the Cuyahoga Falls sanitorium last Sat- urday. He is improved in health.

Mrs. E. D. Hancock will spend the winter in Cleveland with her daugh- ter, Mrs. Dr. Hanson.

Owing to some misunderstanding a democratic and a republican meet- ing were billed for Richfield town hall last Saturday evening. Mr. Bathrick and Howard Castle were on hand to talk, and both spoke to the delight of the mixed audience of both parties. This is as it should be in every campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Summers of Canton are here for a few days visit- ing friends.

H. M. Haglebarger of Akron spoke for an hour at the town hall last Sunday evening in favor of state-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic and in denunciation of the saloon.

"I'D RATHER SERVE HIS HOME TOWN. I'd rather serve 18 months in the Warrenville workhouse than keep away from my home town, so lock me up," said Perry Merrill, 40, Wadsworth, when he surrendered to Sheriff David Ferguson in Akron.

Merrill recently was given a suspend- ed workhouse sentence by the mayor of Wadsworth on a charge of threatening his family. The sentence was suspend- ed on condition that he remain out of Wadsworth until Jan. 1. Monday he broke his parole.
