

The High Collor Vies With The Comfort Of The Dutch Square

It is during this season that the New York shops put out many novelties for Spring and Summer to gage the feeling of the American women and see what they want and don't want. Queer little hats appear; for instance, I recently saw one in sailor shape with a large crown not more than an inch in height with a brim about two inches wide. Around the crown was a piece of old-fashioned picot-edged ribbon, which tied in a long bow and the ends flowed in streamers to the shoulders. No doubt this may inspire some ingenious modiste to make this something really worth wearing, but for the hat itself—well, I suppose some woman who is aching for the latest fads in hats may wear it a few times. Another sailor hat had a very small high crown with a wide brim. This also was trimmed with a single length of picot-edged ribbon, which tied with two long loops and ends which fell to the waistline. Of such are fads made!

Tan Crepe Makes a Dress for Approaching Spring

Last year, as a "feeler", crinoline gowns were shown at the early Spring openings, together with the close-fitting Directoire gowns, which really had the greatest influence on the early Spring and Summer styles. These fluffy gowns showed dainty little pants-lets below and, of course, in its adjustment these were dropped off, and merely he full skirts, daintily ruffled, and bodices sometimes pointed in the front and with round dropped shoulder effects were taken. These are prominent features of the dresses which are shown for the Spring and Summer.

This season, the decided Dutch and peasant styles are what the dressmakers are showing to the multitude of women, and it still remains to be seen what will be their decision.

The ample costumes of the Slavic peasant women, who, in some cases, wear twelve or fifteen stiffened petticoats at a time, are proving inspiration for many of the up-to-date costumes, also the coats and smocks of the men, which are equally ample. They are, besides being full, short. This note is becoming more pronounced all the time in the fashionable woman's costume.

Below the peasant's short skirts, which often reach only to the knees, are worn high boots. Paul Poiret tried very hard to introduce high boots, but failed; now the peasant styles have launched them, and already Parisians are wearing boots with their walking costumes—not as high as the knees, but more than half way to the knee. In the United States this idea will probably be modified to unusually high lace or button shoes.

The full skirts are shown with the greater fulness at the sides, which is much more graceful than the barrel shape, which is given by the hoop. A few dressmakers, however, to the contrary, are showing their dresses over a petticoat which is reeded at the knees.

The uneven hem is often the result of this distribution of fulness, and is endorsed by Dame Fashion. Yoke effects have been introduced this season with the yoke often in contrasting color. This yoke is an easy evolution from the low waistline.

Another idea borrowed from peasant costumes is the apron effect, with openings at either side showing a fluffy petticoat beneath.

Costumes and suits show the normal and high waistline, but are distinctly different from the old-time Empire lines. The real Empire line is decidedly ugly with the full skirt, but the slightly raised waistline accompanying the full short skirt is much more artistic than the long-waisted blouses and these same full skirts.

The length of the suit jacket or coat must also be considered in relation to the length of the skirt. Note my second illustration, and the placing of the belt at a short waistline, beneath which the lower part of the jacket shows moderate fulness. The skirt below is full and slightly flaring.

A decidedly new note in the Spring styles is the change in the collars of waists and dresses. The military or high buttoned-up effects will doubtless be the most in evidence. The square or Dutch neck is excellent for Summer frocks, and also the newer Callot neck, which is similar. The dropped shoulder lines of ante-bellum days is the latest novelty and for day wear will be filled in with fichus of net and yokes of lace or embroidery.

The square or Dutch neck is shown in my first illustration, which is developed in soft tan crepe. This is an unusually good model for dresses of different fabrics, such as rep, pique, linen or cotton garbardine.

The long close-fitting sleeve with a small armhole is the favorite at present. The half sleeve of one color and the under-sleeve of another is an extremely effective idea adopted from the Slavic peasant costume. In black and white chiffon it is both striking and attractive.

A Suit on New Empire Lines

Very short sleeves, directly traceable to the long-shoulder line and the 1830 period, are quaint and charming when added to a frock with the drooping shoulder effect.

There are the bell and other shapes for cutting the sleeve and frills of varying widths and design at the wrist, as well as many odd little cuffs, round or pointed.

The trimmings for Spring dresses are varied. For black and white there are jet spangles and white beads in patterns often heavy in appearance, but light in weight. Military braids in black, dreadnaught gray and in colors matching the dress goods shade are used. Japanese and Chinese embroideries will lend their enlivening colors to the neutral colorings which are so smart.

Buttons in brass, silver, gun-metal and steel are in large demand for military costumes, and the vegetable ivory buttons are made in the average colors of dress goods.

HOW FRENCH PEOPLE CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A household remedy of the French peasantry, consisting of pure vegetable oil, and said to possess wonderful merit in the treatment of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, has been introduced in this country by George H. Mayr, who for twenty years has been one of the leading down-town druggists of Chicago and who himself was cured by its use. So quick and effective is its action that a single dose is usually enough to bring pronounced relief in the most stubborn cases, and many people who have tried it declare they never heard of anything to produce such remarkable results in so short a time. It is known as Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and can now be had at all leading drug stores. It is sold with the positive understanding that your money will be refunded without question or quibble if ONE bottle fails to give you absolute satisfaction.

OBITUARY

Mary Eliza Thomas was born at Dalton, Wayne county, December 26, 1839, and died Feb. 12, 1915, at the age of 75 years, 1 month and 16 days.

Her father being a Methodist minister she had no permanent home; living for short periods at Copley, St. Marys, Ashland, Mt. Vernon, Loudenville, Canal Fulton, Richfield and other places. She came to Brunswick from Cleveland in September, 1855. She was married to Wm. H. Newton, Feb. 14, 1861. Had she lived until Feb. 14, they would have been married 54 years.

To this union three children were born—Charles H., Addie C., and Elza A.; Elza died when lacking two days of one year of age, Addie died Feb. 14, 1900. Thus the husband, one son, a son-in-law and two grandsons, with a large number of relatives and friends are left to mourn their loss.

In girlhood she became a member of the church, and her life was one of devotion to it, and of self sacrifice for her home and others.
