(Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.) The concern which persistently and consistently advertises brings to itself great reward in the form of increased business. Fences, rocks and trees are covered with print and paint. The shower of advertising in the shape of handbills is incessant. They are put into one's hand at every step—at the church door and in hotels, in public vehicles, thrust under private doors and sent by millions through the mails.

Glittering Advertising Maze. The only road to commercial success leads through a glittering maze of advertising.
