Dear Folks at Home: Here I am all safe and sound somewhere in France, enjoying the scenery and feeling very fine.

I have been traveling most of the time since I left Camp Lee over two weeks ago and have seen some sights that have been very interesting to me. It is hard to write about our trip as there is so little I can say that will pass the censors. We left the U. S. on Sunday morning and by noon were out of sight of land. The water was very smooth so that seasickness was not general as we expected it would be. I happened to escape with out getting sick and considered myself lucky for I expected to be the first one.

We had very little to do on the boat and most of us spent our time gazing at the sea and roaming around the ship. It only took me two days to get to all parts of it that were available and to me it was a novelty. Our transport was an Italian boat manned by an Italian crew and of course the most of us could not talk to the crew very much.

Nothing of importance happened to us. We saw a few whales and several other kinds of fish, but no submarines. There is very little danger from "Subs" now as all the transports are so well convoyed that a "Sub" would have little chance of doing much damage.

After a successful voyage we landed in France, everyone feeling fine. From the wharf we hiked for about two hours to what is called a rest camp. We expected to have a chance to clean and rest up, but instead we spent our two days in working. It was not so bad, as it gave us a chance to get out and meet the fellows already here. They had a lot of stories for us, but as usual army talk is taken at a discount. From our rest camp we boarded train and proceeded inland until we arrived here. We are still a good distance from the front and no doubt will spend quite a few weeks training near the danger zone. As we have only been here a couple of days we have not started on our training here.

I must close now and get this started back. Write as often as you can for news is scarce over here. With love to all. Mgr. C. A. Ritchie, Co. E, 112 Eng. A. P. O. No. 763 Amer E. F.
