LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS

—Gents' Webster Ties only $1.00 at Frank B. Serage's.

—Gents' Serge Boots only $1.50 at Frank B. Serage's.

—S. P. Hastings has the foundation completed for a house on the east side of Courtland Avenue.

—The death of Mrs. Samuel Wells, at 109 Clinton street, Cleveland, July 7th, is announced in Tuesday's Leader.

—A fine portable engine, from the Springfield works was received yesterday, to be used in furnishing power for our agriculturists.

—Builders and contractors are doing close figuring on the work of the new school building. Bids will be received to the 25th instant.

—Rev. Jas. A. Daly left Monday to join his family at Chautauque. He will return on Saturday, and regular services will be held on Sunday at his church.

—We have received a new supply of N. Y. Tribunes for free distribution. Call for them and leave your names for copies regularly. You will be pleased with it.

—Mr. Huntley has been furnishing very choice berries during the season, bringing raspberries to the door so fresh and perfect that they were a delight to the eye as well as the palate.

—Ladies in want of hair wavy curls, curls, puffs, frizes, invisible hair nets, curlers, pins, hair ornaments, etc., can get them at Mrs. Baird's, North Main Street. 43-2c

—The Norwalk races are in progress this week. The purses offered are liberal, and some fine sport is promised, as a number of prominent trotters are announced to contend for the prizes.

—At the band tournament held at Elyria on the Fourth, the LaGrange band was awarded the first premium and the Penfield band the second. Only two bands were in attendance.

—People who live in narrow quarters all the year round, will not need to go into any cottage by the Sea, if they can devise some way to make themselves a little more comfortable at home.

—Work of boring at the well in the field has been suspended until a steam engine can be obtained, the rather primitive spring-pole having failed on account of the great weight of the drill.

—The reading room of the Foster Campaign Club, is open daily. Next week a supply of all leading daily and weekly papers will be on hand, when everybody will be free to drop in and have access to the files.

—Wellington has a Republican Club of over 300 members. They have furnished two rooms in Vischer's new building and members can here find all the political questions of the day discussed by the leading journals, and all sides of politics can be read.

—The Northern Ohio Photograph Copying Company, located at Norwalk, are canvassing this section to secure orders for copying, enlarging and finishing photographs in India Ink and Crayon. A very fine specimen of their work is on exhibition at this office.

—A project is on foot which meets the approval of the town authorities, by which a supply of gas, sufficient for lighting the town it is claimed, can be obtained. As the work is but commenced, we will defer further particulars of the new enterprise until it is more fully developed.

—A very destructive fire occurred in Cleveland, Tuesday evening, near A. & G. W. freight depot, beginning in Denham's planing mill, destroying that, the Variety Iron Works, Cramer's saw-plant, a large portion of the freight depot, and one large corner of Wood, Perry & Co.'s lumber yards.

—You may write yourself blind, and preach yourself hoarse on general principles, and no notice is taken of your profoundest wisdom; but let your lightest word be suspected of any intemperate application, and there is such a commotion that for a day or two you are ready to resolve to write nothing more while the world standeth.

—Boss Lacey has the lasting gratitude of the travellers of North Main street, for repairs made to the R. R. crossing on east side of street, making it possible to go over with a wheelbarrow or baby carriage without danger of tipping over or dislocating a wheel and with entire safety to one's own limbs. It has been a nuisance for many years and we are glad it was abated.

—In behalf of others as well as ourselves, we wish to express an appreciation of the good order and absence of annoying and destructive demonstrations here on the Fourth of July. A more quiet Fourth was never experienced, and more than one citizen who has heretofore suffered from the breaking of glass by cannon shooting, have expressed thankfulness not to have damages to repair this year, and were very happy to miss the big bonfire and the usual riot to property.

—Ladies' Button and Tie Walking Shoes cheap at Frank B. Serage's.

Mrs. Anna Wadsworth was unable to go to her mother, Mrs. Dr. Blanchard, in her last hours, though she was with her nearly a week in the early part of her sickness, since which time she has been kept at home by illness.

The Alumni Banquet.

On the evening of June 23d, a large company of young gentlemen and ladies gathered at the American House for the annual banquet of the Alumni of the Wellington High School.

The assembly was called to order by Mr. N. T. Horr, President.

The reading of the histories of the classes was first in order.

The histories of classes '73 and '75 being absent, the history of class '77 was first read. Mr. Blair Doland, who was historian for this class, was sparkling with humor, and fairly brought down the house.

Mr. Arthur Allyn's history of the class '78, was short and to the point. Correspondence from absent members was next on the programme, and an interesting letter was read by Miss Nangle, the Secretary, from Mrs. Hawkins, of Cloverdale, Cal., a member of the class of '75.

Supper was then served, and was followed by the toasts, the feature of the evening.

The following toasts were responded to, Mr. E. G. Rust acting gracefully as toast-master.

"Our Graduates: as they toll up the hill of prosperity may they never meet."—E. A. Van Cleef.

"Class of '70: a welcome and valuable addition to our ranks. May your enthusiasm and integrity ever keep you abreast of the times."—B. C. Carter.

"Pedagogues."—F. Strevick.

"The District school Mass: may the chickens be plenty, the boarding houses many, but the feather beds few."—Gertrude M. Johns.

"Cornell Freshmen."—N. T. Horr.

"Our Nestlings: prospects of Alumni. May their future labors be as potent as their present cries, and may our Alma Mater realize in them her highest expectations."—Mr. B. H. Herrick was to respond to this toast, but in his absence it was a theme of silent meditation.

"The Ladies: fascinating as friends, lovable as sisters, and delightful as sweet-hearts."—K. C. Horr.

"Professor and Mrs. Wean: whose work, though ended, must ever live."—Mr. Wallace Barker being absent, Mr. E. G. Rust made a few remarks, followed by a very happy speech from Mr. Wean.

The resolutions were, every one, in the highest sense, satisfactory.

The old American House dining room was probably never the scene of a pleasanter occasion than this. The last echoes of oratory and laughter having died out, the ladies and gentlemen returned to the parlor.

After the Secretary's report, the annual election of officers took place. The following officers were chosen:

President, Mr. Blair Doland.

Vice President, Miss Fannie Austin.

Treasurer, Mr. E. A. Van Cleef.

Secretary, Miss Addie Tripp.

HISTORIANS.

Class of '73, Miss Orrie Warner.

Class of '75, Mr. E. A. Van Cleef.

Class of '77, Mr. R. C. Horr.

Class of '78, Miss Gertrude Johns.

Class of '79, Mr. A. B. Rust.

Editor in Chief, Mr. N. T. Horr.

ASSISTANT EDITORS.

Class of '73, Miss Edith Dickson.

Class of '75, Mr. E. G. Rust.

Class of '78, Mr. B. H. Fisher.

Class of '79, Miss Elsie Chapman.

After the election of officers, Miss Gannett, the editor-in-chief, read the Alumni paper, which was composed of contributions from various members of the Alumni.

Miss Warner was then given the floor, and as she arose, two other ladies also arose, and two elegant chairs were brought to view. Miss Warner in a few well chosen remarks, presented the chairs to Mr. and Mrs. Wean, in the name of the Alumni.

Mr. Wean then addressed the Alumni, in a touching and appropriate speech of thanks.

The exercises of the evening were interspersed with music given by Mrs. Herrick, Miss Fannie Austin, Miss Wolcott, and Messrs. Hudson, Wadsworth, and Fisher.

A pleasant conversation closed the evening's entertainment, and it is to be earnestly hoped that every member of this large and rapidly increasing family, may be present at its next annual banquet.

ADDIE M. TRIPP, Sec'y.

Director's Meeting.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Lorain, Wooster & Perry County Railroad Co., was held in Oberlin on Friday of last week. E. Vernon of St. Louis, President; G. Hogan of Lorain, Vice President; O. F. Carter of Oberlin, Secretary; R. A. Horr of Wellington; R. H. Penfield of Elyria; H. B. LaRue of Hornellsville, N. Y., and J. H. Kaake of Wooster, were present.

The President reported that he had made negotiations with the Cleveland & M. Vernon Road, which if consummated, will materially shorten the line of road to be built by this company and reduce the total amount of local aid required. The negotiations were approved by the directors, and the President was instructed to submit the same to the gentlemen who propose to furnish the greater part of the capital and report at the next meeting. The Secretary was instructed to advertise according to law, the proposed increase of capital stock, from $500,000 to $1,200,000. The notice will be found in this paper. A meeting of the Directors will be held in Oberlin, August 5th. (Oberlin News.)

Dairy Matters.

A writer in the N. Y. Herald thinks it profitable to raise the calves, and that no stock brings proportionately as high prices or command as ready sale as weaned calves, and more profit in the first year's keeping than any subsequent one. He lets the calf stay with the mother a day or two, then shuts it from her sight until it is very hungry, gives it new milk for ten days or until it drinks well and starts to grow. Then mix half-skim milk with the new milk and put it into a tub. The calf will begin feeding itself when it is short of milk, and when the calf will eat four large ears a day slack of the fat-feed.

"Honor to Whom Honor."

The great State of Ohio is about to enter upon another campaign. The press of the whole country speaks of the coming contest in Ohio as likely to exert more influence upon the next Presidential election than that of any other State in the Union. The nominations for State officers are already made, and were no doubt, in a great measure made by rings. It now remains for the people to consider which party has made the most judicious nominations. The next thing in order will be of course be made by rings and cliques in the same way. Would it not be well to nominate the ticket at once, and save the trouble of calling for nominations and the people the humiliation of acting as jumping-jacks for political tricksters and wire pullers.

During the years of the war, when in obedience to the call of Father Abraham, over one-half of the voters in the State had enlisted for the war, the promises of place and position for the brave boys in blue, when this cruel war should be over, were long and loud. We regret that we have not always kept these promises, in their letter and spirit. The South rewards her soldiers and never forgets to crowd them into places of honor and power, and we are already getting a foretaste of the tyranny we shall be under when she comes into power. Let us be faithful to our promises and put our brave soldiers forward to meet them, and counteract their treacherable designs upon our government. J. W. HOUGHTON.

Scissors and Pen.

The Alpaca Mills, at Kent, will soon be completed.

There is no better culture in the world than agriculture.

Two Berea residences were plundered in the day time last week.

Medina, Elyria, Litchfield and Berea have been lately visited by Burglars.

The new paper started at Greenwich, needs to insert the name of the town in its title.

Mrs. C. L. Boldrick, daughter of A. N. Beecher of Oberlin, died in Colorado, June 27th, of heart disease.

Miss Mary L. Briggs, a graduate of Ann Arbor Medical College, has opened an office for practice in Oberlin.

New London loses its school superintendent this year, and T. G. Lopez of Large, Marion county, succeeds Mr. Cooper, who returns to Pennsylvania.

Charles Ives of Columbia was kicked in the abdomen by a horse which was unbiting from a mowing machine, and died from the injury in less than two days after.

Ira Mattison has exchanged his grocery stock with H. B. Franks for a house and lot in Wellington. Mr. Franks will dispose of the stock in some shape soon.—(Oberlin News.)

H. E. Chittenden, formerly superintendent of Oberlin Public Schools, died of consumption in California recently, where he had gone for his health six months ago. His family are in Oberlin.

The Ober-Murray Comedy Company after finishing their engagement at Ashland, will disband for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Dalton will spend the summer in Cincinnati; the others in Michigan.

Children below the age of certain grammar classes were excluded from the High School Commencement at Elyria. They had heretofore been brought in swarms, simply because the entertainment was free.

Willie Semple, a ten-year-old boy of Elyria, fell from a chestnut tree, twenty-five feet, striking his head upon a log, and was not killed. Ten-year-old boys disposed to climb like that need a guardian when at their play.

Apartments on the seventh and eighth floors of New York building, at the same rent, are preferred to the lowest rooms. So desirable is it to be away from dust and insects and the noise of the street, the elevator overcoming the objection to distance.

The deceased was born in Palenstown, N. Y., where she was reared to mature life; was married here to Dr. Blanchard, aged about seventy-two years.

She seems fitting that more than the above be said of the deceased. It would be unjust to her memory and living friends not to say Mrs. Blanchard was a lady of uncommon worth. This worth her family and acquaintances gratefully concede to one whose life was especially earnest and devoted to all its duties. Possessed of excellent native capabilities, these were cultivated in the most industrious habits so that life to her was fruitful of good deeds. Her qualities of mind and heart made her unobtrusively, patient and persevering. She was unselfish. Her own wants were never urged, they seemed to be met by supplying the wants of those around her, and thus as wife, mother, and friend, she was highly worthy of admiration and to be imitated.

Her home was her throne, her family her pride. No husband ever had a better wife, no children ever mourned the loss of a better mother. Her zealous care of these was extreme and self-ignoring self, ease and waste of strength. Whatever honor is to be attached to a provident, patient, complete house-keeper and protectress, is to be awarded to her.

In addition to her own household, her friends were welcomed to generous hospitalities. In religion, Mrs. B. accepted of the philosophy of the orthodox belief, practically evidencing her estimate of it by Christian deeds. In this belief she died, leaving assurance to her friends that "to die for her was great gain." Early in her illness she expressed her expectation of inability to recover and later gave quietly her wishes in relation to memorials to be worn, and other suggestions of burial and memorial at her grave.

Thus has lived and passed from earth one "who hath done what she could," and whose memory will ever be held dear to family and friends.

"Another hand is beckoning us, Another call is given, And glows once more with angel steps, The path which leads to heaven." S.

—Father Drumgoole's Proteges.—There is a "very worthy Catholic priest in New York, whose heart warmed years ago toward the friendless urchins who circulate the great newspapers of the metropolis. Agents as they are, in their small way, of some of the most prosperous institutions in the country, until Father Drumgoole rose up as their advocate, two-thirds of the childless hospitalities, in religion, Mrs. B. accepted of the philosophy of the orthodox belief, practically evidencing her estimate of it by Christian deeds. In this belief she died, leaving assurance to her friends that "to die for her was great gain." Early in her illness she expressed her expectation of inability to recover and later gave quietly her wishes in relation to memorials to be worn, and other suggestions of burial and memorial at her grave.

Thus has lived and passed from earth one "who hath done what she could," and whose memory will ever be held dear to family and friends.
