Promoting General Miles to the position of Major-General has caused quite a good deal of jealousy to arise among the West Point graduates. General Miles never attended a military school, but received his military education by practical service in the field. If rank is conferred upon individuals that never spent their time to obtain a military education what object is there in attending such a school. We believe that the West Pointers have a just cause for grievance. The President nor his Secretary of War never devoted any time to military matters, hence did not in this case weigh the difference between an actual military education and one acquired by service. Gen. Miles is a good man for the place but we are inclined to think that a military education should be encouraged, and those who devote the time set apart to obtain it should have the preference when promotions are made.

The special correspondent at Elyria to the Cleveland daily papers appears to take unusual pains to look over the cases filed in Common Pleas Court against citizens of Wellington and report a substance of the petition that is derogatory to the defendants. This, in our judgment, is a very bad course to pursue and should not be permitted. Alleging a thing and sustaining it is an entirely different thing. The better and more honorable plan would be to wait until the allegations are sustained, then it will be ample time to hurl such news broadcast. The special reporter might report some of the alleged crookedness that takes place in Elyria and give us a rest for a time, but this will not likely be resorted to.

The people of Georgia have shown themselves up to be up to date. Since the war closed no backward steps have been taken, but a constant climbing to get to the front, and they have got there. All of the slave customs have been done away with and Northern plans adopted. Some of the States have been non-progressive; the same old customs are still enforced that were common to all before Fort Sumpter was fired upon. Now let the electors of Georgia elect a Republican State ticket and continue to do so for a few years and she will rank with the Buckeye or Hoosier States. There is nothing like progress.

President Smith, of the Mormon Church, in Salt Lake, issued orders some time since that his members should not enter into political matters without his approval. As the time approaches for the Territory to enter into statehood, a number of the leading subordinates in the Church have aspirations to secure political plums and have wholly disregarded the order of the head of the Church. It is said that President Smith is desirous of blocking the way to statehood until he can get better control of affairs.

On account of the appropriation of money being exhausted for the completion of the armory in Cleveland, the County Commissioners do not like to take the responsibility of completing the building until the General Assembly convenes and comes to their relief. The general conference of the M. E. Church is to convene in that city May 1, 1896, and if a guarantee is not given within a few days that the armory will be completed the conference will convene elsewhere.

A drug firm in Elkhart, Ind., are sending out blanks for signatures to present to Congress, praying that Cuba be recognized as a belligerent power. The proprietors of this drug house evidently think they see a good chance to advertise a little with a small outlay of money and have improved this opportunity. The gentlemen may be excellent judges of the drugs they handle, but not likely to be quite so well read up on international law.

In the eighty-eight counties in the State, 968 persons are elected to transact the business. In the 1500 townships, 13,500 are elected. This does not include precincts, nor positions created by special laws in the large cities. 137 are elected to the legislative department, six to the judicial and twelve to the executive department.

A saloonkeeper or bartender cannot enter into the secrets of Odd Fellowship.

The papers in the City of Cleveland are making loud calls for a law to be passed to make them ineligible as jurors. The next move will doubtless be to disfranchise them. This shows that the saloon business is not looked upon with favor in some localities.

President Cleveland has been away from office since early in June, but still draws his pay. If any other employe had been absent over thirty days, unless detained by sickness, he would have been dismissed from further service. Grover has assumed the style of the kings across the water. We will try and elect a man next time that is not possessed of quite so much taste for fishing and hunting.

The Lorain County Banking Company met for organization on Tuesday and elected the following officers: Bank directors, Messrs. Parks Foster, S. B. Day, I. D. Faxon, R. T. Reely, James F. Flower, T. L. Fuller, W. G. Sharp, O. K. Starr, J. E. Boynton, George E. Crisp, John A. Williamson. Mr. Foster was chosen president, Mr. Day vice-president and Mr. Fuller treasurer and cashier.

The Treasurer, of Medina County, brought an action against the Ohio Farmers' Insurance Company to compel them to pay $60,000 upon property that the plaintiff claimed that the defendant omitted to list. It required several days to try the case and a verdict was returned in favor of the defendant. The State will probably appeal.

Ex-Senator Mahone died in Washington, D. C., last week. The deceased made an effort to be a Republican, merely for a purpose, but was a Democrat at heart; therefore he had no friends in either party. He was an able Lieutenant of Gen. Lee during the war, and fought hard to sustain the stars and bars.

Secretary Carlisle has not proved himself to be a master head in the treasury department. He appears to have no idea how to create revenues when the condition of the treasury demands it, and the result is a deficit all the while. At this rate our paper will soon go to protest.

The managers of bruisers Corbett and Fitzsimmons have decided to have the mill in Hot Springs, Ark. The Governor should place the State under martial law if he is not empowered any other way, and prevent the disgraceful affair from taking place.

At a majority of the conferences of churches held this year, the sentiment has been in favor of permitting the women to enjoy the entire freedom of the Church, and in a very short time it will doubtless become a recognized law.

Uncle Jim Campbell has hard work to find anything to say this fall. He might go back and tell the people how he happened to leave the State treasury in the condition he did when he retired from office.

Keep-off-the-grass Coxe makes but little impression upon the people with his speeches. Coxe wants the government to do something that is not consistent with the rules of business.

Anti-saloon services were held in ninety churches in Cleveland, Sunday. Make the saloon an unpopular place to visit and its influence will soon weaken.

The small vessels on the lakes had a rough time of it Sunday afternoon and Monday. Three men lost their lives off the shore of Lorain Monday.

Foraker and Bushnell electrified the people in Elyria and Cleveland, Saturday afternoon and evening.

The W. & L. E. company has signed a contract for the shops to remain in Massillon for another decade.

Calvin S. Brice, of New York, is making a desperate effort to be elected Senator from Ohio.

The trial of Col. Coit, at Circleville, is still in session. The State rested Friday afternoon.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Secretary Olney, the man who has been widely advertised by Democrats as the originator of the "vigorous foreign policy" which is to be put into effect—accent on the is to be—has made a bad start by pleading the baby act. He was asked this week what, if anything, the administration proposed to do about the Cuban revolutionists. The man who asked the question occupies a position which entitled him to a reply, otherwise Mr. Olney would have given him the usual silent bluff with which he parries the questions of newspaper men and other inquisitive individuals. Not daring to do that he fell back on the baby act, and said that the reports were so conflicting that he had up to this time found it impossible to ascertain the true status of affairs in Cuba; that the Spanish minister insisted that the revolt was a mere nothing and would soon be stamped out, and that the rosy pictures of the revolutionists, successes which appear from time to time in the newspapers were manufactured in this country. He intimated that it might be necessary to send a confidential agent to Cuba to investigate before the administration decided what position it would take. It is significant that State Department officials cite two precedents for the idea of sending a confidential agent to Cuba. In 1816, before acknowledging the independence of the revolting Spanish colonies in South America, President Monroe sent three commissioners in a U. S. man-of-war to investigate the situation, and in 1848, when Daniel Webster was Secretary of State, President Taylor secretly commissioned a confidential agent to go to Hungary and ascertain the chances the Hungarians had for success in their revolt against Austrian rule, an act which caused strained relations between this country and Austria, although the revolt was put down before the agent got to Hungary, and gave Mr. Webster an opportunity to write one of his strongest state papers. There is reasonable ground for the suspicion that Mr. Cleveland has already appointed a confidential agent, and that the man is now in Cuba.

Mr. Castle, the new Hawaiian minister, who has been in Washington for ten days, but who has not yet been officially received as such by the administration, denies in the most positive terms the sensational statements contained in a Hawaiian publication brought to the United States on the last steamer, to the effect that the Hawaiian republic was on the verge of dissolution.

The Lima school board has taken measures to prohibit the use of tobacco and cigarettes among pupils. The practice had reached alarming proportions.

Some papers are still attacking Lady Henry Somerset and impeaching her sincerity, because she derives income from rents containing saloons. This attack, where it does not spring from ignorance, is thoroughly dishonest. Lady Henry made every possible effort to abolish those saloons, but was stopped by the courts because of the complex relations of her estate, under English law, to her descendants and to certain permanent leases.—The Christian Advocate, (N. Y.)

Mrs. Jane Bashford, the accomplished wife of President Bashford, of Delaware, was recently elected by the Ohio conference one of the lay delegates to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The young ladies of the Zlac Rowing Club, San Diego, Cal., christened their new boat by using carbonized mineral water, which will fizz quite as well as champagne. The San Diego Sun says: "The new woman in all these matters, wherein she is beginning to take an active part, is breaking away from many traditions, little else than stupid, and certainly misleading. All honor to the Zlacs."

The protest of the Disciple Church, at Rocky River, against being disturbed during its services by the noise in adjoining beer-gardens, was answered by the burning of the church.—Ohio Messenger.

Father and Son Killed by Rioters at Tonawanda, N. Y.—Numerous Arrests Follow.

TONAWANDA, N. Y., Oct. 8.—A double murder was committed on P. W. Scribner's lumber docks at an early hour Monday morning and up to the present time fourteen men have been placed under arrest and search is being made for others.

Shortly after midnight Capt. Phillips, of the canal boat Jennie Graft, and his son, of the boat May, began loading with lumber. Other boatmen who had refused to take loads at the price Scribner offered, marched down in a body to the dock and interfered. Phillips drew a revolver and fired over the heads of the crowd, probably seeking to intimidate them. Some one, exactly whom has not been learned, pulled a gun and fired three shots at Phillips, who fell to the deck of his boat dead.

The younger Phillips, who had taken a hand in the melee, was struck down with a club, and horribly beaten. He managed to crawl into the cabin, where he died at 8:15 a. m. The authorities were notified and the police arrested fourteen boatmen who are known to have participated in the fatal melee. Other arrests will be made.

The greatest excitement prevails along the docks and hundreds have visited the scene of the double crime.

Murdered by Sandbaggers.

BEMENT, Ill., Oct. 8.—An unknown man was found Sunday along the Wabash railroad twenty-five miles east of here in an unconscious condition and died Monday without regaining consciousness. He was sandbagged and robbed. His pockets were turned inside out and rifled, and it is supposed to be a clear case of murder. He was well dressed and about 40 years of age.

Rightful Railway Disaster.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 8.—A passenger train came into collision with a freight train between Wavre and Ottignies, about eighteen miles from this city, Sunday night, and most of the cars of both trains were wrecked. Eighteen persons were killed outright and nearly 100 were injured, some of them fatally. The list of fatally wounded is also likely to be increased, as at least 25 of the injured are dangerously hurt. The engine of the freight train struck the passenger cars, two of which were crowded with men and women. These cars were telescoped and a third was thrown on top of them.
