

NEW YORK LETTER

From our own Correspondent. New York, Nov. 5, 1881. Ed. Northwest—Dear Sir: I thought this evening that I would send a short letter for the columns of your interesting paper. I will write concerning that which is to me the most interesting.

The great advantage in coming to Union Theological Seminary is to hear the great preachers. This is more valuable to a student than any lectures on preaching. Since I came to the institution I have made it a special point to hear as many ministers as possible. As soon as one Sabbath is spent I long for the next.

Last Sabbath in the morning I heard Rev. Robert Collyer, he was formerly in Chicago. He is now preaching in the church of the Messiah corner 34th street and Lexington Avenue. His church is elegantly fitted up. The seats and galleries are made of black-walnut. The walls and ceiling are frescoed in light colors. The general impression is very fine. The text was taken from Christ's sermon on the mount, Math. 5, 16. "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in Heaven."

He brought out that it is the duty of every living being to let the light of God within him shine forth. God, he said, dwells in every human heart. Sometimes the light may be dim but it is the duty of the individual to manifest it to the world as much as possible. He said that along the coast of England there are numerous light-houses to keep the mariners off the reefs and guide them on their course. These lights represent not the keepers of them who attend to the lights, but the heart of England. So the Christian soul should represent to men in sin and iniquity the glorious light of God. He said a great many people are all the time talking about this light, but they omit the more important matter of letting it shine. It is not necessary to occupy a prominent position in life to let your light shine, it may be revealed just as truly by one in the humblest circumstances. He said that in his ministry he had generally found the most faithful workers among those who had little of this world's goods.

He wound up his discourse by saying, let us make our lives luminous with goodness, let our hearts be gentle and our hands be open. And then when we all get together, we will meet some who will say, I would not have been here to-day if you had not let that light shine. When Mr. Collyer got through I said to myself, by profession you are a Unitarian, but from that sermon and the impressive way in which you delivered it, I believe that the light of the gospel has shone in your soul. He is interested in a number of benevolent enterprises here and is doing a great amount of good. He dismissed the audience by pronouncing the usual benediction. This surprised me a little as it is one of the proof texts for the Trinity.

In the entire service I noticed nothing that an orthodox person could object to. If Mr. Collyer frequently preaches as he did last Sabbath I would say God speed thee in thy glorious work. In the afternoon I attended a meeting at the Broadway Tabernacle, convened for the purpose of considering the cause of French-Protestant missions in New England. It appears that there are now over 100,000 Canadian French in Massachusetts. These are mostly Roman Catholic. About four years ago a French Protestant church was started in Lowell, Mass. It has now 100 communicants and a $10,000 chapel. Rev. T. G. A. Cote, the Pastor, is desirous of spreading the evangelistic work into all the manufacturing towns in New England. He made an interesting and enthusiastic speech. He said he was twenty years a Roman Catholic and finally lost all faith in his religion. By faith in Jesus Christ as the Saviour of men he has been led back to Christianity and to a devoted Christian life. Dr. Prune, of the New York Observer, followed him, and emphasized the importance of the work. He said that the Yankees were ceasing to do the drudgery work and these foreigners were taking their places. He thought there would be great danger in leaving them unevangelized. Next came Dr. Hitchcock, President of Union Theo. Seminary. He made a speech that I heartily agreed with, the jest of which was Roman Catholicism as a Christian religion. It is the religion of the middle ages. But it has been surpassed by Protestantism. Nothing is to be gained by abusing Roman Catholics, we should give to them their due.

What we should do is to try and show our Roman Catholic brethren the surpassing excellence of Protestantism. His way of off-setting Roman Catholicism would be by preaching to all men the gospel of Jesus Christ. He would not force others to accept of what he considered true Christianity so much by argument as he would win them by the power of love. I noticed a press reporter sitting in the seat before me (who was probably a Roman Catholic) when one of those engaged in the work in New England abused the Roman Catholics, his face became white and he muttered something indicative of anger. That a Roman Catholic should have done so did not surprise me. But when Dr. Hitchcock was speaking of overcoming those opposing us not by abuse, but by the power of the gospel he nodded his head in assent. That the Doctor's remarks had such an effect on such a person rejoiced me and taught me a valuable lesson. The collections taken up could not have been large, as the audience was rather a small one. But now that this matter has been made so prominent it will probably receive greater consideration in the future. With best wishes for your rising enterprising town, I remain, Yours truly, R. E. A.

GOING IT STRONG.

A Toledo Newspaper Prohibited from Circulating By the Sheriff. [Special Dispatch to the Enquirer.]

TOLEDO, OHIO, November 6.—The entire edition of the Sunday Democrat was again taken in by the Sheriff late last night in the hands of the Express Company, by whom it had just been brought from Fremont, and the forms were taken about the same time in the office of the Fremont Messenger. The papers had been shipped here in a large box, addressed to a party in this city to whom the publishers claimed to have sold the whole edition, but there was no opportunity to get out a writ of replevin. The Democrat's difficulty grows out of a libel suit brought against it by Hon. N. M. Howard, of this city, and, in course of legal procedure, the office was closed by the Sheriff three weeks ago. The proprietors claim that last night's seizure was illegal.

Ohio's Growth.

The third State in the Union increased from a population in 1870 of 2,665,200 to 3,108,289 in 1880. Of this aggregate, 1,614,185 are males and 1,494,104 are females, the masculine portion of the population preponderating by 30,081. In this particular Ohio is inferior to the old Bay State, in which the number of females is in excess of the number of males by several thousand. This is an inferiority, however, characteristic of Western States, and conspicuous in proportion as the State is more recently settled. The sterner sex naturally is the bolder pioneer.

Taken by counties, the increase of population in Ohio discovers some unexpected figures. Cuyahoga County leads all other counties in the State, her increase amounting to upward of 64,000. Our own Hamilton, which ought to have been first, is second, with 53,000. There are reasons for believing that the relative positions of these two counties in the percentage of increase will be found to have changed at the end of the present decade. The wonderful revival in railroad interest in Cincinnati will not be without a marked effect upon the growth of the city.

The third county in rank of increase is Franklin, and the fourth Lucas. The former shows an increase of more than twenty-three thousand, and the latter of more than twenty thousand. Montgomery is fifth, and Stark County sixth. In all these counties showing large gains a large city is located. The counties which betray the smallest gains are those which are more devoted to agriculture and stock-raising than to mining or manufacturing. To this statement Meigs county, with an increase of only 860, is an exception. The counties of Morrow and Geauga show, respectively an increase of only 490 and 65. Morgan county alone shows a decrease of 289. The history of the population of Geauga County rarely has a parallel in this country. In 1810, five years after being formed, the population of this county was 2,917; 1820, 7,791; 1830, 15,813; 1840, 16,297; 1850, 17,827; 1860, 15,817; 1870, 14,190; 1880, 14,255. To this Western Reserve county immigration seems wholly to have ceased, and the death rate more of the time to have exceeded the birth rate.

Ashland county has now but 33,883 people, and in 1850, thirty years ago, she had as many lacking 70. Carroll county had a population of 18,108 in 1840; last year the population was 16,416. Guernsey county was inhabited by 27,197 souls last year, and in 1840 the county had a population of 27,748. Harrison county numbered 20,916 people in 1830, and a half century later numbers 20,455. In 1840 the population of Knox county was 29,579; in 1880 it was 27,450. In thirty years the population of Morgan county has dwindled from 28,586 to 20,074.

The county reporting the greatest number of deaths is Hamilton, and the county reporting the least number is Harrison. There are several counties with fewer inhabitants than Harrison, and none with more than Hamilton.

THE SUN.

New York, 1882. The Sun for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The Sun's light for mankind and woman-kind of every sort; but its general warmth is for the good, while it pours its discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

The Sun of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper. By a liberal use of the means which an abundant property affords, we shall make it better than ever before. We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with The Sun. Whenever important news worth reporting, big or little, the publisher, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bohemia.

In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not know and read like The Sunday edition, each under its title, is a paper that is setting living, with the best poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good work-reporting big or little.

Four ideas of what a newspaper should be please you, send for The Sun. In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.
